PEACE PATTERN MAY COME SOON

World Should Know Prospects Within Three Or Four Weeks

SOVIET DELEGATE STATES REFUGEE ISSUE POLITICAL

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The world should learn fairly well in the next three or four weeks how much chance it has for an organized, lasting peace.

The United States atomic control plan laid before the United Nations yesterday by Bernard Baruch completes the American master pattern of peace organization.

The foreign ministers' conference opening in Paris today is the start of what seems certain to be a show-down with Russia on European settlements.

Washington diplomats are keeping one eye on the progress of the atom plan in New York, and the other on Paris. They say that if the great powers can work together to harness the atom and draft the peace treaties, they can solve eventually all their other problems. If they fail, no one seems certain that they will be able to solve anything important.

It is because the blue chips are down in this final sense that the White House and state department both have sought in recent weeks to discourage renewed talk of a Big Three meeting to try to find a way around the difficulties. American officials privately contend there is no simple formula, no easy way out, but only the possibility of prolonged peace if all nations show good will in working together.

The pattern of peace which the atomic plan completes is constructed on the primary assumption that Russia, Britain and the United States are moved primarily by a desire for security and peace.

U. S. AND BRITAIN CLASH WITH RUSSIA

STRIKERS, BOSSES IN ANNUAL PICNIC

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(AP)—It takes more than a strike and differences over working conditions to make workers and bosses at the White Motor Co., call off their annual picnic.

About 4,000 C. I. O. United Automobile Workers struck at the White plant June 4, demanding an 18 1/2 cents hourly pay raise. Today, strikers and employers mingled at the company's yearly outing at Euclid Beach park.

Union officials declared "we aren't mad at anybody," and added "there's nothing in this strike that says we can't enjoy a picnic with the bosses."

And a company official said the picnic is an affair that goes on year after year, in good times or bad, "during strikes or what have you."

COLONEL AND WAC DEMAND RELEASE

Deny Any Guilt In Disappearance Of Kronberg Castle Jewels

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—An army colonel and his WAC wife, held in the Kronberg castle jewels case, asserted today that they had admitted nothing "which they considered criminal" and demanded that the war department release them or state its charges, "if any."

Held at an undisclosed army post not far from Washington, the couple, Col. Jack W. Durant and Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, issued a statement through counsel assigned them by the military.

They were taken into custody a week ago at Chicago while on their honeymoon after the War department had begun an investigation into the disappearance of approximately $1,500,000 in jewels and other relics from a German castle at which the army said both had been stationed.

War department officials said part of the missing gems were located at Hudson, Wis., and that most of the rest were found in a Chicago railway station locker after Col. Durant had furnished officers with the key.

Capt. Frank M. Bosworth, assistant staff judge advocate for the military district of Washington, serving as interim counsel for the Durants, said:

"All information available up to the present time has come from sources that are primarily interested in establishing that a fabulous amount of jewelry was recovered from Germany under circumstances which amount to criminality."

He added that the couple "are only reasonable in their desire to correct certain impressions that have apparently been created by information previously conveyed to the public."

"Col. and Capt. Durant want it

GEORGIA AIMS TO END KU KLUX KLAN

ATLANTA, June 15.—(AP)—The state of Georgia, where the modern Klu Klux Klan was born in 1916, aims to break the national organization of the hooded order in a suit to be filed next week, State Attorney General Eugene Cook said today.

Declaring at a press conference, that Atlanta was the "national headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan," Cook said the organization operated nationally under its Georgia charter.

It is this charter the state will seek to revoke in a civil court suit. One of the grounds for revoking the charter, Cook said the state would contend, is "unlawful assemblies" of the organization.

The charter, first issued in 1916, became inactive in 1944 when the imperial wizard James A. Colescott declared the Klan dormant. It was made active again in March this year when back dues were paid.

Colescott is still listed as president of the organization.

Cook said the state intended to prove that the association of Georgia Klans which Dr. Samuel Green, Atlanta physician, heads as grand dragon, is operating under the original Klan charter. It is Green's organization which has been active recently, and Green contends it is not part of chartered knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.

Cook said his office was investigating whether the flogging of a south Georgia Negro, Willie Dudley, was the work of the Klan.

Number Of Idle In Strikes At Lowest Point In Many Months

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The C. I. O.-supported committee for Maritime unity, with one dock strike just averted, announced tonight plans for a $2,000,000 "strike fund" and for world-wide meetings in preparation for new contract negotiations September 30.

The C. M. U., headed by Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran as co-chairmen, disclosed plans for "joint conferences with the Maritime unions of other nations" during the summer preparatory to a new Maritime crisis next fall.

This indication of future labor front difficulties came as peace was just returning to the nation's waterfronts. The labor department was viewing the strike outlook, with last night's Martime dispute settlement as background, as the best in months.

Louis Goldblatt, C. M. U. secretary, announced that the C. M. U. executive committee had voted—on the heels of the settlement—to build a $1,000,000 strike fund. C. M. U.'s seven component unions with more than 200,000 seamen and dock worker members, he said, will raise $5 each for this fund.

"An additional $1,000,000 will also be raised for the strike fund," he added.

C. M. U. sources said the additional $1,000,000 would be raised from contributions from outside unions and from subscriptions from C. M. U. unionists beyond their $5 apiece.

"The World Federation of Trade Unions will be approached on this matter and conferences arranged as soon as possible for both the Atlantic

BRIDE-TO-BE AND WAR VETERAN SLAIN

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(AP)—A young World War veteran and his prospective bride were shot and killed and the father of the youth, shot twice in the head, was held in the County Hospital prison ward today on a booking of suspicion of murder.

Clayton Peters Aslon, 25, and Loma Frances Quiroz, 25, the girl he had planned to marry tomorrow in a quiet ceremony, were found dead by sheriff's deputies last night in the Aslon home in suburban Bell Gardens, both shot through the head.

Samuel Aslon, 50, was taken to a police emergency hospital today after, officers said, he shot himself twice in the head in a hotel room. He was unconscious and his condition was believed to be serious.

Lt. Garner Brown of the sheriff's homicide squad said the elder Aslon left several letters to relatives in which he indicated he planned suicide.

Justice court records disclosed today that young Aslon filed a suit three weeks ago to evict his father from the six-room, white clap-boarded house in which they lived. The elder Aslon filed a demurrer to the suit only a few days ago.

When sheriff's deputies, summoned by a neighbor, entered the Aslon home they found the son's body lying face downward in the back hallway and that of his prospective bride near a kitchen table on which was an uneaten meal. Two .32 caliber revolvers were found, one on the kitchen table and the other in a bedroom.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Fred Chew, said she had been married previously and divorced about two years ago. She had been working in a mechanics' training school. The elder Aslon, a veteran of the First World War, took out a county peddler's license recently.

Summer Is Likely To Test Stability Of Japanese People

Interpretation By

James D White

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

By James D. White
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

This summer is likely to test the stability of the Japanese people.

In addition to the usual irritating heat and humidity, they face a food crisis which their government warns will last until October—apparently until the rice crop is gathered in and ready to eat.

They are told that two months' rice must do for three months.

That supreme Allied headquarters and the Japanese government recognize the responsibilities of political unrest in this state of affairs is indicated by a special dispatch from A. P. Bureau Chief Russell Brines in Tokyo.

He says that recent measures taken by supreme headquarters and the government amount to "retrenchment" from the freedom which the Japanese were at first allowed and even encouraged to exercise politically.

MacArthur recently issued a statement against "undisciplined mobs" after crowds of leftists went so far as to demand confiscation of the emperor's rice, barged into prefectural offices to demand control of rationing, picketed the premier's residence, and seized factories to lock out employers who refused to grant higher wages.

Brines notes that for the most part these crowds were not Communists but were led by Communist party officials. There was a minimum of violence but much excitement.

An imperial rescript deploring all this was virtually ignored.

Now the government has announced that it won't tolerate mob pressure, and has threatened to confiscate factories where labor disputes slow down production.

It has cut some of the ground from under the leftists on the food question by granting their request for public committees to run harvest collections.

Supreme headquarters has taken steps to guard against disturbing influences both from within and without Japan.

Japanese newsmen have been told to stick to writing news and have been given a month to get the opinions out of their news columns.

Headquarters has tightened exit and entry control, making its prior approval necessary.

Russia Insists On Close Watch Of Italian Political Situation

PARIS, June 15.—(AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed today to add Austria to the foreign ministers conference agenda, then insisted that the Italian political situation be watched to prevent a regrowth of Fascism into full-scale civil war, American and British informants said.

In a sudden and surprising concession as the ministers reopened their discussions on peace treaties with former enemy states, Molotov reversed Soviet policy as expressed throughout sessions last month and consented to study Austria as "a problem."

Molotov objected to confining the Austrian question to the American-sponsored draft treaty which Washington had circulated among the other powers—France, Russia and Britain.

He maintained that recent events in Italy reflected an attempt by Monarchists and Fascists to overthrow the republic, and cied the declaration of Moscow in 1943 to justify Allied intervention in Italian affairs to prevent a rebirth of Fascism, American informants said.

In 1943 the foreign ministers of Britain, the United States and Russia issued a declaration on Italy saying that Fascism must be destroyed and the Italians given an opportunity to have representative government.

The Soviet foreign minister asked the council to add the Italian situation to the agenda as a preliminary to intervention if events justified such a course.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes replied that the United States had no objection if events really justified such action, but added that official information available to the United States showed that the Italian government now had the situation in hand and was successfully upholding the republic, American sources said.

The suggestion to place Austria on the agenda as a "simple problem" was made by the French, and Molo-

ATOM BOMB TEST MEN WONDER AT OFFER OF DESTRUCTION

By Robert K. Butcher
(World Staff Writer)

ABOARD THE U. S. S. APPALACHIAN EN ROUTE TO BIKINI, June 15.—(Special)—Is the Baruch report on international atomic development an official approach toward world government or is it an adroit diplomatic move?

Observers en route to the scene of the atom bomb test at Bikini atoll were discussing these opposing aspects of the recommendations today as they sailed westward across the Pacific toward the world's fourth employment of atomic weapons by military men.

The proposal for international control of atom bombs which Bernard Baruch's statement termed "a choice between the quick and the dead" leaves no doubt in many minds that the United States has arrived at an official enunciation of foreign policy which President Truman first suggested at Kansas City after the United Nations conference. In that speech the president said: "It will be just as easy for nations to get along in a republic of the world as it is for you to get along in the republic of the United States." The president continued with a discussion of world constitutional government, comparing the nations of the world to the 48 states. If atomic weapons are placed wholly in the hands of an international control system then in effect all power to make war is taken from the individual nations of the world.

The Baruch report goes far beyond the United Nations authority which is limited by veto powers of the great powers and hedged with other limitations. The new plan admits no veto powers. If there is no veto power in control of atomic warfare then in the ultimate sense the nations of the world have forfeited their soverenity as surely as does a nation defeated in war and occupied by forces of another nation. And with no nation

BOWLES EXPECTS FLOOD OF GOODS

Thinks Chief Danger Is Paralysis Resulting From High Prices

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles today predicted a "flood" of consumer goods by Christmas if "we can prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high."

Bowls, in a radio address, made no direct reference to the pending Senate and House price control bills he had condemned as highroads to runaway inflation, but he said:

"I only hope we can summon the courage, and have the vision and good sense to make the right decisions now to prevent an economic breakdown. The choice is up to all of us—and the next few days will decide."

Legislation which extends OPA's life nine to 12 months beyond June 30, but sharply curbs its authority over prices, is now before a House-Senate conference committee. It will be sent to President Truman shortly. Bowles has indicated he will urge that the bill be vetoed.

"Today more than ever," Bowles said, "we need stability to keep our excellent start on full production from going into a tailspin. If we can just hang on, production will continue to move up gradually.

"I believe by next Christmas you'll see a flood of goods that will amaze us all. Some shortages will still exist, but others will vanish and seem as remote as last year's cigarette shortage does now.

"There's just one question in my mind, and it's a big one. Will we prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high, and everyone starts to hoard, and the economic machinery slows down?"

Bowles said that "in spite of strikes and shortages, some remarkable progress has been made" on the production front. He said two principal reasons why scarcities still exist are:

"Everyone today is trying to satisfy the piled up needs of four long years of war—when many civilian goods just weren't produced. * * * and the money that people have to spend is putting a lot of steam behind this terrific demand."

Bowles reiterated his prediction that the supply of men's shirts and

SWANCUTT TO PILOT ATOMIC BOMB PLANE

ABOARD THE CROSSROADS FLAGSHIP, MT. McKINLEY, June 15.—(AP)—Maj. Woodrow P. Swancutt, national intercollegiate middleweight boxing champion of 1939 and 1940, probably will pilot the atomic bomb plane in the first test at Bikini atoll next month, under plans announced today.

The 30-year-old ex-University of Wisconsin boxer and his superfortress crew were recommended for the honor of dropping the bomb after gruelling competition with four other specially picked teams of the 20th bomber command base at Kwajalein.

Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, the 20th's commander, recommended Swancutt's crew to Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, army chief of aviation in connection with the atomic tests.

Kepner said he would accept the selection after June 20, "always considering as available the other crews if conditions necessitate a change."

Says Two Military Branches Endorse

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to merge the armed forces under a single cabinet officer and give the air forces more responsibility than the navy wanted that branch to have.

The president, deciding a disagreement between the secretaries of war and navy over unification details, ruled generally in favor of the army position on three points they told him they could not resolve. He went most of the way with the navy on the fourth major point in dispute.

Along with the letter to military and naval committee chaimen of the house and senate setting forth the president's plan for the merger, the white house made public a letter to Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal advising thom that the disagreements are "herewith decided."

Mr. Truman told the congressional leaders that the two secretaries, together with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, had "assured me that they will support such a plan" as the one he offered.

His letter to the secretaries also mentioned his gratification over assurances that the service leaders would "give wholehearted support to a plan of unification no matter what the decision would be" on the disagreements.

Also made public was the report of the cabinet members, made May 31, which set out their agreement on eight of the 12 points in Mr. Truman's proposal to congress, and their varying positions on the other four.

The president's ruling for a single department under one cabinet head was strictly an army victory.

"Only if there is this unity of structure, headed by an individual with power of decision," the war department view said, "can we achieve action where there is now inaction, concerted policy where there is now disjointed policy, and economy of manpower, resources and money where there is now waste of them all."

The navy said it recognized the need for greater integration but that it favored unification "in a less drastic and extreme form." It said a single department would "involve sacrifices of sound administrative autonomy and essential service morale."

It added that the eight measures on which agreement was reached "would fully meet the needs of present conditions." It proposed that congress put them into effect now and that further study be given to the remaining matters in disagreement.

The president came closer to army desires than to the navy's ideas also in his decision favoring three coordinate branches in that department—one of them for air—and each having a non-cabinet secretary. The navy said it felt that national security "requires maintenance of the integrity of the navy department, headed by a civilian secretary of cabinet rank," with naval aviation integrated.

It said it though similar integration of army air and ground forces was in the best interests of security.

"However," it declared, "if the alternatives were three military departments or one, the navy would prefer three departments."

As for aviation, the navy said:

"One reason for the navy's strong conviction against a single department is the continued efforts of the army air forces to restrict and limit naval aviation. The navy knows that these efforts, if successful, would seriously impair our sea power and jeopardize our national security.

But again, Mr. Truman followed largely the recommendations of the army that the air forces, with some exceptions, be given the responsibility for the development, procurement,

JUVENILE COURT BILL TO COME UP

Seven-District System In Louisiana Would Be Set Up

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—The question of establishing a seven-district juvenile court system for Louisiana is expected to be laid before members of the state house of representatives when they reconvene here after a week-end recess Sunday night.

Rep. Wellborn Jack of Caddo parish, sponsor of a bill to create such a system, said that he planned to ask for a suspension of the house rules to allow Caddo's Juvenile District Judge Chris Barnette to outline the plan to the legislators.

The measure was brought up for discussion Thursday morning but Rep. Jack asked that it be returned to the house calendar for later consideration when several representatives objected to the cost of the project, which would establish operating centers and detention homes in each district.

Judge Barnette appeared on the floor with the Caddo representative but did not address the legislators.

Jack said that an amendment may be offered to the bill which would relieve the parishes of the expense of the system, placing it upon the state.

Initial cost of the detention homes, to which juvenile delinquents and destitute children would be committed while awaiting disposition of their cases, was set by Judge Barnette at approximately $245,000. Salaries of chief probation officers, at about $4,000, would cost an additional $28,000 a year.

Under the Barnette plan, Louisiana's present juvenile delinquent judiciary system would remain unchanged with district judges continuing to hear juvenile cases.

Plans call for the districts to coincide with the state's present congressional districts, with, however, the first and second combined under the New Orleans center.

STASSEN SETBACK MAY DETER OTHERS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Prospective Republican presidential candidates seem likely to stay closer to home in forthcoming primary campaigns as a result of the shellacking handed Harold Stassen in his second-hand venture into the Nebraska senatorial contest.

The two to one defeat suffered by Gov. Dwight Griswold, Stassen's choice for the Republican senatorial nomination, by incumbent Senator Hugh Butler apparently has convinced other potential G. O. P. presidential aspirants that this is a good year to keep out of local fights.

Stassen, of course, is committed to maximum effort to nominate Gov. Edward J. Thye over incumbent Senator Henrix Shipstead in the Minnesota senatorial primary July 9. A Thye victory in Stassen's home state might change the present hands-off outlook to some extent.

But friends are beginning to doubt that Stassen will charge into the August 13 Wisconsin primary where Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., now an ex-Progressive, is attempting to wrest the Republican senatorial nomination away from the convention-backed regular candidate, Judge Joseph P. McCarthy.

La Follette and Stassen are on opposite sides of the continuing debate over foreign policy and some of Stassen's friends had thought earlier that he might attempt to swing sentiment toward McCarthy just as he tried to drum up Nebraska support for Griswold on the grounds that the latter represented a broader international viewpoint than Butler.

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, who says he isn't a presidential candidate but admits he wouldn't run away from the 1948 G. O. P. nomination, has become involved in the primary to the extent of having written a letter before the state convention expressing a preference for La Follette.

ANDERSON SEES NO NEED OF RATIONING

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared tonight he does not believe a return to consumer rationing will be necessary to save peoples in other lands from starvation in the year ahead.

He said the United States no longer has the machinery for enforcing rationing and he doubts "Congress will wish to set it up again, at this point.

The government is developing, the secretary said, "a simpler form of raationing nearer the source—rationing of wheat and other short supplies to processors and distributors." As an example, he cited an Agriculture department order requiring millers to cut their distribution of four for domestic consumption 25 per cent from last year's level.

Anderson gave this view in a report prepared for a national broadcasting company program entitled "Can Famine Be Prevented?" Sir John Boyd Orr, director-general of the United Nations food and agriculture organization, also took part.

The secretary said American crop prospects are good, but he forecast short supplies of bread grains, meats and fats for 1947.

Capt. Frank M. Bosworth, assistant staff judge advocate for the military district of Washington, serving as interim counsel for the Durants, said:

"All information available up to the present time has come from sources that are primarily interested in establishing that a fabulous amount of jewelry was recovered from Germany under circumstances which amount to criminality."

He added that the couple "are only reasonable in their desire to correct certain impressions that have apparently been created by information previously conveyed to the public."

GEORGIA AIMS TO END KU KLUX KLAN

ATLANTA, June 15.—(AP)—The state of Georgia, where the modern Klu Klux Klan was born in 1916, aims to break the national organization of the hooded order in a suit to be filed next week, State Attorney General Eugene Cook said today.

Declaring at a press conference, that Atlanta was the "national headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan," Cook said the organization operated nationally under its Georgia charter.

It is this charter the state will seek to revoke in a civil court suit. One of the grounds for revoking the charter, Cook said the state would contend, is "unlawful assemblies" of the organization.

The charter, first issued in 1916, became inactive in 1944 when the imperial wizard James A. Colescott declared the Klan dormant. It was made active again in March this year when back dues were paid.

Colescott is still listed as president of the organization.

Cook said the state intended to prove that the association of Georgia Klans which Dr. Samuel Green, Atlanta physician, heads as grand dragon, is operating under the original Klan charter. It is Green's organization which has been active recently, and Green contends it is not part of chartered knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.

Cook said his office was investigating whether the flogging of a south Georgia Negro, Willie Dudley, was the work of the Klan.

Number Of Idle In Strikes At Lowest Point In Many Months

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The C. I. O.-supported committee for Maritime unity, with one dock strike just averted, announced tonight plans for a $2,000,000 "strike fund" and for world-wide meetings in preparation for new contract negotiations September 30.

The C. M. U., headed by Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran as cochairmen, disclosed plans for "joint conferences with the Maritime unions of other nations" during the summer preparatory to a new Maritime crisis next fall.

This indication of future labor front difficulties came as peace was just returning to the nation's waterfronts. The labor department was viewing the strike outlook, with last night's Martime dispute settlement as background, as the best in months.

Louis Goldblatt, C. M. U. secretary, announced that the C. M. U. executive committee had voted—on the heels of the settlement—to build a $1,000,000 strike fund. C. M. U.'s seven component unions with more than 200,000 seamen and dock worker members, he said, will raise $5 each for this fund.

"An additional $1,000,000 will also be raised for the strike fund," he added.

C. M. U. sources said the additional $1,000,000 would be raised from contributions from outside unions and from subscriptions from C. M. U. unionists beyond their $5 apiece.

"The World Federation of Trade Unions will be approached on this matter and conferences arranged as soon as possible for both the Atlantic

BRIDE-TO-BE AND WAR VETERAN SLAIN

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(AP)—A young World War veteran and his prospective bride were shot and killed and the father of the youth, shot twice in the head, was held in the County Hospital prison ward today on a booking of suspicion of murder.

Clayton Peters Aslon, 25, and Loma Frances Quiroz, 25, the girl he had planned to marry tomorrow in a quiet ceremony, were found dead by sheriff's deputies last night in the Aslon home in suburban Bell Gardens, both shot through the head.

Samuel Aslon, 50, was taken to a police emergency hospital today after, officers said, he shot himself twice in the head in a hotel room. He was unconscious and his condition was believed to be serious.

Justice court records disclosed today that young Aslon filed a suit three weeks ago to evict his father from the six-room, white clap-boarded house in which they lived. The elder Aslon filed a demurrer to the suit only a few days ago.

When sheriff's deputies, summoned by a neighbor, entered the Aslon home they found the son's body lying face downward in the back hallway and that of his prospective bride near a kitchen table on which was an uneaten meal. Two .32 caliber revolvers were found, one on the kitchen table and the other in a bedroom.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Fred Chew, said she had been married previously and divorced about two years ago. She had been working in a mechanics' training school. The elder Aslon, a veteran of the First World War, took out a county peddler's license recently.

Summer Is Likely To Test Stability Of Japanese People

Interpretation By

James D White

By James D. White

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

This summer is likely to test the stability of the Japanese people.

In addition to the usual irritating heat and humidity, they face a food crisis which their government warns will last until October—apparently until the rice crop is gathered in and ready to eat.

They are told that two months' rice must do for three months.

That supreme Allied headquarters and the Japanese government recognize the responsibilities of political unrest in this state of affairs is indicated by a special dispatch from A. P. Bureau Chief Russell Brines in Tokyo.

He says that recent measures taken by supreme headquarters and the government amount to "retrenchment" from the freedom which the Japanese were at first allowed and even encouraged to exercise politically.

MacArthur recently issued a statement against "undisciplined mobs" after crowds of leftists went so far as to demand confiscation of the emperor's rice, barged into prefectural offices to demand control of rationing, picketed the premier's residence, and seized factories to lock out employers who refused to grant higher wages.

Brines notes that for the most part these crowds were not Communists but were led by Communist party officials. There was a minimum of violence but much excitement.

An imperial rescript deploring all this was virtually ignored.

Now the government has announced that it won't tolerate mob pressure, and has threatened to confiscate factories where labor disputes slow down production.

It has cut some of the ground from under the leftists on the food question by granting their request for public committees to run harvest collections.

Supreme headquarters has taken steps to guard against disturbing influences both from within and without Japan.

Japanese newsmen have been told to stick to writing news and have been given a month to get the opinions out of their news columns.

Headquarters has tightened exit and entry control, making its prior approval necessary.

Russia Insists On Close Watch Of Italian Political Situation

PARIS, June 15.—(AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed today to add Austria to the foreign ministers conference agenda, then insisted that the Italian political situation be watched to prevent a regrowth of Fascism into full-scale civil war, American and British informants said.

In a sudden and surprising concession as the ministers reopened their discussions on peace treaties with former enemy states, Molotov reversed Soviet policy as expressed throughout sessions last month and consented to study Austria as "a problem."

Molotov objected to confining the Austrian question to the American-sponsored draft treaty which Washington had circulated among the other powers—France, Russia and Britain.

He maintained that recent events in Italy reflected an attempt by Monarchists and Fascists to overthrow the republic, and cied the declaration of Moscow in 1943 to justify Allied intervention in Italian affairs to prevent a rebirth of Fascism, American informants said.

In 1943 the foreign ministers of Britain, the United States and Russia issued a declaration on Italy saying that Fascism must be destroyed and the Italians given an opportunity to have representative government.

The Soviet foreign minister asked the council to add the Italian situation to the agenda as a preliminary to intervention if events justified such a course.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes replied that the United States had no objection if events really justified such action, but added that official information available to the United States showed that the Italian government now had the situation in hand and was successfully upholding the republic, American sources said.

The suggestion to place Austria on the agenda as a "simple problem" was made by the French, and Molo-

BOWLES EXPECTS FLOOD OF GOODS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles today predicted a "flood" of consumer goods by Christmas if "we can prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high."

Bowls, in a radio address, made no direct reference to the pending Senate and House price control bills he had condemned as highroads to runaway inflation, but he said:

"I only hope we can summon the courage, and have the vision and good sense to make the right decisions now to prevent an economic breakdown. The choice is up to all of us—and the next few days will decide."

Legislation which extends OPA's life nine to 12 months beyond June 30, but sharply curbs its authority over prices, is now before a House-Senate conference committee. It will be sent to President Truman shortly. Bowles has indicated he will urge that the bill be vetoed.

"Today more than ever," Bowles said, "we need stability to keep our excellent start on full production from going into a tailspin. If we can just hang on, production will continue to move up gradually.

"I believe by next Christmas you'll see a flood of goods that will amaze us all. Some shortages will still exist, but others will vanish and seem as remote as last year's cigarette shortage does now.

"There's just one question in my mind, and it's a big one. Will we prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high, and everyone starts to hoard, and the economic machinery slows down?"

Bowles said that "in spite of strikes and shortages, some remarkable progress has been made" on the production front. He said two principal reasons why scarcities still exist are:

"Everyone today is trying to satisfy the piled up needs of four long years of war—when many civilian goods just weren't produced. * * * and the money that people have to spend is putting a lot of steam behind this terrific demand."

Bowles reiterated his prediction that the supply of men's shirts and

SWANCUTT TO PILOT ATOMIC BOMB PLANE

ABOARD THE CROSSROADS FLAGSHIP, MT. McKINLEY, June 15.—(AP)—Maj. Woodrow P. Swancutt, national intercollegiate middleweight boxing champion of 1939 and 1940, probably will pilot the atomic bomb plane in the first test at Bikini atoll next month, under plans announced today.

The 30-year-old ex-University of Wisconsin boxer and his superfortress crew were recommended for the honor of dropping the bomb after gruelling competition with four other specially picked teams of the 20th bomber command base at Kwajalein.

Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, the 20th's commander, recommended Swancutt's crew to Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, army chief of aviation in connection with the atomic tests.

Kepner said he would accept the selection after June 20, "always considering as available the other crews if conditions necessitate a change."

ATOM BOMB TEST MEN WONDER AT OFFER OF DESTRUCTION

By Robert K. Butcher

(World Staff Writer)

ABOARD THE U. S. S. APPALACHIAN EN ROUTE TO BIKINI, June 15.—(Special)—Is the Baruch report on international atomic development an official approach toward world government or is it an adroit diplomatic move?

Observers en route to the scene of the atom bomb test at Bikini atoll were discussing these opposing aspects of the recommendations today as they sailed westward across the Pacific toward the world's fourth employment of atomic weapons by military men.

The proposal for international control of atom bombs which Bernard Baruch's statement termed "a choice between the quick and the dead" leaves no doubt in many minds that the United States has arrived at an official enunciation of foreign policy which President Truman first suggested at Kansas City after the United Nations conference. In that speech the president said: "It will be just as easy for nations to get along in a republic of the world as it is for you to get along in the republic of the United States." The president continued with a discussion of world constitutional government, comparing the nations of the world to the 48 states. If atomic weapons are placed wholly in the hands of an international control system then in effect all power to make war is taken from the individual nations of the world.

The Baruch report goes far beyond the United Nations authority which is limited by veto powers of the great powers and hedged with other limitations. The new plan admits no veto powers. If there is no veto power in control of atomic warfare then in the ultimate sense the nations of the world have forfeited their sovereinty as surely as does a nation defeated in war and occupied by forces of another nation. And with no nation

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to merge the armed forces under a single cabinet officer and give the air forces more responsibility than the navy wanted that branch to have.

The president, deciding a disagreement between the secretaries of war and navy over unification details, ruled generally in favor of the army position on three points they told him they could not resolve. He went most of the way with the navy on the fourth major point in dispute.

Along with the letter to military and naval committee chaimen of the house and senate setting forth the president's plan for the merger, the white house made public a letter to Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal advising them that the disagreements are "herewith decided."

Mr. Truman told the congressional leaders that the two secretaries, together with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, had "assured me that they will support such a plan" as the one he offered.

His letter to the secretaries also mentioned his gratification over assurances that the service leaders would "give wholehearted support to a plan of unification no matter what the decision would be" on the disagreements.

Also made public was the report of the cabinet members, made May 31, which set out their agreement on eight of the 12 points in Mr. Truman's proposal to congress, and their varying positions on the other four.

The president's ruling for a single department under one cabinet head was strictly an army victory.

"Only if there is this unity of structure, headed by an individual with power of decision," the war department view said, "can we achieve action where there is now inaction, concerted policy where there is now disjointed policy, and economy of manpower, resources and money where there is now waste of them all."

The navy said it recognized the need for greater integration but that it favored unification "in a less drastic and extreme form." It said a single department would "involve sacrifices of sound administrative autonomy and essential service morale."

It added that the eight measures on which agreement was reached "would fully meet the needs of present conditions." It proposed that congress put them into effect now and that further study be given to the remaining matters in disagreement.

The president came closer to army desires than to the navy's ideas also in his decision favoring three coordinate branches in that department—one of them for air—and each having a non-cabinet secretary. The navy said it felt that national security "requires maintenance of the integrity of the navy department, headed by a civilian secretary of cabinet rank," with naval aviation integrated.

It said it though similar integration of army air and ground forces was in the best interests of security.

"However," it declared, "if the alternatives were three military departments or one, the navy would prefer three departments."

As for aviation, the navy said:

"One reason for the navy's strong conviction against a single department is the continued efforts of the army air forces to restrict and limit naval aviation. The navy knows that these efforts, if successful, would seriously impair our sea power and jeopardize our national security.

But again, Mr. Truman followed largely the recommendations of the army that the air forces, with some exceptions, be given the responsibility for the development, procurement,

JUVENILE COURT BILL TO COME UP

Seven-District System In Louisiana Would Be Set Up

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—The question of establishing a seven-district juvenile court system for Louisiana is expected to be laid before members of the state house of representatives when they reconvene here after a week-end recess Sunday night.

Rep. Wellborn Jack of Caddo parish, sponsor of a bill to create such a system, said that he planned to ask for a suspension of the house rules to allow Caddo's Juvenile District Judge Chris Barnette to outline the plan to the legislators.

The measure was brought up for discussion Thursday morning but Rep. Jack asked that it be returned to the house calendar for later consideration when several representatives objected to the cost of the project, which would establish operating centers and detention homes in each district.

Judge Barnette appeared on the floor with the Caddo representative but did not address the legislators.

Jack said that an amendment may be offered to the bill which would relieve the parishes of the expense of the system, placing it upon the state.

Initial cost of the detention homes, to which juvenile delinquents and destitute children would be committed while awaiting disposition of their cases, was set by Judge Barnette at approximately $245,000. Salaries of chief probation officers, at about $4,000, would cost an additional $28,000 a year.

Under the Barnette plan, Louisiana's present juvenile delinquent judiciary system would remain unchanged with district judges continuing to hear juvenile cases.

Plans call for the districts to coincide with the state's present congressional districts, with, however, the first and second combined under the New Orleans center.

STASSEN SETBACK MAY DETER OTHERS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Prospective Republican presidential candidates seem likely to stay closer to home in forthcoming primary campaigns as a result of the shellacking handed Harold Stassen in his second-hand venture into the Nebraska senatorial contest.

The two to one defeat suffered by Gov. Dwight Griswold, Stassen's choice for the Republican senatorial nomination, by incumbent Senator Hugh Butler apparently has convinced other potential G. O. P. presidential aspirants that this is a good year to keep out of local fights.

Stassen, of course, is committed to maximum effort to nominate Gov. Edward J. Thye over incumbent Senator Henrix Shipstead in the Minnesota senatorial primary July 9. A Thye victory in Stassen's home state might change the present hands-off outlook to some extent.

But friends are beginning to doubt that Stassen will charge into the August 13 Wisconsin primary where Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., now an ex-Progressive, is attempting to wrest the Republican senatorial nomination away from the convention-backed regular candidate, Judge Joseph P. McCarthy.

La Follette and Stassen are on opposite sides of the continuing debate over foreign policy and some of Stassen's friends had thought earlier that he might attempt to swing sentiment toward McCarthy just as he tried to drum up Nebraska support for Griswold on the grounds that the latter represented a broader international viewpoint than Butler.

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, who says he isn't a presidential candidate but admits he wouldn't run away from the 1948 G. O. P. nomination, has become involved in the primary to the extent of having written a letter before the state convention expressing a preference for La Follette.

ANDERSON SEES NO NEED OF RATIONING

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared tonight he does not believe a return to consumer rationing will be necessary to save peoples in other lands from starvation in the year ahead.

He said the United States no longer has the machinery for enforcing rationing and he doubts "Congress will wish to set it up again, at this point.

The government is developing, the secretary said, "a simpler form of raationing nearer the source—rationing of wheat and other short supplies to processors and distributors." As an example, he cited an Agriculture department order requiring millers to cut their distribution of four for domestic consumption 25 per cent from last year's level.

Anderson gave this view in a report prepared for a national broadcasting company program entitled "Can Famine Be Prevented?" Sir John Boyd Orr, director-general of the United Nations food and agriculture organization, also took part.

The secretary said American crop prospects are good, but he forecast short supplies of bread grains, meats and fats for 1947.

COUSIN KILLED, NEGRO IS JAILED

BASTROP, June 15.—(Special)—Oliver Nimmer, 23, Negro, is being held in the Morehouse parish jail awaiting probable charges of murder after an altercation near the Log Cabin community which resulted in the death of Miller Oats, 22, his cousin.

Nimmer is alleged to have shot Oats in the back with a 12-gauge shotgun about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 9, after the victim and two other drinking companions, J. C. Nimmer, a brother of the accused, and J. Lee Dawson, had taken him home from Bastrop because his drunkenness was getting out of hand. The accused is alleged to have fought the efforts of the trio all the way home and after they had left him in the house and returned to the car, he is said to have come out the front door with the shotgun. The brother and Dawson fled and sheriff's officials conclude that Oats tried to persuade Nimmer to put down the gun, and when unsuccessful, tried to flee himself.

NURSES ASSEMBLE FOR STAFF MEET

In the regular staff education meeting held for the nurses from fourteen parishes, Miss Louise Guidry lead the discussion on "The Mechanics and Charting in Conducting a Group Conference." She mentioned, the statement of a problem and further enlarging this by discussing the essential facts in the problem. The pertinent things to remember are—that the discussion be held to topic by control measures, phrasing questions, sparring, ad libbing, timeliness of subject matter, handling of side-tracking diplomacy and summing up of the opinions of the group, were points presented in the conference leadership practice.

After this, a problem was selected by the group and the mechanics of conference leadership were exercised by the nurses. Each nurse generously shared in the practice conference. This resulted in a very productive meeting involving much individual thinking and contribution. Miss Grace Mizell participated in the charting of the comments.

The nurses present for the day's activity were:

Mrs. Louise Glasgow, Concordia parish; F. Davis, Tensas; Mrs. Ivie Taylor, Madison parish; Mrs. Anna Tatman, East Carroll parish; Mrs. L. Watkins, Morehouse parish; Harriet Foster, Morehouse parish; Mrs. L. Anderson, Winn parish; Mrs. F. Cottingham, Caldwell; Mrs. J. Moore, Lincoln; Miss E. Martin, Lincoln; Mrs. A. COUSIN KILLED, NEGRO IS JAILED

BASTROP, June 15.—(Special)—Oliver Nimmer, 23, Negro, is being held in the Morehouse parish jail awaiting probable charges of murder after an altercation near the Log Cabin community which resulted in the death of Miller Oats, 22, his cousin.

Nimmer is alleged to have shot Oats in the back with a 12-gauge shotgun about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 9, after the victim and two other drinking companions, J. C. Nimmer, a brother of the accused, and J. Lee Dawson, had taken him home from Bastrop because his drunkenness was getting out of hand. The accused is alleged to have fought the efforts of the trio all the way home and after they had left him in the house and returned to the car, he is said to have come out the front door with the shotgun. The brother and Dawson fled and sheriff's officials conclude that Oats tried to persuade Nimmer to put down the gun, and when unsuccessful, tried to flee himself.

ROY O'BRIEN IS RE-ASSIGNED

Will Resume Duties As Morehouse Parish PMA Official

BASTROP, La., June 15.—(Special)—Roy L. O'Brien, who has been on leave for the past two years as Northeast Louisiana district field manager for the Production Marketing Administration, will resume his duties here as Morehouse parish administrative officer for the PMA within a few days, it is announced by Kit Williams, president of the parish organization. O'Brien, as district field manager, was pinch-hitting for Willard Wynn who has returned from military service and will resume his former post.

Mary Mae Turpin, who has served as acting administrative officer during O'Brien's absence, has resigned. She and O'Brien were recently married and after he concludes a familiarization tour of the district with Wynn, the couple will take a short honeymoon trip.

Filling in as acting secretary-treasurer in the absence of both Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will be Thelma Goodnight, an employee of the local PMA office.

NURSES ASSEMBLE FOR STAFF MEET

In the regular staff education meeting held for the nurses from fourteen parishes, Miss Louise Guidry lead the discussion on "The Mechanics and Charting in Conducting a Group Conference." She mentioned, the statement of a problem and further enlarging this by discussing the essential facts in the problem. The pertinent things to remember are—that the discussion be held to topic by control measures, phrasing questions, sparring, ad libbing, timeliness of subject matter, handling of side-tracking diplomacy and summing up of the opinions of the group, were points presented in the conference leadership practice.

After this, a problem was selected by the group and the mechanics of conference leadership were exercised by the nurses. Each nurse generously shared in the practice conference. This resulted in a very productive meeting involving much individual thinking and contribution. Miss Grace Mizell participated in the charting of the comments.

The nurses present for the day's activity were:

Army's Hold On 'Public Fields' Scored

There is a growing impatience all over the country at the slow pace at which the government is proceeding in carrying out its announced intention to turn over its no longer needed military flying fields to communities for use by the public that supplied the countless millions of dollars for their construction.

The feeling is quite natural. The war completed the process of making the nation thoroughly airminded, and it has been estimated that the number of private fliers has doubled within the year and is steadily multiplying. Former war pilots are buying planes for their own use and business executives are acquiring them for every-day transportation with service-trained airmen at the controls. Plane manufacturers are reported to have backlogs of orders to cover several years' constant production.

But now, nearly a year after V-J day, the army is holding onto most of its airfields, operating them with skeleton staffs and—the cause of the current complaint—insisting on maintaining wartime rules and regulations that prohibit the use of the airstrips by private planes.

An exception to the reported general hard-boiled policy of the army is provided at Selman Field, which eventually is to be given to the city of Monroe as a municipal airport and is serving as such now to the extent that it is a terminal for the Delta and the Southern air lines.

Lt. Col. Henry G. Barrett, who remains as commanding officer at Selman, has been permitting the landing and take-off of the larger types of planes that he believes might meet with accidents on the soft, muddy strips of the two small commercial airfields here. Small planes, such as the Cubs, which can use the small fields in safety, still are barred from Selman.

No exceptions whatever are made, however, at many of the military fields where the army remains in control. A big private plane, carrying a group of business executives, landed at Selman the other day after having at first been refused permission by the control tower operator. The pilot told of having been barred from the military airfield at Gulfport, Miss., and said he had narrowly averted crackups in landing and starting from the tiny private field he had been forced to use in making a necessary stop there.

Gratifying progress appeared this past week in the process of bringing Selman under the city's control as another Monroe-owned public utility. Officers from the Little Rock office of the army's real estate and engineering divisions conferred with the commission council Tuesday and made a preliminary inspection of the airfield and its facilities. They were to return this week to begin a detailed inventory and July 22 was fixed as the tentative date for the army air corps to transfer the property back to the engineers. The latter, it was explained, then would issue the commission council a temporary permit, or license, to operate the portion required for a municipal airport, including the hangars, administration building, control tower, etc. The final transfer to city ownership would be made later through the War Assets Administration.

Commissioner William D. H. Rodriguez, directing head of the city-owned public utilities, said Saturday the council is receiving invaluable assistance in preparing its application for the Selman equipment from the Baton Rouge office of T. B. Herndon, head of the aviation division of the state department of public works. Assigned to aid the Monroe council is the department's John W. Myers, airport engineer, who is advising as to what portions of the present facilities of the field will be needed for the commercial airport.

Commissioner Rodriguez, who, with Mayor Harvey H. Benoit and Commissioner C. R. Tidwell, is engaged in a close study of airport operation and obtaining advice from other cities that have successfully engaged in such projects, said the council believes the port can be made self supporting from the start and be operated at a profit after four or five years. To "break even" at the beginning, it was estimated, the field must produce revenues of not less than $30,000 a year.

STILL A DANGEROUS BILL

The house committee on printing has reported favorably a bill to create a state printing board of the same type that made state printing one of the most nefarious of rackets back in the days of Leche and Long machinism. The house committee adopted a number of amendments to the bill as it was originally slipped through the senate, claiming that these amendments remove the objections that have been raised in every part of the state to the senate version.

The amendments do not remove the objections by any means. The bill as it stands, with all the amendments, still opens the door to a printing monopoly and that opens the door to graft, corruption and crookedness with public tax money. These possibilities are spotlighted by the past record. Under four years of the Leche-Long regime, which included a state printing board, some $3,000,000 was spent for state printing through the state printing board. When the printing board was abolished under the Jones administration and the present system of open contracts by competitive bidding was established, the cost of printing went down by 57 per cent in relation to what the same work would have cost the taxpayers under the rates charged during the existence of the board.

More than 95 per cent of the printers and supply firms in Louisiana are unalterably opposed to this bill, which can only mean that ALL OF THESE PARTIES REALIZE THEY WILL BE ELIMINATED FROM COMPETITION BY THE BILL.

Senate Bill No. 44 with amendments will eliminate the competition that now exists as to this public business by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 98 per cent of the printers and supply houses in this state, and will soon result in a complete monopoly where all of this business will be controlled by Thomas J. Moran's Sons.

The bill with amendments will restore what can easily become a vicious monopoly of practically all state printing and office supply business grossly unfair to the printers and supply firms of Louisiana, and costly to the people of the state.

The printing bill should be killed. It is vicious legislation in every way and there should be no hesitation on the part of anyone to take every possible means to kill it.

INTER-CITY BUS HALT DEPLORED

Monroe—businessmen, citizens, municipal officials, everybody—welcomes the hundreds of residents of West Monroe who daily cross the Ouachita river to shop, work and visit in the larger of the Twin Cities, and no one here would do anything to discourage these valued friends, customers and employes from coming as regularly and as pleasantly as they always have in the past.

So it is with general and sincere regret that Monroe considers the decision of the West Monroe Bus Company to discontinue inter-city service this morning and stop its buses at the west approach to the Coleman avenue-DeSiard street bridge. The estimated 600 to 700 West Monroe workers, shoppers and others who daily have ridden to the now discontinued terminal at Washington and Second, therefore, face the disagreeable necessity of walking back and forth across the bridge in all kinds of weather.

But, while the inconvenience and discomforts to which our neighbors will be subjected is deplored, we believe Mayor Harvey H. Benoit acted properly in refusing to permit the inter-city line to CONTINUE TO USE THE PUBLIC STREETS OF MONROE FOR A STATION. This paper recalls the congestion and generally unsatisfactory conditions that prevailed when the company used the first block of North Second street for its depot. Also operators of business houses on North Grand and at Walnut and DeSiard will attest to the annoyances they suffered during the periods the terminal was maintained there.

Since last March 18, the record reveals, the Monroe mayor had sought to induce the line's operator to provide a station with a waiting and rest room for his white and colored patrons, just as other inter-city lines do here. The company, however, declined to do so and when instructed to cease using the Washington-Second corner by June 15, it arbitrarily announced it no longer would run its buses across the bridge into this city. Although the company manager said yesterday he is standing pat on the decision, it is hoped some way will be found for resumption of the service.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, June 15—Hedy Lamarr, inspired by sympathy for the 19-year-old who helped burglarize her house, has ear-marked all her charities for juvenile rehabilitation work. . . . Dancing cheek-to-cheek: Virginia Weidler and Bob (Paramount's Crooner) Graham. . . . Ha! Roy Rogers locationing in Oklahoma, will be guest of honor at a celebration staged in the nearby town of Gene Autry, named in honor of his No. 1 screen rival.

Linda Darnell is supplicating 20th Century-Fox bosses for leave of absence to tour army posts in Japan this summer. . . . Irked: Donald O'Connor, out of the service and "available" for months, but left idle by Universal. . . . By pre-marital agreement, Barbara Hale, soon to wed Bill Williams, will buy the house; he'll buy the furniture, the family car and a sailing boat. . . . Eddie Cantor has been invited to Vancouver's Diamond Jubilee, July 1-14, which is ironical because his radio program is banned from Canada's airways.

Esther Williams and Hubby Ben Gage are packing swim togs for a second honeymoon in Hawaii. . . . Wat's this anent Norma Sherer, in retirement so long she's been forgotten by many fans, asking $200,000 to play "Kate" in "Arch of Triumph"—a role that the screen's biggest are begging for? . . . Recommended for interesting reading: "You Bet Your Life," a book on gambling odds by Leo Guild, a former Fidler staff member. . . . Now it's Parkyakarkus who's recording a comic phonograph album for kids. . . . Dick Haymes is buying an Encino ranch home.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal's "The Runaround" (Rod Cameron-Ella Raines-Broderick Crawford). Mile-a-minute romance, powered with plenty of laughing gas. . . . Good: MGM'S "Little Mister Jim" (Jackie "Butch" Jenkins-James Craig—Frances Gifford). A sentimental tear-jerker that will send the ladies home in happy tears. . . . Warner Brothers' "Janie Gets Married" (Joan Leslie-Robert Hutton-Edward Arnold). Super-farcially entertaining. . . . So-So: MGM's "Two Smart People" (Lucille Ball-John Hodiak-Lloyd Nolan). Not smart enough to smother audience yawns. . . . Columbia's "Talk About a Lady" (Jinx Falkenburg-Forrest Tucker). Class B—and strictly class-conscious. . . . Best Performance: Robert Benchley in "Janie Gets Married." A best-loved comic makes his final bow one that fans will remember.

Paul Henreid, talking for publication the other day, decried the Hollywood practice of using big close-ups of the stars every third or fourth scene. "Because of that," he argued, "the range of the scene—the complete panorama so necessary for illusion—is destroyed. The close up places the entire burden of the drama on the individual actor. It is, when over-used, destructive of art." Now when actors with Mr. Henreid's erudite vocabulary get to talking that way, I usually clam up. Being neither a great actor nor a great director, I'm not equipped to talk about the kind of art you spell with a capital "A." But I am equipped to talk about stellar egos, for I've been observing them for years. If Henreid tries to sell that idea of his to producers, he'll find himself the most unpopular man in town.

According to the trade papers, one Edward Stevens, a bus boy in the 20th Century-Fox case, has been auditioned by the Los Angeles Civic Opera and given a contract. A check-up at the studio reveals that he's been working there for some time, and that he's tried in vain to get a break in pictures, overlooking the fact that movie Columbuses seldom bother to make discoveries in their own back yards. In the natural course of events, now that he's an opera singer, 20th will sooner or later offer him a movie ticket, at from ten to 100 times the salary he could have been hired for when he was pounding on the studio gates.

Eleanor Roosevelt's decision that Lionel Barrymore can't play FDR in one sequence of a proposed picture seems to me a bit inconsistent since it's based on the fact that Barrymore campaigned against the late president in the last election. The inconsistency lies in the fact that I've not heard of her making any protests against MGM's proposed biography of Franklin Roosevelt. Louis B. Mayer, if memory serves me right, has always been one of the staunchest Republicans in these parts. Incidentally, things have come to a pretty pass if an actor's roles are to be determined by his politics.

The Esquire Theater, currently showing a European film titled, "The Open City," confines its advertising to excerpts from two reviews. The first, from Life, is: "It's plain sexiness has seldom been approached by Hollywood." The second, from the New York World-Telegram, reads: "The Censors were lenient." What an opinion that exhibitor must have of his patrons intelligence and taste!

OUR CHILDREN

SPEAK SOFTLY
By Angelo Patri

One reason why children are cross and unmanageable at times is the fatigue sometimes brought about by loud and incessant talking to which he is subjected at home and school. I've known teachers to begin talking the moment the children entered the room and to stop only when the session ended. Such teachers talk loud and long and the children become weary and close their ears and minds.

But what about the people at home? Some mothers, and fathers, too, seem to think that the louder they shout the quicker the child will understand and obey. If they are not obeyed on the instant, they raise their voices. Then they are lost. No one obeys a person who has lost control of himself. Children are quick to know and act upon that.

Children who are used to being yelled at do not obey until they are forced to and then only as far as they must. They learn to disregard shouting. The parent who shouts and threatens is likely to take it out in shouting only, and the children take a chance that he will do just that. Usually they are right.

When you want a child to obey you first must gain his attention. Get close to him, for the closer you are the more effective your influence. When you have gotten his attention, tell him in ordinary tones what is wanted and stand by until he obeys. Don't let him wander off until he obeys. Keep at it but be gentle, and he will learn quickly to take your directions seriously. Once he learns that it will be possible for you to direct him from a greater distance. Even then, don't raise your voice beyond necessary volume—never shout. This will save energy and teach the child respect for your personality and authority. When he grows older he will not forget.

There is a great oak on the hillside. When the wind howls through the valley this great tree whispers softly, sothingly, and stands firmly until the storm is over. The pine tree across the valley moans and shrieks and cries and wrings its arms with every blast. The cattle gather under the arms of the oak tree and settle down in its shelter serenely until the storm passes. No animal takes refuge with the pine tree. It is left alone in its anguish. That is the way in which children judge adults and behave accordingly.

Helpful habits can be encouraged in a child but they cannot be forced. Angelo Patri discusses how helpful habits can be stimulated in a leaflet devoted exclusively to this subject, No. P-14.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The records of present supreme court justices reveal a surprising lack of judicial experience before appointment to the highest tribunal. Confirmation of Fred M. Vinson as chief justice will make him the man with most lower court background.

It's a mere five years. Four of them were spent as associate justice of the District of Columbia court of appeals. The fifth year was spent as chief judge of the emergency court of appeals for price control.

Vinson apparently did all right. There were no complaints. But there was nothing about his record that was in any way distinguished.

The only other justice with any experience on the bench prior to his supreme court appointment is Wiley Rutledge. He also served four years on the D. C. court of appeals.

But that's the sum total—nine years of judicial experience—an average of one year per member.

Maybe that isn't quite accurate either. Justice Hugo LaFayette Black served 18 months as a police court judge in Birmingham back around 1910. It would make even a Philadelphia lawyer sweat, however, to prove that saying "30 days" and "$10 and costs" to a bunch of drunks and bums qualifies a man to become senior justice on the supreme court of the United States.

Black's other legal experience was as a county prosecutor for two years, a general practice lawyer for six, and a U. S. senator for 12. A distinguished career, no doubt, but not what it should take to make a top judge.

The same is true of all the others.

Justice Stanley Reed, before appointment to the supreme court in 1938, served as counsel for a couple of alphabet agencies and as U. S. solicitor general for three years. Justice William O. Douglas served three years on the securities and exchange commission.

Felix Frankfurter and Wiley Rutledge were both professors of law, the former at Harvard, the latter at Colorado, Iowa, and Washington University in St. Louis. Frankfurter even declined Governor Ely's appointment to the Massachusetts supreme court in 1932.

Frank Murphy was in politics as governor of Michigan and the Philippines. Jackson, like Reed, had also been U. S. solicitor general.

Harold H. Burton was a lawyer and mayor of Cleveland, then U. S. senator from Ohio for only four years, when President Truman named him to the supreme court last September.

This sad lack of previous experience on the bench presents the opportunity for serious criticism of the American judicial system. It also offers a plausible explanation for the squabbles and dissentions, the five-to-four decisions, the philosophical arguments between conservative liberal factions which have characterized the supreme court's performance in recent years.

As the late Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone is reported to have said, his principal trouble with the court was that the presidents never sent up enough real judges to get out the work.

The present court may be made up of entirely capable, and even brilliant, lawyers. But lawyers. Not trained judges. The best lawyer in the country would probably make the worst judge.

All right then, what's the matter with the lower federal courts and the state courts, that they aren't producing more rookie judges who can be drafted into the big-league supreme court? The frantic six-week search by President Truman to find a successor to Chief Justice Stone is an admission that the judicial talent in the United States and on the supreme court itself is at an extremely low ebb.

Scanning these state and federal courts, the president's scouts could find no one big enough for the supreme court job. Why not?

There's nothing the matter with the pay these judges get. Their salaries have been raised over the years to put them beyond political pressure, to give them security and freedom from bias. Maybe that's the trouble. In their smug aloofness, maybe the judges have become intellectually lazy, fat and fat-headed.

Maybe, also, they realize there's no use trying to be a good or a great and fearless judge. The supreme court jobs in recent years seem to have gone not to the ablest jurists but to the loyal political hacks whom a grateful president wants to reward with social security in the form of a $20,000-a-year paycheck.

New York Day By Day
By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Back in New York after a long Western-Southern trip by air, I am more than ever convinced that such trips are salutary for those who live most of the time in the City. Before the war, when travel was easier, I made a practice of getting away from New York every six or eight weeks. It helps one appreciate the attitude of the American people toward matters of importance to all of us. I always absorb much encouragement and faith in the future when I talk with the people Out There. There is much less pessimism than here. Those people know that we are beset with enemies, but they have unshakable faith in the American spirit. They do not believe that tomorrow is Doomsday.

I found, also, a growing interest in humane treatment of animals in the South and West. That is always a sign of advancing culture . . . and a letter awaiting me is from Mrs. D. P. Hughes, of Monticello, Fla., who says she likes to read about our dogs. Her little boy has two dogs, half spitz, half chow. They are affectionate, and excellent watchdogs. I've never been seriously bitten by a dog, but I've come close to it with chows when they thought me a trespasser.

To several who have inquired about disposal of antiques, old newspaper files, and old books; I am unable to recommend any dealer for this kind of transaction. People often have exaggerated ideas about the worth of some heirloom, and generally are dissatisfied when they are offered a fraction of what they believe it to be worth. A good way to pile up unpopularity is to recommend dealers in curios.

Good news from Mr. J. Coy Fraser, invalid dealer in flowers and plants, Green Cove Springs, Fla. He was rather downcast in spirit and down in luck when he wrote to me some weeks ago. Now he is happy and has plenty of work to keep him busy. He says thousands of people wrote to him and sent him books, magazines, plants and other things, as a result of the mention in this column.

"What really moved me," says my housebound friend, "is the way people in America are so willing to share with the less fortunate. I had never realized this until I started receiving the immense correspondence in response to the mention in your column. It gave me a new vista of friends, whom I wouldn't trade for anything, and a wealth of knowledge and advice."

Yes, the American people are all right. I'm happy to have been an instrument of this expression of brotherly love.

Regret to learn from Mrs. A. A. Slusher, of Roanoke, Va., that Printer L. E. Lookabill, faithful correspondent, went to hospital and missed Sunday school for the first time in 63 years. He is 77, and started to make his never-absent Sunday record in 1883.

Amy Vanderbilt returns from a delayed honeymoon in Bermuda, and sends me the Bermuda postcards she forgot to send while out in the islands. I have the same habit. Buy postcards, or pick them up in hotels, write to people I like, forget to buy stamps, and mail them when I get back home.

I've had a lot of correspondence with Mr. Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture and immigration of Louisiana. His letters have always been full of pep and energy. His circulars and other booster stuff for his state are among the liveliest I receive. I had always pictured him as a young fellow of 30 or 35, on his toes to make good in his job. I learn today that he is 77, has been 30 years in his present job, and 50 years in the service of his state.

THIS 'LABOR' WON'T GO OUT ON STRIKE

WINNSBORO, La., June 15.—(Special)—G. Coleman Davis, progressive Franklin parish planter, has turned out 115 energetic and hungry geese into a cotton field, and they are fast repaying him for his efforts by cleaning up every blade of grass and foreign growth, cotton excepted, in the field.

The geese are scrupulous in their avoidance of rendering any damage to the cotton plants. Mr. Davis said that he had heard that geese would perform in this manner but he was dubious about it all. Now he is convinced. All required, however, he says is to assure that the geese are confined to one field to prevent their scattering out elsewhere.

U. S. WITNESSES FOR MIHAILOVIC DENIED

BELGRADE, June 15.—(AP)—A defense request that American aviators be permitted to testify for Gen. Draja Mihailovic was refused by the military court today after the bearded Chetnik leader himself declared he did not agree "in principle" with such a move.

Mihailovic also repudiated his testimony yesterday admitting collaboration, telling the court today "I never collaborated with the enemy. That means agreement with the enemy. That was never." He said he was exhausted when he answered "Yes" to questions put to him by the prosecutor the day before.

R. D. Redman was granted permission to erect a one-story frame building to be used for a dwelling, located at 110 Williams Street. The total cost will not exceed $150 and the owner will do the building.

Noel Henderson was granted permission to erect a one-story tent house to be used for a sleeping room, located at 3019 Dick Taylor Street. The total cost will not exceed $150 and day labor will be used.

3-YEAR-OLD CHILD EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Walter Jones, three-year-old son of Walter Jones and wife, Negroes, 1308 Grammont street, was stricken late Saturday afternoon and died before any assistance could be given him. Dr. J. T. French, parish coroner, reported after an investigation that there were no signs of foul play and that death was due to natural causes.

The child had been playing in the street with several other children all afternoon. His parents, having missed the boy, asked the other children where he was and were told that he was under the house. The boy's uncle, Henry Moore, Negro, got the child from under the house and after taking him inside notified the police department and Dr. French as the boy was almost dead. The child died several minutes later before the arrival of the doctor or police officers.

The body was removed to the Lamothe Funeral Home.

Army's Hold On 'Public Fields' Scored

There is a growing impatience all over the country at the slow pace at which the government is proceeding in carrying out its announced intention to turn over its no longer needed military flying fields to communities for use by the public that supplied the countless millions of dollars for their construction.

The feeling is quite natural. The war completed the process of making the nation thoroughly airminded, and it has been estimated that the number of private fliers has doubled within the year and is steadily multiplying. Former war pilots are buying planes for their own use and business executives are acquiring them for every-day transportation with service-trained airmen at the controls. Plane manufacturers are reported to have backlogs of orders to cover several years' constant production.

But now, nearly a year after V-J day, the army is holding onto most of its airfields, operating them with skeleton staffs and—the cause of the current complaint—insisting on maintaining wartime rules and regulations that prohibit the use of the airstrips by private planes.

An exception to the reported general hard-boiled policy of the army is provided at Selman Field, which eventually is to be given to the city of Monroe as a municipal airport and is serving as such now to the extent that it is a terminal for the Delta and the Southern air lines.

Lt. Col. Henry G. Barrett, who remains as commanding officer at Selman, has been permitting the landing and take-off of the larger types of planes that he believes might meet with accidents on the soft, muddy strips of the two small commercial airfields here. Small planes, such as the Cubs, which can use the small fields in safety, still are barred from Selman.

No exceptions whatever are made, however, at many of the military fields where the army remains in control. A big private plane, carrying a group of business executives, landed at Selman the other day after having at first been refused permission by the control tower operator. The pilot told of having been barred from the military airfield at Gulfport, Miss., and said he had narrowly averted crackups in landing and starting from the tiny private field he had been forced to use in making a necessary stop there.

Gratifying progress appeared this past week in the process of bringing Selman under the city's control as another Monroe-owned public utility. Officers from the Little Rock office of the army's real estate and engineering divisions conferred with the commission council Tuesday and made a preliminary inspection of the airfield and its facilities. They were to return this week to begin a detailed inventory and July 22 was fixed as the tentative date for the army air corps to transfer the property back to the engineers. The latter, it was explained, then would issue the commission council a temporary permit, or license, to operate the portion required for a municipal airport, including the hangars, administration building, control tower, etc. The final transfer to city ownership would be made later through the War Assets Administration.

Commissioner William D. H. Rodriguez, directing head of the city-owned public utilities, said Saturday the council is receiving invaluable assistance in preparing its application for the Selman equipment from the Baton Rouge office of T. B. Herndon, head of the aviation division of the state department of public works. Assigned to aid the Monroe council is the department's John W. Myers, airport engineer, who is advising as to what portions of the present facilities of the field will be needed for the commercial airport.

Commissioner Rodriguez, who, with Mayor Harvey H. Benoit and Commissioner C. R. Tidwell, is engaged in a close study of airport operation and obtaining advice from other cities that have successfully engaged in such projects, said the council believes the port can be made self supporting from the start and be operated at a profit after four or five years. To "break even" at the beginning, it was estimated, the field must produce revenues of not less than $30,000 a year.

STILL A DANGEROUS BILL

The house committee on printing has reported favorably a bill to create a state printing board of the same type that made state printing one of the most nefarious of rackets back in the days of Leche and Long machinism. The house committee adopted a number of amendments to the bill as it was originally slipped through the senate, claiming that these amendments remove the objections that have been raised in every part of the state to the senate version.

The amendments do not remove the objections by any means. The bill as it stands, with all the amendments, still opens the door to a printing monopoly and that opens the door to graft, corruption and crookedness with public tax money. These possibilities are spotlighted by the past record. Under four years of the Leche-Long regime, which included a state printing board, some $3,000,000 was spent for state printing through the state printing board. When the printing board was abolished under the Jones administration and the present system of open contracts by competitive bidding was established, the cost of printing went down by 57 per cent in relation to what the same work would have cost the taxpayers under the rates charged during the existence of the board.

More than 95 per cent of the printers and supply firms in Louisiana are unalterably opposed to this bill, which can only mean that ALL OF THESE PARTIES REALIZE THEY WILL BE ELIMINATED FROM COMPETITION BY THE BILL.

Senate Bill No. 44 with amendments will eliminate the competition that now exists as to this public business by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 98 per cent of the printers and supply houses in this state, and will soon result in a complete monopoly where all of this business will be controlled by Thomas J. Moran's Sons.

The bill with amendments will restore what can easily become a vicious monopoly of practically all state printing and office supply business grossly unfair to the printers and supply firms of Louisiana, and costly to the people of the state.

The printing bill should be killed. It is vicious legislation in every way and there should be no hesitation on the part of anyone to take every possible means to kill it.

INTER-CITY BUS HALT DEPLORED

Monroe—businessmen, citizens, municipal officials, everybody—welcomes the hundreds of residents of West Monroe who daily cross the Ouachita river to shop, work and visit in the larger of the Twin Cities, and no one here would do anything to discourage these valued friends, customers and employes from coming as regularly and as pleasantly as they always have in the past.

So it is with general and sincere regret that Monroe considers the decision of the West Monroe Bus Company to discontinue inter-city service this morning and stop its buses at the west approach to the Coleman avenue-DeSiard street bridge. The estimated 600 to 700 West Monroe workers, shoppers and others who daily have ridden to the now discontinued terminal at Washington and Second, therefore, face the disagreeable necessity of walking back and forth across the bridge in all kinds of weather.

But, while the inconvenience and discomforts to which our neighbors will be subjected is deplored, we believe Mayor Harvey H. Benoit acted properly in refusing to permit the inter-city line to CONTINUE TO USE THE PUBLIC STREETS OF MONROE FOR A STATION. This paper recalls the congestion and generally unsatisfactory conditions that prevailed when the company used the first block of North Second street for its depot. Also operators of business houses on North Grand and at Walnut and DeSiard will attest to the annoyances they suffered during the periods the terminal was maintained there.

Since last March 18, the record reveals, the Monroe mayor had sought to induce the line's operator to provide a station with a waiting and rest room for his white and colored patrons, just as other inter-city lines do here. The company, however, declined to do so and when instructed to cease using the Washington-Second corner by June 15, it arbitrarily announced it no longer would run its buses across the bridge into this city. Although the company manager said yesterday he is standing pat on the decision, it is hoped some way will be found for resumption of the service.

Irked: Donald O'Connor, out of the service and "available" for months, but left idle by Universal. . . . By pre-marital agreement, Barbara Hale, soon to wed Bill Williams, will buy the house; he'll buy the furniture, the famliy car and a sailing boat. . . . Eddie Cantor has been invited to Vancouver's Diamond Jubilee, July 1-14, which is ironical because his radio program is banned from Canada's airways.

Esther Williams and Hubby Ben Gage are packing swim togs for a second honeymoon in Hawaii. . . . Wat's this anent Norma Sherer, in retirement so long she's been forgotten by many fans, asking $200,000 to play "Kate" in "Arch of Triumph"—a role that the screen's biggest are begging for? . . . Recommended for interesting reading: "You Bet Your Life," a book on gambling odds by Leo Guild, a former Fidler staff member. . . . Now it's Parkyakarkus who's recording a comic phonograph album for kids. . . . Dick Haymes is buying an Encino ranch home.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal's "The Runaround" (Rod Cameron-Ella Raines-Broderick Crawford). Mile-a-minute romance, powered with plenty of laughing gas. . . . Good: MGM'S "Little Mister Jim"(Jackie "Butch" Jenkins-James Craig—Frances Gifford). A sentimental tear-jerker that will send the ladies home in happy tears. . . . Warner Brothers' "Janie Gets Married" (Joan Leslie-Robert Hutton-Edward Arnold). Super-farcially entertaining. . . . So-So: MGM's "Two Smart People" (Lucille Ball-John Hodiak-Lloyd Nolan). Not smart enough to smother audience yawns. . . . Columbia's "Talk About a Lady" (Jinx Falkenburg-Forrest Tucker). Class B—and strictly class-conscious. . . . Best Performance: Robert Benchley in "Janie Gets Married." A best-loved comic makes his final bow one that fans will remember.

Paul Henreid, talking for publication the other day, decried the Hollywood practice of using big close-ups of the stars every third or fourth scene. "Because of that," he argued, "the range of the scene—the complete panorama so necessary for illusion—is destroyed. The close up places the entire burden of the drama on the individual actor. It is, when over-used, destructive of art." Now when actors with Mr. Henreid's erudite vocabulary get to talking that way, I usually clam up. Being neither a great actor nor a great director, I'm not equipped to talk about the kind of art you spell with a capital "A." But I am equipped to talk about stellar egos, for I've been observing them for years. If Henreid tries to sell that idea of his to producers, he'll find himself the most unpopular man in town.

According to the trade papers, one Edward Stevens, a bus boy in the 20th Century-Fox case, has been auditioned by the Los Angeles Civic Opera and given a contract. A check-up at the studio reveals that he's been working there for some time, and that he's tried in vain to get a break in pictures, overlooking the fact that movie Columbuses seldom bother to make discoveries in their own back yards. In the natural course of events, now that he's an opera singer, 20th will sooner or later offer him a movie ticket, at from ten to 100 times the salary he could have been hired for when he was pounding on the studio gates.

Eleanor Roosevelt's decision that Lionel Barrymore can't play FDR in one sequence of a proposed picture seems to me a bit inconsistent since it's based on the fact that Barrymore campaigned against the late president in the last election. The inconsistency lies in the fact that I've not heard of her making any protests against MGM's proposed biography of Franklin Roosevelt. Louis B. Mayer, if memory serves me right, has always been one of the staunchest Republicans in these parts. Incidentally, things have come to a pretty pass if an actor's roles are to be determined by his politics.

The Esquire Theater, currently showing a European film titled, "The Open City," confines its advertising to excerpts from two reviews. The first, from Life, is: "It's plain sexiness has seldom been approached by Hollywood." The second, from the New York World-Telegram, reads: "The Censors were lenient." What an opinion that exhibitor must have of his patrons intelligence and taste!

OUR CHILDREN

SPEAK SOFTLY
By Angelo Patri

One reason why children are cross and unmanageable at times is the fatigue sometimes brought about by loud and incessant talking to which he is subjected at home and school. I've known teachers to begin talking the moment the children entered the room and to stop only when the session ended. Such teachers talk loud and long and the children become weary and close their ears and minds.

But what about the people at home? Some mothers, and fathers, too, seem to think that the louder they shout the quicker the child will understand and obey. If they are not obeyed on the instant, they raise their voices. Then they are lost. No one obeys a person who has lost control of himself. Children are quick to know and act upon that.

Children who are used to being yelled at do not obey until they are forced to and then only as far as they must. They learn to disregard shouting. The parent who shouts and threatens is likely to take it out in shouting only, and the children take a chance that he will do just that. Usually they are right.

When you want a child to obey you first must gain his attention. Get close to him, for the closer you are the more effective your influence. When you have gotten his attention, tell him, in ordinary tones what is wanted and stand by until he obeys. Don't let him wander off until he obeys. Keep at it but be gentle, and he will learn quickly to take your directions seriously. Once he learns that it will be possible for you to direct him from a greater distance. Even then, don't raise your voice beyond necessary volume—never shout. This will save energy and teach the child respect for your personality and authority. When he grows older he will not forget.

There is a great oak on the hillside. When the wind howls through the valley this great tree whispers softly, sothingly, and stands firmly until the storm is over. The pine tree across the valley moans and shrieks and cries and wrings its arms with every blast. The cattle gather under the arms of the oak tree and settle down in its shelter serenely until the storm passes. No animal takes refuge with the pine tree. It is left alone in its anguish. That is the way in which children judge adults and behave accordingly.

Helpful habits can be encouraged in a child but they cannot be forced. Angelo Patri discusses how helpful habits can be stimulated in a leaflet devoted exclusively to this subject, No. P-14.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife.—Mark 10:7.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The records of present supreme court justices reveal a surprising lack of judicial experience before appointment to the highest tribunal. Confirmation of Fred M. Vinson as chief justice will make him the man with most lower court background.

It's a mere five years. Four of them were spent as associate justice of the District of Columbia court of appeals. The fifth year was spent as chief judge of the emergency court of appeals for price control.

Vinson apparently did all right. There were no complaints. But there was nothing about his record that was in any way distinguished.

The only other justice with any experience on the bench prior to his supreme court appointment is Wiley Rutledge. He also served four years on the D. C. court of appeals.

But that's the sum total—nine years of judicial experience—an average of one year per member.

Maybe that isn't quite accurate either. Justice Hugo LaFayette Black served 18 months as a police court judge in Birmingham back around 1910. It would make even a Philadelphia lawyer sweat, however, to prove that saying "30 days" and "$10 and costs" to a bunch of drunks and bums qualifies a man to become senior justice on the supreme court of the United States.

Black's other legal experience was as a county prosecutor for two years, a general practice lawyer for six, and a U. S. senator for 12. A distinguished career, no doubt, but not what it should take to make a top judge.

The same is true of all the others.

Justice Stanley Reed, before appointment to the supreme court in 1938, served as counsel for a couple of alphabet agencies and as U. S. solicitor general for three years. Justice William O. Douglas served three years on the securities and exchange commission.

Felix Frankfurter and Wiley Rutledge were both professors of law, the former at Harvard, the latter at Colorado, Iowa, and Washington University in St. Louis. Frankfurter even declined Governor Ely's appointment to the Massachusetts supreme court in 1932.

Frank Murphy was in politics as governor of Michigan and the Philippines. Jackson, like Reed, had also been U. S. solicitor general.

Harold H. Burton was a lawyer and mayor of Cleveland, then U. S. senator from Ohio for only four years, when President Truman named him to the supreme court last September.

This sad lack of previous experience on the bench presents the opportunity for serious criticism of the American judicial system. It also offers a plausible explanation for the squabbles and dissentions, the five-to-four decisions, the philosophical arguments between conservative liberal factions which have characterized the supreme court's performance in recent years.

As the late Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone is reported to have said, his principal trouble with the court was that the presidents never sent up enough real judges to get out the work.

The present court may be made up of entirely capable, and even brilliant, lawyers. But lawyers. Not trained judges. The best lawyer in the country would probably make the worst judge.

All right then, what's the matter with the lower federal courts and the state courts, that they aren't producing more rookie judges who can be drafted into the big-league supreme court? The frantic six-week search by President Truman to find a successor to Chief Justice Stone is an admission that the judicial talent in the United States and on the supreme court itself is at an extremely low ebb.

Scanning these state and federal courts, the president's scouts could find no one big enough for the supreme court job. Why not?

There's nothing the matter with the pay these judges get. Their salaries have been raised over the years to put them beyond political pressure, to give them security and freedom from bias. Maybe that's the trouble. In their smug aloofness, maybe the judges have become intellectually lazy, fat and fat-headed.

Maybe, also, they realize there's no use trying to be a good or a great and fearless judge. The supreme court jobs in recent years seem to have gone not to the ablest jurists but to the loyal political hacks whom a grateful president wants to reward with social security in the form of a $20,000-a-year paycheck.

Oxygen in compounds makes up about one-half of the earth's crust, and about nine-tenths of the weight of water.

THIS 'LABOR' WON'T GO OUT ON STRIKE

WINNSBORO, La., June 15.—(Special)—G. Coleman Davis, progressive Franklin parish planter, has turned out 115 energetic and hungry geese into a cotton field, and they are fast repaying him for his efforts by cleaning up every blade of grass and foreign growth, cotton excepted, in the field.

The geese are scrupulous in their avoidance of rendering any damage to the cotton plants. Mr. Davis said that he had heard that geese would perform in this manner but he was dubious about it all. Now he is convinced. All required, however, he says is to assure that the geese are confined to one field to prevent their scattering out elsewhere.

U. S. WITNESSES FOR MIHAILOVIC DENIED

BELGRADE, June 15.—(AP)—A defense request that American aviators be permitted to testify for Gen. Draja Mihailovic was refused by the military court today after the bearded Chetnik leader himself declared he did not agree "in principle" with such a move.

Mihailovic also repudiated his testimony yesterday admitting collaboration, telling the court today "I never collaborated with the enemy. That means agreement with the enemy. That was never." He said he was exhausted when he answered "Yes" to questions put to him by the prosecutor the day before.

New York Day By Day
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Back in New York after a long Western-Southern trip by air, I am more than ever convinced that such trips are salutary for those who live most of the time in the City. Before the war, when travel was easier, I made a practice of getting away from New York every six or eight weeks. It helps one appreciate the attitude of the American people toward matters of importance to all of us. I always absorb much encouragement and faith in the future when I talk with the people Out There. There is much less pessimism than here. Those people know that we are beset with enemies, but they have unshakable faith in the American spirit. They do not believe that tomorrow is Doomsday.

I found, also, a growing interest in humane treatment of animals in the South and West. That is always a sign of advancing culture . . . and a letter awaiting me is from Mrs. D. P. Hughes, of Monticello, Fla., who says she likes to read about our dogs. Her little boy has two dogs, half spitz, half chow. They are affectionate, and excellent watchdogs. I've never been seriously bitten by a dog, but I've come close to it with chows when they thought me a trespasser.

To several who have inquired about disposal of antiques, old newspaper files, and old books; I am unable to recommend any dealer for this kind of transaction. People often have exaggerated ideas about the worth of some heirloom, and generally are dissatisfied when they are offered a fraction of what they believe it to be worth. A good way to pile up unpopularity is to recommend dealers in curios.

Good news from Mr. J. Coy Fraser, invalid dealer in flowers and plants, Green Cove Springs, Fla. He was rather downcast in spirit and down in luck when he wrote to me some weeks ago. Now he is happy and has plenty of work to keep him busy. He says thousands of people wrote to him and sent him books, magazines, plants and other things, as a result of the mention in this column.

"What really moved me," says my housebound friend, "is the way people in America are so willing to share with the less fortunate. I had never realized this until I started receiving the immense correspondence in response to the mention in your column. It gave me a new vista of friends, whom I wouldn't trade for anything, and a wealth of knowledge and advice."

Yes, the American people are all right. I'm happy to have been an instrument of this expression of brotherly love.

Regret to learn from Mrs. A. A. Slusher, of Roanoke, Va., that Printer L. E. Lookabill, faithful correspondent, went to hospital and missed Sunday school for the first time in 63 years. He is 77, and started to make his never-absent Sunday record in 1883.

Amy Vanderbilt returns from a delayed honeymoon in Bermuda, and sends me the Bermuda postcards she forgot to send while out in the islands. I have the same habit. Buy postcards, or pick them up in hotels, write to people I like, forget to buy stamps, and mail them when I get back home.

I've had a lot of correspondence with Mr. Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture and immigration of Louisiana. His letters have always been full of pep and energy. His circulars and other booster stuff for his state are among the liveliest I receive. I had always pictured him as a young fellow of 30 or 35, on his toes to make good in his job. I learn today that he is 77, has been 30 years in his present job, and 50 years in the service of his state.

3-YEAR-OLD CHILD EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Walter Jones, three-year-old son of Walter Jones and wife, Negroes, 1308 Grammont street, was stricken late Saturday afternoon and died before any assistance could be given him. Dr. J. T. French, parish coroner, reported after an investigation that there were no signs of foul play and that death was due to natural causes.

The child had been playing in the street with several other children all afternoon. His parents, having missed the boy, asked the other children where he was and were told that he was under the house. The boy's uncle, Henry Moore, Negro, got the child from under the house and after taking him inside notified the police department and Dr. French as the boy was almost dead. The child died several minutes later before the arrival of the doctor or police officers.

The body was removed to the Lamothe Funeral Home.

MOREHOUSE 4-H CLUBBERS CITED

Contributions To War Effort Aided Insect Control

BASTROP, La., June 15.—(Special)—Three Morehouse 4-H clubbers have been cited for outstanding contributions to the war effort as war emergency cotton insect pest reporters, announced J. B. Meredith, parish 4-H club leader for boys.

The three are David Jones, Gallion; Thelbert Bunch, Jones, and William U. Parker, Mer Rouge. Their work, according to the citation given by W. C. Abbott, state club leader, and J. B. Garrett, extension entomologist, aided materially in the proper distribution of insecticides for insect control.

Weekly reports of insects found on cotton farms in the communities where each of the trio lived were made to Garrett, along with reports from 4-H clubbers in other parishes. These reports enabled him to determine what parishes needed the scarce insecticides the most and he rationed them accordingly.

YELDELL NOSED OUT BY CLARK

Former Lacked But Four Write-In Votes To Win Mayoralty

BASTROP, La., June 15.—(Special)—Although his name was not printed on the official ballot, J. U. Yeldell lacked only four write-in votes to obtain the mayorship of Mer Rouge in Tuesday's municipal elections in that town. C. L. Clark, Sr., the incumbent, defeated Yeldell, his only opponent, 53-50. Yeldell had not qualified for the race before last week's deadline and supporters wrote in his name on the ballot.

In the campaign for the three seats on the board of aldermen, Audry McDermott, garnered 94 votes to lead the field. Incumbents J. A. Davenport, Jr., with 90, and W. T. Blackwell, with 82, easily regained their seats on the board. W. S. Vosburg ran fourth but "out of the money" with 36 ballots in his favor. L. T. Snyder, Lonnie Shaw and C. L. Golson received one write-in vote each. Snyder, who has been serving on the board, did not offer himself for reelection.

Ford Hendershot, who has been serving as marshal to fill the unexpired term of Walter Dopson, was an easy victor in the race for that post, chalking up 79 votes. J. W. Johnson, the only other active campaigner for the post, received 22 ballots. George King was given one write-in vote.

MOREHOUSE 4-H CLUBBERS CITED

Contributions To War Effort Aided Insect Control

BASTROP, La., June 15.—(Special)—Three Morehouse 4-H clubbers have been cited for outstanding contributions to the war effort as war emergency cotton insect pest reporters, announced J. B. Meredith, parish 4-H club leader for boys.

The three are David Jones, Gallion; Thelbert Bunch, Jones, and William U. Parker, Mer Rouge. Their work, according to the citation given by W. C. Abbott, state club leader, and J. B. Garrett, extension entomologist, aided materially in the proper distribution of insecticides for insect control.

Weekly reports of insects found on cotton farms in the communities where each of the trio lived were made to Garrett, along with reports from 4-H clubbers in other parishes. These reports enabled him to determine what parishes needed the scarce insecticides the most and he rationed them accordingly.

YELDELL NOSED OUT BY CLARK

Former Lacked But Four Write-In Votes To Win Mayoralty

BASTROP, La., June 15.—(Special)—Although his name was not printed on the official ballot, J. U. Yeldell lacked only four write-in votes to obtain the mayorship of Mer Rouge in Tuesday's municipal elections in that town. C. L. Clark, Sr., the incumbent, defeated Yeldell, his only opponent, 53-50. Yeldell had not qualified for the race before last week's deadline and supporters wrote in his name on the ballot.

In the campaign for the three seats on the board of aldermen, Audry McDermott, garnered 94 votes to lead the field. Incumbents J. A. Davenport, Jr., with 90, and W. T. Blackwell, with 82, easily regained their seats on the board. W. S. Vosburg ran fourth but "out of the money" with 36 ballots in his favor. L. T. Snyder, Lonnie Shaw and C. L. Golson received one write-in vote each. Snyder, who has been serving on the board, did not offer himself for reelection.

Ford Hendershot, who has been serving as marshal to fill the unexpired term of Walter Dopson, was an easy victor in the race for that post, chalking up 79 votes. J. W. Johnson, the only other active campaigner for the post, received 22 ballots. George King was given one write-in vote.

PRICE OF SUGAR TO BE INCREASED

Cost Of Coffee May Soon Be Boosted Three To Five Cents Pound

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—OPA is planning to slap a higher price on another market basket item—sugar.

And the cost of coffee may be increased three to five cents a pound soon.

With price hikes authorized or already in effect for milk, bread, butter, cheese and some cereals, an OPA official disclosed that housewives will have to pay more for sugar shortly.

This official told a reporter privately that the increase at retail will be about a fifth of a cent a pound—a penny on a five-pound package. The price will be raised, he said, to offset wage increases granted to sugar refinery workers.

It will be the second price boost for sugar this year. The cost went up a half-cent pound last February.

Importers have been conferring with Stabilization Director Chester Bowles on the possibility of a price increase for coffee. Bowles has told them he will decide after final action has been taken on the price control extension bill, now in House-Senate conference.

Unless renewed, a subsidy of three cents a pound paid to importers will expire June 30. Price bills passed by both the House and Senate trim subsidies substantially and thus necessitate elimination of some of these payments.

Officials said withdrawal of the coffee subsidy would push prices up three cents a pound, and that it may be necessary to add another two cents to keep the supply flowing from Latin America.

In other developments on sugar, OPA announced yesterday that bakeries' rations are being cut. The purpose is reduce output of sugar-consuming pastries and thus provide more flour for bread.

The cut, effective from July 1 through September, will give commercial bakers only 60 per cent as much sugar as they used during the corresponding period of 1941. Their present ration is 70 per cent.

OPA also announced that a second home canning ration stamp, good for five pounds of sugar, will become valid July 1. The coupon, spare stamp 10 in family ration books, will be good through October 31.

Spare stamp 9, now valid for five pounds, also is good through October 31.

ARMY WILL RETURN OVERSEAS FATHERS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The army decided to bring back from overseas all non-volunteer enlisted fathers and men with at least 21 months of service.

At the same time it has authorized the discharge of all non-volunteer enlisted men in this country who have 21 months or more in uniform.

The announcement last night estimated 133,000 fathers would be involved, including 77,000 in the Pacific, 18,000 in Europe, 28,000 in the United States and 10,000 in miscellaneous overseas areas. The plan is to have them all home by August 31.

The army previously had told congress it could make this move if extension of selective service would provide replacements. It decided not to wait, the announcement said, because it wanted to keep troop ships full and to continue the flow of discharges.

A draft extension bill in the hands of a house-senate conference would ban further inductions of fathers and limit draftee service to 18 months.

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—(AP)— This week Hollywood's most famous clergyman, with the possible exception of Father O'Malley, celebrated his 25th anniversary as the screen's marrying parson by hitching Claire Trevor and Lawrence Tierney, for film purposes only.

He is Father Neal Dodd, pastor of St. Mary of the Angels Episcopal Church.

To date, Father Dodd has united close to 300 couples in wedding rites on the screen, and has performed 709 genuine marriage ceremonies for film stars and others. This week's marriage took place on the 'Deadlier than the Male' set at RKO.

Father Dodd says when he came to Hollywood in 1918, he was astonished to discover that all the film people were being regarded as black sheep because of the behavior of a few.

"I looked upon that attitude as strictly un-Christian and set out to correct it wherever I could. When I started to mix with the film folk, I found them good and bad in the same proportion as people engaged in other professions.

"Only their sins were blazoned to the world while no one was interested when Mrs. Brown, a baker's wife, ran away with Mr. Jones, the plumber.

"Then one day, one of friends among the producers—I think it was James Cruze—suggested that I perform some of the screen weddings. I was delighted with the idea."

His first film marriage was in a Mack Sennett comedy in which he hitched Fatty Arbuckle and Mabel Normand. After that he continued marrying people both on and off the screen.

Among the first stars whom Father Dodd married in real life were William S. Hart, beloved western star, and Winifred Westover, and the late Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller, the Ziegfeld Follies and screen star.

Father Dodd also united Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, Bing Crosby and Joan Caulfield, Errol Flynn and Oliva de Vavilland and Melvyn Douglas and Rosalind Russell, but these happy couples had the knot tied in celluloid only.

The Fort Madison, Iowa, churchman is married and has one daughter, Molly. She is an actress and was with the USO throughout the war. At present she is in Germany with an organization which is furnishing entertainment to our occupation troops.

I guess that should be proof enough of Father Dodd's faith in entertainment folk.

BLAZE IN TRASH BOX

Engine Company No. 1 used a line from its truck tank to extinguish a blaze in a trash box in the alley at the rear of The Toggery, 211 DeSiard Street, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. A carelessly thrown cigaret was blamed.

While Fredonia, N. Y., was lighted with natural gas on June 5, 1825, gas did not come into general use until the 1880's.

EXTENSION WORK COURSES OFFERED

The general extension division of Louisiana State University organized two education classes at Northeast Junior College yesterday morning. The courses, requested by persons present, were social and civic problems.

The courses are designated as education numbers 250 and 251, each carrying three semester hours credit. Teachers and prospective teachers may register for these courses through Tuesday morning.

Other courses may also be started at the junior college here during the summer. Any time as many as eight to 12 persons register for a particular course an effort will be made to secure qualified professors to handle the class.

TEXARKANA EASIER BUT STILL WATCHES

TEXARKANA, Tex., June 15.—(AP)—This state line city is relaxing somewhat, but is still on guard against a person dubbed "The Phantom," generally believed responsible for five unsolved murders which brought apprehension to every Texarkana home.

The fear which gripped Texarkana and the precautions which still make it unsafe for anyone to act suspiciously or prowl around residential areas at night, had its inception when the bodies of Polly Ann Moore, 17, and Richard L. Griffin, 29, were discovered in an auto near the city March 24.

Then and on April 14 the bodies of Betty Ho Booker, 15, and Paul Martin, 17, were found a mile apart on lonely roads near a park here. On May 3, Virgil Starks, 36, was killed and his wife wounded by shots fired through a window of their farm home.

Texarkana lies partly in Texas, partly in Arkansas. Officers of both states are cooperating in the search for the slayer, described by Texas Ranger Captain M. T. Gonzaulas as "cunning, cold-blooded and unmerciful—a completely unscrupulous criminal of the worst type."

"We are going on the possibility that this man may be a sex maniac," Sheriff W. E. Davis of Miller county, Ark., said.

For some weeks no reports of suspects have cropped up. Police have received several reports of prowlers, but none has been arrested.

PRICE OF SUGAR TO BE INCREASED

Cost Of Coffee May Soon Be Boosted Three To Five Cents Pound

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—OPA is planning to slap a higher price on another market basket item—sugar.

And the cost of coffee may be increased three to five cents a pound soon.

With price hikes authorized or already in effect for milk, bread, butter, cheese and some cereals, an OPA official disclosed that housewives will have to pay more for sugar shortly.

This official told a reporter privately that the increase at retail will be about a fifth of a cent a pound—a penny on a five-pound package. The price will be raised, he said, to offset wage increases granted to sugar refinery workers.

It will be the second price boost for sugar this year. The cost went up a half-cent pound last February.

Importers have been conferring with Stabilization Director Chester Bowles on the possibility of a price increase for coffee. Bowles has told them he will decide after final action has been taken on the price control extension bill, now in House-Senate conference.

Unless renewed, a subsidy of three cents a pound paid to importers will expire June 30. Price bills passed by both the House and Senate trim subsidies substantially and thus necessitate elimination of some of these payments.

Officials said withdrawal of the coffee subsidy would push prices up three cents a pound, and that it may be necessary to add another two cents to keep the supply flowing from Latin America.

In other developments on sugar, OPA announced yesterday that bakeries' rations are being cut. The purpose is reduce output of sugar-consuming pastries and thus provide more flour for bread.

The cut, effective from July 1 through September, will give commercial bakers only 60 per cent as much sugar as they used during the corresponding period of 1941. Their present ration is 70 per cent.

OPA also announced that a second home canning ration stamp, good for five pounds of sugar, will become valid July 1. The coupon, spare stamp 10 in family ration books, will be good through October 31.

Spare stamp 9, now valid for five pounds, also is good through October 31.

VETS SHOULD ARRANGE EARLY

Those Desiring To Go To College In Fall, Asked To Make Plans

Regional manager, Frank Martinez, Jr., of the Veterans Administration, urges all veterans who are planning to attend colleges or universities this fall to file their applications for entitlement as early as possible, it was announced by John C. Tucker, contact representative. Mr. Martinez' statement is in line with the plea that is also being made by the colleges and universities and early application is stressed in order to avoid confusion and delays in the payment of subsistence to veterans.

"Subsistence payments to veterans going to school cannot be made until the entitlement is presented by the veteran to the school, and the school in turn forwards it to the regional V. A. office. For the veteran's own convenience, interest and comfort, he should obtain his certificate of entitlement as early as possible so that he might have it to present to the school when he registers," said Mr. Martinez.

A veteran may file an application for his entitlement by presenting a certified photostatic copy of his discharge at the contact office in the City Hall, Monroe, said Mr. Tucker, contact representative. This is a simple procedure and all that is necessary for a veteran to become eligible for school training provided he meets the usual eligibility requirements of a veteran.

Mr. Tucker urges all veterans who plan on going to school this fall to contact him as soon as possible.

HIT 'VICIOUS MONOPOLY' OF PROPOSED LAW ON PRINTING

Opponents Assert Measure Would Eliminate Competition In State

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(Special)—Hitting the "vicious political monopoly of all state printing" proposed in a Senate bill to create new printing board, spokesmen representing more than 90 percent of Louisianan's printers today denounced the measure and urged the House of Representatives to block its final enactment.

The bill, charged the printers, "will invite political conniving and corruption way beyond any that was ever known or attempted under the old state printing board. . . . It will eliminate competition that now exists by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 97 percent of the printers and supply houses in this state.

This is strictly a Thomas J. Moran bill. No printer or supply firm has spoken or written in favor of this bill except Thomas J. Moran's Sons, and we concede that it is the only firm prepared to handle all of the state business under this bill." Thomas J. Moran's Sons is a New Orleans printing firm.

The measure, Senate bill 44, has already passed the Senate and been reported favorably, 4-2, by the House committee on printing. It provides for replacement of the state printing board with a board of state printing. The board of state printing would allocate contracts on a bulk basis for a two-year period, in eleven different categories. Contracts are now granted on a job-to-job basis.

The bill, now on the House calendar, normally would not come up for passage until the calendar is cleared of bills originated in the house. It may, however, be called up Sunday night or any other time under suspension of the rules.

"This bill," declared, Fred G. Benton, Baton Rouge attorney representing the state's printers, "is much more vicious than the act of 1912," under which the Leche-Long administration spent $3,000,000 for printing. "It includes printing of all state departments, instead of simply the constitutional agencies covered under the old bill. Only L. S. U., the department of highways, and the supreme court, in addition to parish agencies, are exempted from its provisions."

When the printing board which had flourished under the Long-Leche administration was abolished by Sam Jones, printing costs for the state dropped by more than 57 percent.

Benton also rapped "Malicious political connotations" of provisions in the bill which would permit the board to renew contracts before expiration dates of first contracts, and thus "saddle the succeeding administration with these contracts for a two-year additional period."

Forty amendments to the bill in no way diminish its undesirability, said Benton. "Despite the amendments, it remains a vicious law that will invite political conniving and corruption far beyond any . . . ever known or attempted under the old state printing board."

At least 80 percent of all state printing, asserted the printers in their statement, will fall outside contracts, and must be supplied by state printers without further bidding or contract prices. It is his provisions, Benton pointed out, that resulted in the excessive expenditures of the Long-Leche administration, more than twice those in Jones' terms. "More than 95 percent of printers and supply firms in Louisiana," averred the statement, "are opposed to the bill."

Statement of the printers, release by Benton, follows:

1. Senate Bill No. 44 was slipped through the senate without warning as to its insidious purpose. Since the true nature of the bill was first brought to light after it reached the house, it has been amended more than forty times. It is hardly imaginable that is was intended to be a good bill where so many amendments were necessary. The same people are still backing the bill.

2. Despite said amendments Senate Bill No. 44 remains a vicious law that will invite political conniving and corruption far beyond any that was ever known or attempted under the old state printing board, whose handling of this business was restricted under Act No. 141 of 1912 to only the constitutional offices rather than taking in all boards and public agencies as provided in Senate Bill No. 44.

3. Senate Bill No. 44 will restore to full bloom the old state printing board with control of all state printing and office supplies and with the authority to let contracts for eleven different classes of printing and office supplies for a two year period in advance after only three weeks of advertising for bids.

4. Senate Bill No. 44 will saddle on the people of Louisiana two-year contracts involving in excess of a million dollars, to be let within 90 days after the law becomes effective, at a time when the cost of material and the cost of labor are at the highest level since the last world war.

5. The bulk buying and bulk bidding required by this act will mean from a practical standpoint that at least 80 percent of the actual needs that will arise during the two-year period will be outside of the contract, and yet must be supplied by the state printers under this act without further bidding or contract price.

6. Thomas J. Moran's Sons is the only contractor who holds any contracts for state printing now. These contracts are protected by this bill. This is stricly a Thomas J. Moran law.

7. This printing board under the act will have the power to let contracts for an additional period of two years before the expiration dates of the first contracts that will saddle the succeeding administration with these contracts for a two-year additional period.

8. Senate Bill No. 44 will eliminate the competition that now exists as to all of this public business by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 97 percent of the printers and supply houses in this state, and will soon result in a complete monopoly where all of this business will be controlled by Thomas J. Moran's Sons. Veterans of World War II will be unable to compete under this bill.

9. Senate Bill No. 44 will allow the purchasing of all office supplies of every kind for the next two years without any contract and without any competitive bidding whatever.

10. Actual official records in the office of the department of finance prove that the people of Louisiana are saving approximately 57 1/2 percent in the cost of state printing and office supply needs under the present system as compared with the old printing board method which Senate Bill No. 44 will restore.

11. Senate Bill No. 44 will restore what can easily become a vicious political monopoly of all state printing and office supply business grossly unfair to the printers and supply firms of Louisiana, and costly to the people of the state.

12. More than 95 percent of the printers and supply firms in Louisiana are unalterably opposed to this bill, which can only mean that all of these parties realize they will be eliminated from competition by the bill.

13. No printer or supply firm has spoken or written in favor of this bill except Thomas J. Moran's Sons, and this firm concedes that it is the only firm prepared to handle all of the state business under this bill.

14. Senate Bill No. 44 is opposed by the State Press Association of Louisiana, by substantially all of the state printers and state supply firms in Louisiana, and by the business people as well as the labor unions of the state. The bill has received editorial condemnation from the press of Louisiana, as representing a vicious, corrupt, monopolistic and uneconomical bill.

ARRESTED FOR USE OF CHASTITY BELT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—A 39-year-old wood worker, who Police Captain Edward Webb said styled a chasity belt, similar to those used in medieval days, to keep his wife from "running around," was free on $1,000 bail today.

City Recorder Albert Shahafi released William Truax after a preliminary hearing on a charge of atrocious assault and battery. He was to be given a further hearing Monday.

Webb quoted the 33-year-old wife, Rose, as saying her husband locked her into the belt yesterday morning before he left for work. Truax also locked up all her clothes as an added precaution, she told police.

Scantily clad, she made her way to a neighbor's house where she borrowed a nickel. Then she phoned police from a nearby store.

Freed, Mrs. Truax exclaimed, "I wouldn't be untrue. I hate men—all men."

Webb said Truax told of making the galvanized chain belt in his home workship during his spare time and putting it on his wife to "keep her from running around."

Masters, a city employe, was knocked from the transformer at 3:48 at Alabama and Mississippi streets. He was rushed to the clinic by a Mulhearn's ambulance.

It was reported by hospital officials that Masters suffered from a severe shock when he was knocked from the pole and did not regain consciousness until he arrived at the clinic. He suffered numerous brush burns received by the fall.

VETS SHOULD ARRANGE EARLY

Those Desiring To Go To College In Fall, Asked To Make Plans

Regional manager, Frank Martinez, Jr., of the Veterans Administration, urges all veterans who are planning to attend colleges or universities this fall to file their applications for entitlement as early as possible, it was announced by John C. Tucker, contact representative. Mr. Martinez' statement is in line with the plea that is also being made by the colleges and universities and early application is stressed in order to avoid confusion and delays in the payment of subsistence to veterans.

"Subsistence payments to veterans going to school cannot be made until the entitlement is presented by the veteran to the school, and the school in turn forwards it to the regional V. A. office. For the veteran's own convenience, interest and comfort, he should obtain his certificate of entitlement as early as possible so that he might have it to present to the school when he registers," said Mr. Martinez.

A veteran may file an application for his entitlement by presenting a certified photostatic copy of his discharge at the contact office in the City Hall, Monroe, said Mr. Tucker, contact representative. This is a simple procedure and all that is necessary for a veteran to become eligible for school training provided he meets the usual eligibility requirements of a veteran.

Mr. Tucker urges all veterans who plan on going to school this fall to contact him as soon as possible.

Opponents Assert Measure Would Eliminate Competition In State

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(Special)—Hitting the "vicious political monopoly of all state printing" proposed in a Senate bill to create new printing board, spokesmen representing more than 90 percent of Louisianan's printers today denounced the measure and urged the House of Representatives to block its final enactment.

The bill, charged the printers, "will invite political conniving and corruption way beyond any that was ever known or attempted under the old state printing board. . . . It will eliminate competition that now exists by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 97 percent of the printers and supply houses in this state.

This is strictly a Thomas J. Moran bill. No printer or supply firm has spoken or written in favor of this bill except Thomas J. Moran's Sons, and we concede that it is the only firm prepared to handle all of the state business under this bill." Thomas J. Moran's Sons is a New Orleans printing firm.

The measure, Senate bill 44, has already passed the Senate and been reported favorably, 4-2, by the House committee on printing. It provides for replacement of the state printing board with a board of state printing. The board of state printing would allocate contracts on a bulk basis for a two-year period, in eleven different categories. Contracts are now granted on a job-to-job basis.

The bill, now on the House calendar, normally would not come up for passage until the calendar is cleared of bills originated in the house. It may, however, be called up Sunday night or any other time under suspension of the rules.

"This bill," declared, Fred G. Benton, Baton Rouge attorney representing the state's printers, "is much more vicious than the act of 1912," under which the Leche-Long administration spent $3,000,000 for printing. "It includes printing of all state departments, instead of simply the constitutional agencies covered under the old bill. Only L. S. U., the department of highways, and the supreme court, in addition to parish agencies, are exempted from its provisions."

When the printing board which had flourished under the Long-Leche administration was abolished by Sam Jones, printing costs for the state dropped by more than 57 percent.

Benton also rapped "Malicious political connotations" of provisions in the bill which would permit the board to renew contracts before expiration dates of first contracts, and thus "saddle the succeeding administration with these contracts for a two-year additional period."

Forty amendments to the bill in no way diminish its undesirability, said Benton. "Despite the amendments, it remains a vicious law that will invite political conniving and corruption far beyond any . . . ever known or attempted under the old state printing board."

At least 80 percent of all state printing, asserted the printers in their statement, will fall outside contracts, and must be supplied by state printers without further bidding or contract prices. It is his provisions, Benton pointed out, that resulted in the excessive expenditures of the Long-Leche administration, more than twice those in Jones' terms. "More than 95 percent of printers and supply firms in Louisiana," averred the statement, "are opposed to the bill."

Statement of the printers, release by Benton, follows:

1. Senate Bill No. 44 was slipped through the senate without warning as to its insidious purpose. Since the true nature of the bill was first brought to light after it reached the house, it has been amended more than forty times. It is hardly imaginable that is was intended to be a good bill where so many amendments were necessary. The same people are still backing the bill.

2. Despite said amendments Senate Bill No. 44 remains a vicious law that will invite political conniving and corruption far beyond any that was ever known or attempted under the old state printing board, whose handling of this business was restricted under Act No. 141 of 1912 to only the constitutional offices rather than taking in all boards and public agencies as provided in Senate Bill No. 44.

3. Senate Bill No. 44 will restore to full bloom the old state printing board with control of all state printing and office supplies and with the authority to let contracts for eleven different classes of printing and office supplies for a two year period in advance after only three weeks of advertising for bids.

4. Senate Bill No. 44 will saddle on the people of Louisiana two-year contracts involving in excess of a million dollars, to be let within 90 days after the law becomes effective, at a time when the cost of material and the cost of labor are at the highest level since the last world war.

5. The bulk buying and bulk bidding required by this act will mean from a practical standpoint that at least 80 percent of the actual needs that will arise during the two-year period will be outside of the contract, and yet must be supplied by the state printers under this act without further bidding or contract price.

6. Thomas J. Moran's Sons is the only contractor who holds any contracts for state printing now. These contracts are protected by this bill. This is stricly a Thomas J. Moran law.

7. This printing board under the act will have the power to let contracts for an additional period of two years before the expiration dates of the first contracts that will saddle the succeeding administration with these contracts for a two-year additional period.

8. Senate Bill No. 44 will eliminate the competition that now exists as to all of this public business by creating and enforcing conditions that cannot be complied with by 97 percent of the printers and supply houses in this state, and will soon result in a complete monopoly where all of this business will be controlled by Thomas J. Moran's Sons. Veterans of World War II will be unable to compete under this bill.

9. Senate Bill No. 44 will allow the purchasing of all office supplies of every kind for the next two years without any contract and without any competitive bidding whatever.

10. Actual official records in the office of the department of finance prove that the people of Louisiana are saving approximately 57 1/2 percent in the cost of state printing and office supply needs under the present system as compared with the old printing board method which Senate Bill No. 44 will restore.

11. Senate Bill No. 44 will restore what can easily become a vicious political monopoly of all state printing and office supply business grossly unfair to the printers and supply firms of Louisiana, and costly to the people of the state.

12. More than 95 percent of the printers and supply firms in Louisiana are unalterably opposed to this bill, which can only mean that all of these parties realize they will be eliminated from competition by the bill.

13. No printer or supply firm has spoken or written in favor of this bill except Thomas J. Moran's Sons, and this firm concedes that it is the only firm prepared to handle all of the state business under this bill.

14. Senate Bill No. 44 is opposed by the State Press Association of Louisiana, by substantially all of the state printers and state supply firms in Louisiana, and by the business people as well as the labor unions of the state. The bill has received editorial condemnation from the press of Louisiana, as representing a vicious, corrupt, monopolistic and uneconomical bill.

BACKERS OF CASE BILL DROP FIGHT

Don't Expect To Try To Revive Measure Until Next Year

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Backers of the vetoed Case labor disputes bill reported today they have called off their fight to revive the controversial measure until probably next year.

They said they will work instead for passage of a modified version of President Truman's emergency strike control legislation, which would give him power to take over essential strike-bound industries.

Added to the presidential proposal, they said, will be only such sections of the Case plan as the chief executive indicates he will accept. At present they have no assurance he will agree to any such addition.

Opponents of the far-reaching Case measure held the decision of its sponsors to withhold their fight for a while as "a smashing victory" in Congress for Mr. Truman in his fight over the hotly debated bill.

This interpretation of the move, which came from Rep. Biemiller, Democrat, Wisconsin, and others who fought the Case legislation, was promptly disputed by its backers.

"We are not surrendering to the president in any sense," Rep. Case, Republican, South Dakota, author of the measure, told reporters.

"But there is no sense in the president and Congress making faces at one another.

"We are seeking a constructive result and we could not achieve it now by sending him another bill he would veto.

"The issues still exist, however, and sooner or later we will have to meet them with legislation such as ours."

Rep. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, asserted that "this does not mean we are giving up, only that we will not press the matter for the time being."

Cox added that his colleagues will go along with creation of a joint Senate-House committee as requested by Mr. Truman, to draft permanent labor regulation legislation.

Case bill supporters said that for the present, surveys have shown it would be impossible to get the necessary two-thirds majority to pass the legislation over another presidential veto.

They said they have been told Mr. Truman would veto the plan again, even if it were tied to his emergency bill, as planned earlier this week.

John G. Winant, U. S. delegate, took the floor immediately to retort that "my country's interest in refugees is humanitarian and only that." And then added:

"We never used the plight of refugees for political motivation and I know the camps in the U. S. area have been subject to inspection from other countries involved, including all countries now occupying territory in Austria and Germany."

Hector McNeil, British delegate, followed this by declaring:

"There is nothing sinster in the attitude of my government. We don't object to inspections. We make no attempt to hide anything."

Leo Mattes, Yugoslav delegate, had offered a resolution for a fact-finding body to look into his charges that the camps harbored Quislings and condoned training of units of the Royal Yugoslav army. He proposed naming representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, Poland and Yugoslavia to the committee.

JUVENILE

bution to court and police officers, judges, state officials, legislators, police jury members and others, Judge Barnette presented his arguments for Louisiana's need for an improved juvenile court system:

"1. Juvenile delinquency is a problem in Louisiana worthy of the state's most serious consideration.

"2. That juvenile neglect is the forerunner of juvenile delinquency and that there is no parish in the state in which both do not exist.

"3. That juvenile neglect and delinquency, if allowed to run their course, will result in criminals and maladjusted citizens who will in the normal course of time be a burden and hindrance to the moral, social, educational and economic welfare of the state.

"4. That measured by any standard of evaluation, prevention is cheaper than cure.

"5. That the annual cost to the state of Louisiana for the care and treatment of its criminals, and its socially maladjusted citizens is appalling.

"6. That the current indications in Louisiana, like those nationally, point toward still more serious problems of maladjustment as a direct result of the shock which our moral, social and economic structures have so recently suffered and from which recovery is not now any too promising.

"7. That Louisiana has never had any semblance of uniformity of understanding of the meaning and functions of the juvenile court.

"8. That no system nor coordination has ever existed among the several parishes of the state and their methods, policies and procedures have differed widely.

"9. That in many parishes in the state there are no facilities whatever of any practical use to the court and the judges are resigned to an attitude of futility."

NO QUICK ATOMIC APPROVAL LIKELY

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Members of the United Nations atomic energy commission generally agreed today that approval of an atomic control plan would be a long process and that Russia's attitude would be the key factor.

There also was agreement on another point; that the plan offered yesterday by U. S. Representative Bernard M. Baruch probably would be the only comprehensive plan submitted and that the other nations would merely offer amendments.

"Don't expect the plan to be approved next week or next month," said one delegate, who did not wish to be identified. "This plan is of tremendous importance. It is revolutionary. It raises many questions which will have to be answered."

Members of the commission, awaiting instructions from their governments, indicated there was not likely to be any official comment before Wednesday, when the 12-nation body will meet to resume discussions.

Under the Baruch plan the United States would stop producing atomic bombs, destroy its stockpile of bombs and turn its atomic secrets over to an international atomic development authority if the world would join in setting up safeguards to make sure that the lethal weapon would never again be used as an instrument of war.

Baruch insisted, however, that these steps would be taken only after the five major powers on the security council agreed to give up their veto rights on matters related to atomic energy and provided for suitable punishment of nations which violated strict control regulations.

British circles said Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, was ready to accept the plan as a basis for discussion, but he might propose some additional safeguards.

These sources said, however, that the Baruch report left unanswered a number of important questions such as the relationship of the atomic development authority and the security council.

GAMBLING BAN PUTS SOME OUT OF WORK

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—The police crackdown on gambling in New Orleans was one of four factors listed by a federal employment officials as causes for a drop in the labor market in the city.

H. T. Underwood, area director of the U. S. Employment service, said that several hundred persons were put out of work by the drive against gambling, and that they have applied for other jobs or have registered for unemployment compensation.

The other causes listed by Underwood were the general force reduction by federal agencies, delays in receipt of materials following the coal strike, and shortages of food items.

TWO TREATED FOR CUTS ON FOREHEAD

M. D. Nelson, West Monroe, and W. T. Barlow, 114 Adams street, were treated at St. Francis Sanitarium Saturday night for forehead cuts which they received in a fight at the Melody Bar at 437 DeSiard street. Police stated that the men were in a fight with a third party, who was identified as Lloyd Ruffy, and were hit with bottles. They were taken to the hospital in a Mulhearn's ambulance, after which they were released.

Duffy was booked at police headquarters on charges of drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon and fighting and was released on a $125 bond.

Police late Saturday night were continuing their investigation of the incident.

Nathan Bedford Forrest, Confederate cavalry leader, had 29 horses shot from under him in battle, but was never seriously injured.

Only on the question of the status of the Marine corps did the president take the navy's advice in preference to the army's.

Under the president's ruling, air force personnel would operate land based planes for naval reconnaissance, anti-submarine warfare, and protection of shipping. The navy would keep its own carrier, ship and water-based craft, Marine corps planes, and some others.

The army proposed heavier restrictions than the navy wanted on the use of Marines. Mr. Truman held, much in line with navy contentions, that the corps should conduct limited land operations in seizing or defending advanced bases and prosecuting a naval campaign. It would be "maintained as a constituent part of the naval service."

The president told the two secretaries that "there is no desire or intention to affect adversely the integrity of the services."

"They should perform their separate functions under the unifying direction, authority and controls of the secretary of national defense," he wrote. "The internal administration of the three services should be preserved in order that the high morale and esprit de corps of each service can be retained."

"It is my hope that the congress will pass legislation as soon as possible effecting a unification based upon these 12 principles," the president said.

As a concession to navy objections, the new program drops the recommendation Mr. Truman made for a single military chief of staff in his message last December 18.

The president said that Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary Forrestal of the navy had made "splendid progress" toward settling the controversy over unification, which has continued since V-J day. He reported they had reached agreement on eight important elements of unification and that "their differences are not irreconciliable" upon four on which they failed to agree entirely in a recent series of conferences.

In its major provisions aside from elimination of a single chief of staff, the new proposal coincides with legislation recommended in April by the senate military affairs committee.

That bill was offered by Senators Thomas (D.-Utah), Hill (D.-Ala.) and Austin.

The senate naval affairs committee has held hearings on it and chairman Walsh (D.-Mass.) has announced any amendments which grow out of these will be offered when the measure reaches the floor.

In the house legislation much along the same lines is awaiting action by the expenditures committee, which has indicated it will hold off until the senate moves.

Along with the letter to the committee chairmen, the white house made public the report given to the president May 31 by Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal in which they set out their points of agreement and disagreement, and the president's reply to them dated today.

He noted that they agreed on creation of the council of common defense, a national security resources board, joint chiefs of staff, omission of a single military chief of staff, a central intelligence agency, procurement and supply, research agencies and military education and training. He termed their understanding a "significant accomplishment."

The president agreed with the cabinet members that a provision in the Thomas bill for four assistant secretaries in the department of national defense was "unnecessary."

As "basic principles upon which the unification of the services can be based" the president listed:

1. A single department of national defense, headed by a civilian cabinet member. Under him would be secretaries for the army, for the navy and for air, not cabinet members. They would serve, however, on the council of common defense.

2. The Army, Navy and Air Force to be on a parity and should be coordinate services.

3. The Air Force to have responsibility for development, procurement, maintenance and operation of all military air resources except for specifically defined functions of the naval air arm.

The Navy would be responsible for ship, carrier and water-based aircraft, Marine corps aircraft, land-type planes necessary for administration and certain air transport routes, and necessary training planes.

"Land-based planes for naval reconnaissance, anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping can and should be manned by air force personnel," the President said.

4. The Marine Corps to be maintained as a constituent part of the naval service with its own supporting aircraft. In addition to providing security for the Navy, afloat and ashore, the Marines would have the function of serving with the fleet in seizing or defending advance naval bases "or for the conduct of such limited land operations as are essential to the prosecution of a naval campaign."

5. The Council of National Defense would "integrate our foreign and military policies and provide for more effective co-operation among government agencies on defense matters.

Members would include the secretary of state, the civilian head of the military establishment, the civilian heads of the military services and the chairman of a proposed national security resources board.

6. The resources board would be under the council and include representatives of government agencies other than the military.

7. The joint chiefs of staff would formulate strategic plans, integrate military programs, recommend integration of military budgets and provide for strategic direction of all the military forces.

8. On the issue of a single military chief of staff, the President reported the War Department was willing to omit the feature. He said the Navy felt that the joint chiefs of staff should be the highest source of military advice to the heads of the several services.

9. The central intelligence agency would operate under the defense council. Mr. Truman noted that such organization established by executive order already existed.

10. On procurement and supply, Mr. Truman said there should be an agency to prevent wasteful competition through joint planning and coordination.

11. An agency would co-ordinate scientific research and development of the military services.

12. A new agency was proposed to review periodically systems of education and training of personnel of the services and integrate them.

ATOM BOMB

having the power to wage (atomic) war then there is an approach to world federation in a legal sense.

But the veto power has been the essence of the positions taken by the United States and Soviet Russia at San Francisco and at subsequent postwar conferences. Both must relinquish their insistent veto attitude in international affairs and move toward acceptance of this new policy of world ideals or continue their horse trading with the Baruch report simply a new trading point. Moreover, the recommendation may never be accepted by the U. S. Senate, a fact which will not be lost in the minds of those who oppose the offer for control of atomic warfare. The Senate's rejection of the League of Nations came about largely because no veto powers were reserved to the United States.

If we accept the Baruch report at face value then the forthcoming Bikini test has lost meaning. They are military tests. But if there are to be no more atomic bombs then there is no reason to test them on military vessels and equipment. The radii of damage in the first and second explosions at Bikini can be fairly well predicted. All opinions say they will have little damaging effect on the total striking power of a fleet in battle formation. The test proposed for next year in which a bomb is to be exploded thousands of feet beneath the ocean's surface is another thing. Many experts predict that this blast, due to the incompresibility of water, may severely damage vessels over an area of 25 to 50 miles in diameter. Few venture any opinion as to what this blast will do to the water and to the ocean bed.

On men's suits, Bowles said more are being made than before the war, but that demand is at a record high.

"In the old days," Bowles said, "you went looking for a suit maybe once a year, and on that day only a few people would be looking. Today millions of Americans are looking at once."

NEW CHINA TRUCE SIGNING REPORTED

NANKING, June 15.—(AP)—Diminishing strife in Manchuria and further relaxation of tension in strategic Tsingtao were reported today as Communists here announced the signing of a new truce—implementation agreement described as a "step toward a permanent cease-fire" in the northeast.

Communist headquarters said the new pact concerned establishment of the advance section of executive (Sino-American truce) headquarters in Changchun, Manchurian capital, and the asignment of field (truce) teams in various areas of the vast northeast territory. It was signed, the Communist spokesman said, by U. S. General Marshall, Communist Negotiator Chou En-Lai and government representative Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang. These three ocnstitute the committee of three formed to seek a settlement of China's prolonged civil strife.

"We still have many obstacles and problems before final agreement," the spokesman said, "but the document * * * can be regarded as a concrete step toward a permanet cease-fire in Manchuria." He added that the agreement concerned only Manchuria, and that fighting elsewhere in China was "another matter on which we are working."

HUNT SLAYER OF ROYAL HOUSEKEEPER

LONDON, June 16.—(AP)—Scotland Yard detectives questioned a man picked up at Brighton in tracking clues today to the mysterious slaying of attractive Miss Elizabeth MacLindon, 40, former royal housekeeper to King George II of Greece.

Her body, with a bullet wound in the neck, was found last night in a fashionable London house which she was preparing for the King's sister, Princess Catherine.

A pathologist said Miss MacLindon had been dead at least five days. Police theorized that she had been shot while using telephone.

Police broke into the house after neighbors became suspicious when milk bottles collected on the doorstep.

A confidential adviser to the Greek King confirmed that Miss MacLindon was the King's former housekeeper and said she had been readying the house for the Princess, who reached London from Cairo June 7.

The woman's body was found in a locked back room on the ground floor of the three-story house in Chester Square, Westminister, part of the "Belgravia" neighborhood in which many titled persons live.

and Pacific areas," Goldblatt said.

Before the C. M. U. made its ominous announcement of future plans the capital had looked at the labor situation with fresh optimism.

"It looks better now than it has for some time—very much better," said Howard T. Colvin, associate director of the U. S. conciliation service. "There are not over a dozen strikes in the entire country of sufficient national importance to cause any excitement at all."

This relative calm gave the nation its best post-war opportunity to turn full steam ahead on a reconversion program crippled in the recent past by auto, steel, coal and rail strikes.

Yet the threat of a new avalanche of strikes—and a renewal in September of the just-averted Maritime crisis—clouded the labor horizon.

Union leaders have warned of a new race for higher wages if price controls are abandoned or if OPA's powers are clipped to the extent that living costs take a sudden upward jump.

Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, co-chairman of the C. I. O.-dominated committee for Maritime unity, made known C. M. U. plans for joint efforts next fall to boost wages for Bridges' west coast dock workers.

They said they were disappointed in the 22-cents-an-hour pay boost Bridges' C. I. O. Longshoremen's union won in frantic labor department negotiations which cancelled plans for a complete, all-coast Maritime walkout late last night.

There wasn't a single strike of any description still going on a nationwide scale. But several of lesser scope still defied settlement.

All told, the latest labor department count showed 311 strikes still in progress and 143,000 people idle—low figures in comparison with those of some of the past turbulent weeks of 1946.

In addition, A. F. of L. Maritime Unions on both coasts are negotiating now for new contracts. But they have raised no threat of an imminent strike. Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson said, "I assume they will work out an agreement."

The C. I. O. Maritime strike was called off only 60 seconds before it was to have begun. The closeness of the decision to the deadline brought on partial walkouts, disrupting normal activities in most ports. But the docks were getting back to normal tonight.

Curran's C. I. O. national Maritime Union emerged from the negotiations with an earnings increase for his seamen which ship operators estimated at 30 per cent. Bridges got a boost for his dock workers a government board had estimated at a little less than 20 per cent.

BACKERS OF CASE BILL DROP FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Backers of the vetoed Case labor disputes bill reported today they have called off their fight to revive the controversial measure until probably next year.

They said they will work instead for passage of a modified version of President Truman's emergency strike control legislation, which would give him power to take over essential strike-bound industries.

Added to the presidential proposal, they said, will be only such sections of the Case plan as the chief executive indicates he will accept. At present they have no assurance he will agree to any such addition.

Opponents of the far-reaching Case measure held the decision of its sponsors to withhold their fight for a while as "a smashing victory" in Congress for Mr. Truman in his fight over the hotly debated bill.

This interpretation of the move, which came from Rep. Biemiller, Democrat, Wisconsin, and others who fought the Case legislation, was promptly disputed by its backers.

"We are not surrendering to the president in any sense," Rep. Case, Republican, South Dakota, author of the measure, told reporters.

"But there is no sense in the president and Congress making faces at one another.

"We are seeking a constructive result and we could not achieve it now by sending him another bill he would veto.

"The issues still exist, however, and sooner or later we will have to meet them with legislation such as ours."

Rep. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, asserted that "this does not mean we are giving up, only that we will not press the matter for the time being."

Cox added that his colleagues will go along with creation of a joint Senate-House committee as requested by Mr. Truman, to draft permanent labor regulation legislation.

Case bill supporters said that for the present, surveys have shown it would be impossible to get the necessary two-thirds majority to pass the legislation over another presidential veto.

They said they have been told Mr. Truman would veto the plan again, even if it were tied to his emergency bill, as planned earlier this week.

John G. Winant, U. S. delegate, took the floor immediately to retort that "my country's interest in refugees is humanitarian and only that." And then added:

"We never used the plight of refugees for political motivation and I know the camps in the U. S. area have been subject to inspection from other countries involved, including all countries now occupying territory in Austria and Germany."

Hector McNeil, British delegate, followed this by declaring:

"There is nothing sinster in the attitude of my government. We don't object to inspections. We make no attempt to hide anything."

Leo Mattes, Yugoslav delegate, had offered a resolution for a fact-finding body to look into his charges that the camps harbored Quislings and condoned training of units of the Royal Yugoslav army. He proposed naming representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, Poland and Yugoslavia to the committee.

bution to court and police officers, judges, state officials, legislators, police jury members and others, Judge Barnette presented his arguments for Louisiana's need for an improved juvenile court system:

"1. Juvenile delinquency is a problem in Louisiana worthy of the state's most serious consideration.

"2. That juvenile neglect is the forerunner of juvenile delinquency and that there is no parish in the state in which both do not exist.

"3. That juvenile neglect and delinquency, if allowed to run their course, will result in criminals and maladjusted citizens who will in the normal course of time be a burden and hindrance to the moral, social, educational and economic welfare of the state.

"4. That measured by any standard of evaluation, prevention is cheaper than cure.

"5. That the annual cost to the state of Louisiana for the care and treatment of its criminals, and its socially maladjusted citizens is appalling.

"6. That the current indications in Louisiana, like those nationally, point toward still more serious problems of maladjustment as a direct result of the shock which our moral, social and economic structures have so recently suffered and from which recovery is not now any too promising.

"7. That Louisiana has never had any semblance of uniformity of understanding of the meaning and functions of the juvenile court.

"8. That no system nor coordination has ever existed among the several parishes of the state and their methods, policies and procedures have differed widely.

"9. That in many parishes in the state there are no facilities whatever of any practical use to the court and the judges are resigned to an attitude of futility."

NO QUICK ATOMIC APPROVAL LIKELY

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Members of the United Nations atomic energy commission generally agreed today that approval of an atomic control plan would be a long process and that Russia's attitude would be the key factor.

There also was agreement on another point: that the plan offered yesterday by U. S. Representative Bernard M. Baruch probably would be the only comprehensive plan submitted and that the other nations would merely offer amendments.

"Don't expect the plan to be approved next week or next month," said one delegate, who did not wish to be identified. "This plan is of tremendous importance. It is revolutionary. It raises many questions which will have to be answered."

Members of the commission, awaiting instructions from their governments, indicated there was not likely to be any official comment before Wednesday, when the 12-nation body will meet to resume discussions.

Under the Baruch plan the United States would stop producing atomic bombs, destroy its stockpile of bombs and turn its atomic secrets over to an international atomic development authority if the world would join in setting up safeguards to make sure that the lethal weapon would never again be used as an instrument of war.

Baruch insisted, however, that these steps would be taken only after the five major powers on the security council agreed to give up their veto rights on matters related to atomic energy and provided for suitable punishment of nations which violated strict control regulations.

British circles said Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, was ready to accept the plan as a basis for discussion, but he might propose some additional safeguards.

These sources said, however, that the Baruch report left unanswered a number of important questions such as the relationship of the atomic development authority and the security council.

GAMBLING BAN PUTS SOME OUT OF WORK

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—The police crackdown on gambling in New Orleans was one of four factors listed by a federal employment officials as causes for a drop in the labor market in the city.

H. T. Underwood, area director of the U. S. Employment service, said that several hundred persons were put out of work by the drive against gambling, and that they have applied for other jobs or have registered for unemployment compensation.

The other causes listed by Underwood were the general force reduction by federal agencies, delays in receipt of materials following the coal strike, and shortages of food items.

Police stated that the men were in a fight with a third party, who was identified as Lloyd Ruffy, and were hit with bottles. They were taken to the hospital in a Mulhearn's ambulance, after which they were released.

Only on the question of the status of the Marine corps did the president take the navy's advice in preference to the army's.

Moreover, the recommendation may never be accepted by the U. S. Senate, a fact which will not be lost in the minds of those who oppose the offer for control of atomic warfare. The Senate's rejection of the League of Nations came about largely because no veto powers were reserved to the United States.

If we accept the Baruch report at face value then the forthcoming Bikini test has lost meaning. They are military tests. But if there are to be no more atomic bombs then there is no reason to test them on military vessels and equipment. The radii of damage in the first and second explosions at Bikini can be fairly well predicted. All opinions say they will have little damaging effect on the total striking power of a fleet in battle formation. The test proposed for next year in which a bomb is to be exploded thousands of feet beneath the ocean's surface is another thing. Many experts predict that this blast, due to the incompresibility of water, may severely damage vessels over an area of 25 to 50 miles in diameter. Few venture any opinion as to what this blast will do to the water and to the ocean bed.

other cotton garments will be larger by next month, but he said there won't be enough to meet demand "for some time yet."

On men's suits, Bowles said more are being made than before the war, but that demand is at a record high.

"In the old days," Bowles said, "you went looking for a suit maybe once a year, and on that day only a few people would be looking. Today millions of Americans are looking at once."

NEW CHINA TRUCE SIGNING REPORTED

NANKING, June 15.—(AP)—Diminishing strife in Manchuria and further relaxation of tension in strategic Tsingtao were reported today as Communists here announced the signing of a new truce—implementation agreement described as a 'step toward a permanent cease-fire" in the northeast.

Communist headquarters said the new pact concerned establishment of the advance section of executive (Sino-American truce) headquarters in Changchun, Manchurian capital, and the asignment of field (truce) teams in various areas of the vast northeast territory. It was signed, the Communist spokesman said, by U. S. General Marshall, Communist Negotiator Chou En-Lai and government representative Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang. These three ocnstitute the committee of three formed to seek a settlement of China's prolonged civil strife.

"We still have many obstacles and problems before final agreement," the spokesman said, "but the document * * * can be regarded as a concrete step toward a permanet cease-fire in Manchuria." He added that the agreement concerned only Manchuria, and that fighting elsewhere in China was "another matter on which we are working."

HUNT SLAYER OF ROYAL HOUSEKEEPER

LONDON, June 16.—(AP)—Scotland Yard detectives questioned a man picked up at Brighton in tracking clues today to the mysterious slaying of attractive Miss Elizabeth MacLindon, 40, former royal housekeeper to King George II of Greece.

Her body, with a bullet wound in the neck, was found last night in a fashionable London house which she was preparing for the King's sister, Princess Catherine.

A pathologist said Miss MacLindon had been dead at least five days. Police theorized that she had been shot while using telephone.

Police broke into the house after neighbors became suspicious when milk bottles collected on the doorstep.

A confidential adviser to the Greek King confirmed that Miss MacLindon was the King's former housekeeper and said she had been readying the house for the Princess, who reached London from Cairo June 7.

The woman's body was found in a locked back room on the ground floor of the three-story house in Chester Square, Westminister, part of the "Belgravia" neighborhood in which many titled persons live.

and Pacific areas," Goldblatt said.

Before the C. M. U. made its ominous announcement of future plans the capital had looked at the labor situation with fresh optimism.

"It looks better now than it has for some time—very much better," said Howard T. Colvin, associate director of the U. S. conciliation service. "There are not over a dozen strikes in the entire country of sufficient national importance to cause any excitement at all."

This relative calm gave the nation its best post-war opportunity to turn full steam ahead on a reconversion program crippled in the recent past by auto, steel, coal and rail strikes.

Yet the threat of a new avalanche of strikes—and a renewal in September of the just-averted Maritime crisis—clouded the labor horizon.

Union leaders have warned of a new race for higher wages if price controls are abandoned or if OPA's powers are clipped to the extent that living costs take a sudden upward jump.

Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, co-chairman of the C. I. O.-dominated committee for Maritime unity, made known C. M. U. plans for joint efforts next fall to boost wages for Bridges' west coast dock workers.

They said they were disappointed in the 22-cents-an-hour pay boost Bridges' C. I. O. Longshoremen's union won in frantic labor department negotiations which cancelled plans for a complete, all-coast Maritime walkout late last night.

There wasn't a single strike of any description still going on a nation-wide scale. But several of lesser scope still defied settlement.

All told, the latest labor department count showed 311 strikes still in progress and 143,000 people idle—low figures in comparison with those of some of the past turbulent weeks of 1946.

In addition, A. F. of L. Maritime Unions on both coasts are negotiating now for new contracts. But they have raised no threat of an imminent strike. Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson said, "I assume they will work out an agreement."

The C. I. O. Maritime strike was called off only 60 seconds before it was to have begun. The closeness of the decision to the deadline brought on partial walkouts, disrupting normal activities in most ports. But the docks were getting back to normal tonight.

Curran's C. I. O. national Maritime Union emerged from the negotiations with an earnings increase for his seamen which ship operators estimated at 30 per cent. Bridges got a boost for his dock workers a government board had estimated at a little less than 20 per cent.

In noting most of these points Brines points out that the only incident which they seem to hark back to was the occasion where Americans figured a Communist May day petition looked like it had been written in a foreign language and then translated into Japanese. The general supposition was that the foreign language referred to was Russian.

Lumber Company Converts Arkansas Town Into Open City

CROSSETT, Ark., June 15.—(AP)—The Crossett Lumber Company announced today it had completed its program of converting this "absolute company town" into an open community in which its 45-year-reign of paternalism for some 6,000 residents has been reduced to the role of lessor only.

General Manager Peter F. Watzek said that out of the scores of retail businesses once operated here by the company only the hotel remained under company control.

"And that is a white elephant nobody would want and we are forced to operate at a loss," he said.

"The company decided about seven years ago that its business was to produce lumber. The shoe shop, drug store, cleaning plant, mortuary, grocery store and all other enterprises necessary to the community were leased. Now they are owned by others.

"We merely lease them the buildings and what old equipment we had they could use.

"There are two chain groceries here now competing with the independent grocers who leased our old commissaries. There is a general department store occupying our old main commissary. A dairy products company, a variety store, a women's ready-to-wear shop, an automobile agency and other businesses have come here. If any others want to come and conform to zoning regulations of the town—now a city of the first class—we will welcome them and find a place to put them."

Making the reconversion complete is the entrance here of the Chase Bag Company with a large manufacturing plant which will tap Crossett's long-monopolized labor market. The Crossett enterprises and Chase are in no way related.

This community was founded in 1901 "twelve miles from nowhere" by three associated pioneer lumbermen —E. S. Crossett, Dr. J. W. Watzek and C. W. Gates. All now are dead, and two generations have succeeded them in operating their lumber empire. The present general manager is Dr. Watzek's grandson.

The "Crossett Arkansas Companies" include 12 corporations. The principal ones are Crossett Lumber Company, Crossett Paper Mill and Crossett Chemical Company.

TRAFFIC SAFETY JULY 4 URGED

National AMVET Commander Advocates Committee Group Formations

Formation of safety committees by all of its 677 AMVETS posts throughout the nation to help prevent a national disaster July 4 was urged in a communication received Saturday by Otto E. Passman, Louisiana department commander, from Jack W. Hardy, national commander of American Veterans of World War II.

"We have been informed by the National Safety Council that it is the considered belief of that organization that a national disaster threatens on the Fourth of July this year," Commander Hardy said.

"Every post of AMVETS should set up active committees as soon as possible to do everything possible in their communities and states to eliminate conditions which might lead to a death toll of 500 persons and injuries to countless more individuals during the four-day holiday period.

"The national traffic toll, which accounts for most holiday deaths is running neck and neck now with 1941, the blackest year in American traffic history, and traffic deaths are up nearly 50 per cent over last year.

"Center attention on traffic safety," he said. "Urge car owners to be sure their machines are in proper condition before they drive. Campaign against the dangerous combination of alcohol and gasoline.

"American veterans are also aware of the destructive power of explosives You will be helping your community if you point out the dangers of playing with war souvenirs, indiscriminate use of fire-arms and experimenting with explosives, such as carbide. If fireworks displays are held, move to keep them safe.

"This will be the first Fourth of July at home for many of us since we returned from the service. We can best observe Independence Day by keeping America safe and sane."

Boyle's Notebook

By Morrie Landsberg
(For Hal Boyle)

TOKYO, June 15.—(AP)—A 30-year-old widow wearing western-style clothes—and an Occidental air of assurance to match—has moved in as queen of Tokyo's black market.

Yoshika Matsuda claims the high office in the underwold by right of succession. An ex-member of her husband's mob rubbed him out and made her a widow Monday.

The defunct husband, Gilchi Matsuda, was the boss of Tokyo's underworld up until the time he announced that henceforth the black market would be "legitimate, ethical and business-like."

Those who didn't want to live under his new ukase of honor among thieves could go back to honest toil, he said—in effect.

One, however, forthrightly decided that bumping off the king of the black market could be counted as an honest day's toil.

Oriental aplomb was quickly restored, however, among Tokyo's estimated 5,000 black marketeers who had banded together as an association under the benign patronage of Matsuda.

They voted to make Mrs. Matsuda the new ruler of the association, and she accepted with alacrity.

In an interview in the room where the last rites were performed for her husband, Mrs. Matsuda—flanked by flowers and funeral wreaths—declared: "I will try to do what my husband failed to do."

Eventually, she said, the black market could go legitimate, buying and selling at equitable prices.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Matsuda added with confidence, she would handle both her "association" members and rival racketeers, even if she was the first female ruler Tokyo's tenderloin ever had.

Meanwhile, also, the 5,000 members will keep right on paying her a total of 1,500 yen ($100) daily for rental, cleaning, and protection—that is to say, "vigilance" service.

"I'll get along," said the queen.

TAXI DRIVER IMPROVES

FERRIDAY, La., June 15.—(Special)—Madison Frith, taxi driver, who received a broken leg and other injuries in a car accident last March 15 in which Ozie Jenkins, another taxi driver, was killed, is now improving. Frith is now able to sit up a short time and is expected to recover from his injuries.

There are some 25,000 banks in the United States.

RAT CAMPAIGN NEARING CLOSE

Business And Residence Districts Have Been Treated With DDT

The rat campaign sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Health Committee and the P.-T. A. and directed by the Ouachita Parish Health Unit is near completion.

The business and residential areas in Monroe have been systematically treated for rats and the crews are now moving into West Monroe. The poisoning with the powerful "1080" in the business areas was preceded by dusting with DDT for eradication of rat fleas and ectoparasites. The rat flea is the vector of the dreaded typhus fever which is spreading over the entire south. The residential sections of the Twin Cities are being treated with "Red Squill" which kills only rats.

In order to get an index of the effectiveness of dusting, rats were trapped before and after dusting and it was found that of the average of 15.3 fleas per rat before dusting, no flees were found on rats trapped after dusting, indicating 100 per cent control.

Reports coming in from results of rat kills have already been gratifying, but it will be several days before the complete results can be determined.

One thing is certain, that is that the rat population of the Twin Cities has been materially reduced but should be followed by another drive within five or six months.

Louisiana Revenue Code Commission Report May 30, 1946

1½¢ per thousand cubic feet is all the profit Louisiana's largest natural gas company made in 1945 from the production of natural gas. Tax proposals call for increases of as much as 3c per 1,000 cubic feet to be collected from this same company and others like it.

The Louisiana Revenue Code Commission recognized the fallacy of heaping new and additional taxes on natural gas. After its extensive investigation of the natural gas industry in the state, the Commission unanimously reported:

"Any increase in the tax would, of course, represent an element of cost which would have to be considered by the Public Service Commission in the fixing of such rates. It would, therefore, appear that a possible effect of the increased tax as to that portion of the gas which is used by commercial and domestic consumers might be either (1) the precluding of a reduction in rate which might otherwise be possible, or (2) an increase in the existing rates."

Boyle's Notebook

TOKYO, June 15.—(AP)—A 30-year-old widow wearing western-style clothes—and an Occidental air of assurance to match—has moved in as queen of Tokyo's black market.

Yoshika Matsuda claims the high office in the underwold by right of succession. An ex-member of her husband's mob rubbed him out and made her a widow Monday.

The defunct husband, Giichi Matsuda, was the boss of Tokyo's underworld up until the time he announced that henceforth the black market would be "legitimate, ethical and business-like."

Those who didn't want to live under his new ukase of honor among thieves could go back to honest toil, he said—in effect.

One, however, forthrightly decided that bumping off the king of the black market could be counted as an honest day's toil.

Oriental aplomb was quickly restored, however, among Tokyo's estimated 5,000 black marketeers who had banded together as an association under the benign patronage of Matsuda.

They voted to make Mrs. Matsuda the new ruler of the association, and she accepted with alacrity.

In an interview in the room where the last rites were performed for her husband, Mrs. Matsuda—flanked by flowers and funeral wreaths—declared: "I will try to do what my husband failed to do."

Eventually, she said, the black market could go legitimate, buying and selling at equitable prices.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Matsuda added with confidence, she would handle both her "association" members and rival racketeers, even if she was the first female ruler Tokyo's tenderloin ever had.

Meanwhile, also, the 5,000 members will keep right on paying her a total of 1,500 yen ($100) daily for rental, cleaning, and protection—that is to say, "vigilance" service.

"I'll get along," said the queen.

TAXI DRIVER IMPROVES

FERRIDAY, La., June 15.—(Special)—Madison Frith, taxi driver, who received a broken leg and other injuries in a car accident last March 15 in which Ozie Jenkins, another taxi driver, was killed, is now improving. Frith is now able to sit up a short time and is expected to recover from his injuries.

There are some 25,000 banks in the United States.

TRAFFIC SAFETY JULY 4 URGED

National AMVET Commander Advocates Committee Group Formations

Formation of safety committees by all of its 677 AMVETS posts throughout the nation to help prevent a national disaster July 4 was urged in a communication received Saturday by Otto E. Passman, Louisiana department commander, from Jack W. Hardy, national commander of American Veterans of World War II.

"We have been informed by the National Safety Council that it is the considered belief of that organization that a national disaster threatens on the Fourth of July this year," Commander Hardy said.

"Every post of AMVETS should set up active committees as soon as possible to do everything possible in their communities and states to eliminate conditions which might lead to a death toll of 500 persons and injuries to countless more individuals during the four-day holiday period.

"The national traffic toll, which accounts for most holiday deaths is running neck and neck now with 1941, the blackest year in American traffic history, and traffic deaths are up nearly 50 per cent over last year.

"Center attention on traffic safety," he said. "Urge car owners to be sure their machines are in proper condition before they drive. Campaign against the dangerous combination of alcohol and gasoline.

"American veterans are also aware of the destructive power of explosives You will be helping your community if you point out the dangers of playing with war souvenirs, indiscriminate use of fire-arms and experimenting with explosives, such as carbide. If fireworks displays are held, move to keep them safe.

"This will be the first Fourth of July at home for many of us since we returned from the service. We can best observe Independence Day by keeping America safe and sane."

RAT CAMPAIGN NEARING CLOSE

The rat campaign sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Health Committee and the P.-T. A. and directed by the Ouachita Parish Health Unit is near completion.

The business and residential areas in Monroe have been systematically treated for rats and the crews are now moving into West Monroe. The poisoning with the powerful "1080" in the business areas was preceeded by dusting with DDT for eradication of rat fleas and ectoparasites. The rat flea is the vector of the dreaded typhus fever which is spreading over the entire south. The residential sections of the Twin Cities are being treated with "Red Squill" which kills only rats.

In order to get an index of the effectiveness of dusting, rats were trapped before and after dusting and it was found that of the average of 15.3 fleas per rat before dusting, no flees were found on rats trapped after dusting, indicating 100 per cent control.

Reports coming in from results of rat kills have already been gratifying, but it will be several days before the complete results can be determined.

One thing is certain, that is that the rat population of the Twin Cities has been materially reduced but should be followed by another drive within five or six months.

Louisiana Revenue Code Commission Report
May 30, 1946

1½¢ per thousand cubic feet is all the profit Louisiana's largest natural gas company made in 1945 from the production of natural gas. Tax proposals call for increases of as much as 3c per 1,000 cubic feet to be collected from this same company and others like it.

The Louisiana Revenue Code Commission recognized the fallacy of heaping new and additional taxes on natural gas. After its extensive investigation of the natural gas industry in the state, the Commission unanimously reported:

"Any increase in the tax would, of course, represent an element of cost which would have to be considered by the Public Service Commission in the fixing of such rates. It would, therefore, appear that a possible effect of the increased tax as to that portion of the gas which is used by commercial and domestic consumers might be either (1) the precluding of a reduction in rate which might otherwise be possible, or (2) an increase in the existing rates."

EXCESSIVE TAXATION AND REGULATION WILL HARM ALL LOUISIANA INDUSTRY

3 MILLION DOLLAR GATE LOOMS FOR WEDNESDAY'S HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE FIGHT; BOMBER FAVORED

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, June 15.—(NEA)—Joe Louis rules 1 to 2 favorite over Billy Conn in what bids fair to be the most colossal prize fight in history at the Yankee Stadium Wednesday night. Even if the battle itself is a fiasco, it still will be a colossal one.

The 15-round setto is expected to draw in excess of $3,000,000, with ringside seats scaled at $100, others grading down to $10. Mike Jacobs, promoter, set up the stadium to seat 80,000—he says.

The fight marks the Brown Bomber's 20th defense of the heavyweight title, more than twice that of any of his predecessors, is the first real contest for each since they shook the resin dust from their boxing shoes and went to work for Uncle Sam about five years ago.

Billy Conn

Ordinarily that would be an insurmountable handicap, judged by fistic standards, for no heavyweight ever staged a successful comeback after being out of competition that long.

Most of this time was spent under army supervision which perforce kept Louis and Conn in fair physical condition, and both grew larger during their hitch—Louis in height and weight while Billy the Kid took on needed poundage.

Five years ago Louis at 27 stood 6-1 1 2, weighed 199 1 2, waistline 34, thigh 22. Today he's 6-2, weighs 210, but his excess weight is concentrated in the wrong place—around the middle where he now measures 36. His thigh is still 22. The challenger remains at 6-1 but scales 180 today against the official 174 five years ago.

Conn has two great advantages over Smoky Joe in their impending joust—youth and speed. In all other departments the balance weighs in favor of the champion.

Billy the Kid will have an invisible ally in his corner—Father Time. Louis enters the ring 32 years one month old; Conn goes in 28 years eight months young. No heavyweight champion ever successfully defended his title after the age of 32.

It is a matter of record that Joe Louis never failed to flatten an opponent in a return bout, turning the trick in an average of five and one-sixth rounds. If Joe's law of averages holds up the Pittsburgh Adonis is doomed to go out early in the sixth.

By the same token the superstitious might point out that the only knockout registered against the Brown bomber came in this Yankee Stadium ring on June 19, 1936, the only time he ever fought on the 19th of any month.

That was the night Max Schmeling starched Louis in the twelfth. The fight originally was scheduled for June 18 but it came up rain causing a night's postponement.

Experts agree Conn has trained better than the champion. The Collar Ad has nearly 300 rounds of boxing under his belt, Joe Louis about half as many during the training period. The challenger looks keener, more confident, more enthusiastic. Louis has drudged through his training grinds without showing much pep. That's the temperament of the men.

Since their first clash at the Polo Grounds June 18, 1941, Billy the Kid has been obsessed with the belief that he was winning by a mile when he ran into a fluke punch in the 13th. This idea has been nurtured by a concerted nodding of heads in agreement when Billy recites his version:

"The bell saved Louis in the 12th. I had him going in the 13th, became too anxious to flatten him when he nailed me with a lucky punch. I was on my feet at the count of nine with only two seconds of the round to go when Referee Eddie Joseph stopped it. I'd have come back and won if he hadn't stopped it."

Louis has a different version: "When I came to my corner after the 12th, Chappie Blackburn told me I had to knock out Conn to win. So next round I done what Chappie told me—I knocked him out."

Just as simple as that.

Because of Mike Jacobs' cautious ukase which barred both principals from tune-up fights it was impossible to get an accurate line on how far the men have slipped during their enforced idleness. Gymnasium bouts do not show this. But on their workouts the champion appears to have gone back further than his challenger.

No doubt Louis has missed the ministrations and sage advice of his old trainer, Jack Chappie Blackburn, who taught him all he knows about boxing. But even if Smoky Joe drops the title there is balm in Gilead. The champion's 40 per cent of the estimated $3,000,000 gate, with taxes out will reach $1,020,000—largest ever won by a fighter and topping Gene Tunney's $900,000 in his long count fight with Dempsey in Chicago.

Conn's 20 per cent share will be $510,000, greatest amount ever paid a challenger.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—On the basis of training camp news, it doesn't appear possible that the Louis-Conn fight can be a financial success. . . . So far there hasn't been a single story about a "grudge battle" or the fighters hurling insults at each other. No one has suggested that Louis used a "gimmick" last time. No expert has issued the statement that "they're both bums" and there hasn't even been a sensational report that the fight would be postponed because one of the contestants was hurt. There hasn't been a yogi in either camp nor has a prowler broken in to take a pot shot at one of the principals or Promoter Mike Jacobs. . . . And with a lake right beside each camp, neither principal has had to plunge in to rescue a damsel in distress. . . . Heck, what have they had to ballyhoo except the fact that the world's best two fighters are going to throw punches at each other next Wednesday?

HE AIN'T TALKING

Charley Comerford, who studies Spanish besides playing first base at Villanova, was preparing for practice the other day when he heard a couple of fellows spouting south of the border stuff at a great rate. . . . Enviously, Charley remarked: "Say, you fellows can really go to town with Spanish. I wish I could get the pronunciations like that." . . . In rather halting English, the strangers explained they were students from South America. . . . Comerford probably was surprised to learn that they weren't a couple of Pasquels.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

In spite of denials, that Bill Veeck-Cleveland baseball deal apparently isn't all hot air. At least when Milwaukee's Oscar Salenger got back home he explained he wasn't interested in buying the Indians, adding: "I just went to listen. I don't know Veeck's plan." . . . The only gold tennis trophy in national competition has been put up by the Benrus Watch Company for the pro championships at Forest Hills next month. After all these years, the pro netsters will see some of that gold they've heard about. . . . New England's second gal baseballer turned up the other day when Jane Ashworth played three innings at second base for Westerly, R. I., High School. She struck out her only time at bat. . . . The Rhymer, known as the "drug store horse" because he received some blood transfusions for anemia as a three-year-old, is preparing for a comeback at Delaware Park. And Cafteret, who provided the blood in 1941, is stabled only one barn away.

END OF THE LINE

Tut Jackson, now a caretaker at the Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Country Club, was matched nine times with the late Jack Johnson without ever getting into the ring with him. . . . Eight times Tut was stopped by court injunctions and once by a broken hand. . . . The last time they were scheduled to meet was July 4, 1922, at Washington Courthouse. Irate citizens went to court again and the bout was called off. . . . When he heard of Johnson's death, Jackson said: "I sure would have liked to have fought Jack."

WATSON, DICKENS NEW NORTH LOUISIANA UMPS

O. H. Watson, Columbia, and "Scotty" Dickens, Bastrop, have been named official umpires in the North Louisiana Baseball League, it was announced yesterday. Both have already served the semi-pro loop in the capacity of substitutes when the league lost other umps through transfers from this area.

Kermit Youngblood, Monroe, remains the senior member of the league's force of umpires, having worked with the loop since it began play May 5. Johnny Youngblood, who had been working as a league umpire, was lost a week ago when he moved to New Orleans.

Watson will take his first regular assignment today in the Clarks-West Monroe double header at Clarks. Dickens, a former West Texas League player of a couple of decades ago, will be on hand for the twin bill at Bastrop between the Buckshots and Winnsboro.

Youngblood will have charge of the Olla-Columbia tilt at Olla.

BROOKLYN ROLLS OVER CUBS, 6 TO 3

Lavagetto Provides Needed Punch To Give Dodgers Victory

BROOKLYN, June 15.—(AP)—Cookie Lavagetto drove in two runs with a third inning double and counted on an infield out and a long fly by Dixie Walker to provide Brooklyn's winning margin in the Dodgers' 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs today before a paid attendance of 27,071.

REDS 3, BRAVES 2

BOSTON, June 15.—(AP)—Ed Heusser limited the Braves to six hits today as he pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-2 victory over the tribe for his sixth victory of the season.

N. J. C. Grid Stars Prep For Bids With Big Time College Elevens

Malone Promises Indians Toughest Schedule They Have Ever Had

A trio of Northeast Junior College football stars are all set to make their bids for grid fame with major college elevens this fall, according to reports sifting back to their old stamping grounds here. But it's nothing new for ex-Indians to show up in major college lineups to play star roles, for Coach James L. Malone has been turning out high caliber talent in every one of his thirteen years as the Tribe's war chief.

Clem Welch, the Winchester, Ill., boy who starred in Indian basketball here in 1941-42, managed the football team in 1941, and picked up what football he knew in spring training in 1942, became a crackerjack fullback for the Malonemen. Now he's ticketed for a place on the University of Alabama team this fall.

After leaving here he joined the navy and played for the Norman, Okla., Zoomers. At Alabama, Coach Frank Thomas has already been quoted as saying: "Welch is a great athlete and we expect plenty out of him next season. The Illinois boy is an engineering student in aeronautics.

Big Jim Perry, six-foot-two and 220 pounds, the Bastrop boy, who performed at center here last year and was named the Indians' most valuable player, is headed for Louisiana State University to make a try for the first string center job once held by Coach Malone a decade and a half ago. Perry is a student in journalism.

Mal Young, seeking to be a civil engineer, came here from Greensberg, Pa., played an outstanding game at end for the Redmen on their southern junior college championship team last fall, and has matriculated to the University of Nevada. Latest reports are that Young looms as one of the finest wingmen the Wolf Pack has ever boasted.

But just mentioning to him the fact that such boys as Joe Bob Tyler, Gene Turner, Feeby Crane, Martin Biddy, Dalton Boyd, John Woods, Olan Silk and John Luffey, all 1942 gridders here, who are back to take up where they left off because of the war, seemed to please the popular Indian mentor considerably.

Malone said the full N. J. C. schedule for this year would be announced "within a week."

"I guarantee the fans around here this schedule will be the toughest ever met at N. J. C. in the thirteen years I've been here," he said.

LOUIS PICTURE OF COOL CONFIDENCE

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—Joe Louis boxed seven fairly easy rounds against five of his human guinea pigs today as he began the final three days of training for his title defense against Billy Conn on Wednesday night.

The consensus of several dozen newspapermen from all over the country was that the Bomber looked very good, fast as lightning with his fists when he wanted to be and a picture of confidence in his every move.

Joe didn't try to hurt anybody. When, by chance, he did belt one of his partners pretty good, he invariably called off his dogs until the stricken hireling had fully recovered.

There was no possible doubt that the champion was packing himself very carefully, either because he wanted to run no chance of maiming his fists even with the big pillows or because he felt he was right on the verge of reaching fighting pitch. He said yesterday he wanted to take off only a couple more pounds, down to about 210, in his final three workouts.

Watching the champion snap in left jabs and hooks and whip across an occasional right today, it didn't seem possible that Conn or any other man, however clever, could keep Joe from catching him flush sometime in the course of 15 rounds.

Before today's workout Louis spent close to an hour on the long distance phone giving an interview to some member of the staff of the Moscow newspaper Pravda. Joe said he thought probably it was that paper's sports editor. He said he didn't divulge anything of importance to Moscow.

U. S. GIRLS SWEEP WIGHTMAN EVENT

Americans Hand Britons Most Decisive Defeat In Cup Matches

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND, June 15.—(AP)—Four good-looking American girls, hailed by losers and winners alike as the best-balanced U. S. team ever to take the court, completed a clean sweep of the Wightman Cup matches with Britain today as the series was resumed after a six-year wartime recess.

It was the first time since the inaugural year, 1923, that either side had been able to win all seven matches, five singles and two doubles. But this triumph was even more one-sided than that of the American team of 23 years ago, which was led by Helen Wills, for this 1946 combination won every match in straight sets, and allowed the Britons to carry only one of the 14 sets to deuce.

With powerful serves and smashing volleys the three Californians—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills—and the one Floridian—Doris Hart of Miami—complete overwhelmed the British girls, who started the two-day tourney admittedly rusty after years without an opportunity for big-time competition.

The honor of winning the deciding match on Wimbledon's center court this afternoon after the U. S. had taken a 3-0 lead yesterday, went to Miss Brough. She won at 8-6, 6-3 over Joan Curry, who thus earned the slim consolation of being the only British player to carry a set to deuce.

The other victories, as the Americans retained the cup that had been in U. S. possession since 1931, went to Miss Osborne, by 6-1, 6-4 over Mrs. Jean Nicoll Bostock; Miss Betz, by 6-4, 6-4 over Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies, only player on either team who had played for the Wightman Cup before, and Miss Brough and Miss Osborne, U. S. doubles championships the past four years, who teamed to whip Mrs. Bostock and Mrs. Mary Whitmarsh Halford, 6-2, 6-1.

LOUISIANA TECH IS ADDED

HATTIESBURG, Miss., June 15.—(AP)—Reed Green, Mississippi Southern coach, today announced scheduling of a football game with Louisiana Tech here Sept. 21 and cancellation of a tentatively scheduled game Oct. 11 with Tennessee State. Date of a game with the University of Havana at Havana has been set for Dec. 7, he said.

Conn Has Incomparable Ally Against Louis In Father Time

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, June 15.—(NEA)—Joe Louis rules 1 to 2 favorite over Billy Conn in what bids fair to be the most colossal prize fight in history at the Yankee Stadium Wednesday night. Even if the battle itself is a fiasco, it still will be a colossal one.

Billy Conn

The 15-round setto is expected to draw in excess of $3,000,000, with ringside seats scaled at $100, others grading down to $10. Mike Jacobs, promoter, set up the stadium to seat 80,000—he says.

The fight marks the Brown Bomber's 20th defense of the heavyweight title, more than twice that of any of his predecessors, is the first real contest for each since they shook the resin dust from their boxing shoes and went to work for Uncle Sam about five years ago.

Ordinarily that would be an insurmountable handicap, judged by fistic standards, for no heavyweight ever staged a successful comeback after being out of competition that long. Most of this time was spent under army supervision which perforce kept Louis and Conn in fair physical condition, and both grew larger during their hitch—Louis in height and weight while Billy the Kid took on needed poundage.

Five years ago Louis at 27 stood 6-1 1/2, weighed 199 1/2, waistline 34, thigh 22. Today he's 6-2, weighs 210, but his excess weight is concentrated in the wrong place—around the middle where he now measures 36. His thigh is still 22. The challenger remains at 6-1 but scales 180 today against the official 174 five years ago.

Conn has two great advantages over Smoky Joe in their impending joust—youth and speed. In all other departments the balance weighs in favor of the champion.

Billy the Kid will have an invisible ally in his corner—Father Time. Louis enters the ring 32 years one month old; Conn goes in 28 years eight months young. No heavyweight champion ever successfully defended his title after the age of 32.

It is a matter of record that Joe Louis never failed to flatten an opponent in a return bout, turning the trick in an average of five and one-sixth rounds. If Joe's law of averages holds up the Pittsburgh Adonis is doomed to go out early in the sixth.

By the same token the superstitious might point out that the only knock-out registered against the Brown bomber came in this Yankee Stadium ring on June 19, 1936, the only time he ever fought on the 19th of any month.

That was the night Max Schmeling starched Louis in the twelfth. The fight originally was scheduled for June 18 but it came up rain causing a night's postponement.

Experts agree Conn has trained better than the champion. The Collar Ad has nearly 300 rounds of boxing under his belt, Joe Louis about half as many during the training period. The challenger looks keener, more confident, more enthusiastic. Louis has drudged through his training grinds without showing much pep. That's the temperament of the men.

Since their first clash at the Polo Grounds June 18, 1941, Billy the Kid has been obsessed with the belief that he was winning by a mile when he ran into a fluke punch in the 13th. This idea has been nurtured by a concerted nodding of heads in agreement when Billy recites his version:

"The bell saved Louis in the 12th. I had him going in the 13th, became too anxious to flatten him when he nailed me with a lucky punch. I was on my feet at the count of nine with only two seconds of the round to go when Referee Eddie Joseph stopped it. I'd have come back and won if he hadn't stopped it."

Louis has a different version: "When I came to my corner after the 12th, Chappie Blackburn told me I had to knock out Conn to win. So next round I done what Chappie told me—I knocked him out."

Just as simple as that.

Because of Mike Jacobs' cautious ukase which barred both principals from tune-up fights it was impossible to get an accurate line on how far the men have slipped during their enforced idleness. Gymnasium bouts do not show this. But on their workouts the champion appears to have gone back further than his challenger.

No doubt Louis has missed the ministrations and sage advice of his old trainer, Jack Chappie Blackburn, who taught him all he knows about boxing. But even if Smoky Joe drops the title there is balm in Gilead. The champion's 40 per cent of the estimated $3,000,000 gate, with taxes out will reach $1,020,000—largest ever won by a fighter and topping Gene Tunney's $900,000 in his long count fight with Dempsey in Chicago.

Conn's 20 per cent share will be $510,000, greatest amount ever paid a challenger.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—On the basis of training camp news, it doesn't appear possible that the Louis-Conn fight can be a financial success. . . . So far there hasn't been a single story about a "grudge battle" or the fighters hurling insults at each other. No one has suggested that Louis used a "gimmick" last time. No expert has issued the statement that "they're both bums" and there hasn't even been a sensational report that the fight would be postponed because one of the contestants was hurt. There hasn't been a yogi in either camp nor has a prowler broken in to take a pot shot at one of the principals or Promoter Mike Jacobs. . . . And with a lake right beside each camp, neither principal has had to plunge in to rescue a damsel in distress. . . . Heck, what have they had to ballynoo except the fact that the world's best two fighters are going to throw punches at each other next Wednesday?

HE AIN'T TALKING

Charley Comerford, who studies Spanish besides playing first base at Villanova, was preparing for practice the other day when he heard a couple of fellows spouting south of the border stuff at a great rate. . . . Enviously, Charley remarked: "Say, you fellows can really go to town with Spanish. I wish I could get the pronunciations like that." . . . In rather halting English, the strangers explained they were students from South America. . . . Comerford probably was surprised to learn that they weren't a couple of Pasquels.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

In spite of denials, that Bill Veeck-Cleveland baseball deal apparently isn't all hot air. At least when Milwaukee's Oscar Salenger got back home he explained he wasn't interested in buying the Indians, adding: "I just went to listen. I don't know Veeck's plan." . . . The only gold tennis trophy in national competition has been put up by the Benrus Watch Company for the pro championships at Forest Hills next month. After all these years, the pro netsters will see some of that gold they've heard about. . . . New England's second gal baseballer turned up the other day when Jane Ashworth played three innings at second base for Westerly, R. I., High School. She struck out her only time at bat. . . . The Rhymer, known as the "drug store horse" because he received some blood transfusions for anemia as a three-year-old, is preparing for a comeback at Delaware Park. And Carteret, who provided the blood in 1941, is stabled only one barn away.

END OF THE LINE

Tut Jackson, now a caretaker at the Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Country Club, was matched nine times with the late Jack Johnson without ever getting into the ring with him. . . . Eight times Tut was stopped by court injunctions and once by a broken hand. . . . The last time they were scheduled to meet was July 4, 1922, at Washington Courthouse. Irate citizens went to court again and the bout was called off. . . . When he heard of Johnson's death, Jackson said: "I sure would have liked to have fought Jack."

WATSON, DICKENS NEW NORTH LOUISIANA UMPS

O. H. Watson, Columbia, and "Scotty" Dickens, Bastrop, have been named official umpires in the North Louisiana Baseball League, it was announced yesterday. Both have already served the semi-pro loop in the capacity of substitutes when the league lost other umps through transfers from this area.

Kermit Youngblood, Monroe, remains the senior member of the league's force of umpires, having worked with the loop since it began play May 5. Johnny Youngblood, who had been working as a league umpire, was lost a week ago when he moved to New Orleans.

Watson will take his first regular assignment today in the Clarks-West Monroe double header at Clarks. Dickens, a former West Texas League player of a couple of decades ago, will be on hand for the twin bill at Bastrop between the Buckshots and Winnsboro.

Youngblood will have charge of the Olla-Columbia tilt at Olla.

N. J. C. Grid Stars Prep For Bids With Big Time College Elevens

Malone Promises Indians Toughest Schedule They Have Ever Had

A trio of Northeast Junior College football stars are all set to make their bids for grid fame with major college elevens this fall, according to reports sifting back to their old stamping grounds here. But it's nothing new for ex-Indians to show up in major college lineups to play star roles, for Coach James L. Malone has been turning out high caliber talent in every one of his thirteen years as the Tribe's war chief.

Clem Welch, the Winchester, Ill., boy who starred in Indian basketball here in 1941-42, managed the football team in 1941, and picked up what football he knew in spring training in 1942, became a crackerjack fullback for the Malonemen. Now he's ticketed for a place on the University of Alabama team this fall.

After leaving here he joined the navy and played for the Norman, Okla., Zoomers. At Alabama, Coach Frank Thomas has already been quoted as saying: "Welch is a great athlete and we expect plenty out of him next season. The Illinois boy is an engineering student in aeronautics.

Big Jim Perry, six-foot-two and 220 pounds, the Bastrop boy, who performed at center here last year and was named the Indians' most valuable player, is headed for Louisiana State University to make a try for the first string center job once held by Coach Malone a decade and a half ago. Perry is a student in journalism.

Mal Young, seeking to be a civil engineer, came here from Greensberg, Pa., played an outstanding game at end for the Redmen on their southern junior college championship team last fall, and has matriculated to the University of Nevada. Latest reports are that Young looms as one of the finest wingmen the Wolf Pack has ever boasted.

But just mentioning to him the fact that such boys as Joe Bob Tyler, Gene Turner, Feeby Crane, Martin Biddy, Dalton Boyd, John Woods, Olan Silk and John Luffey, all 1942 gridders here, who are back to take up where they left off because of the war, seemed to please the popular Indian mentor considerably.

Malone said the full N. J. C. schedule for this year would be announced "within a week."

"I guarantee the fans around here this schedule will be the toughest ever met at N. J. C. in the thirteen years I've been here," he said.

U. S. GIRLS SWEEP WIGHTMAN EVENT

Americans Hand Britons Most Decisive Defeat In Cup Matches

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND, June 15.—(AP)—Four good-looking American girls, hailed by losers and winners alike as the best-balanced U. S. team ever to take the court, completed a clean sweep of the Wightman Cup matches with Britain today as the series was resumed after a six-year wartime recess.

It was the first time since the inaugural year, 1923, that either side had been able to win all seven matches, five singles and two doubles. But this triumph was even more one-sided than that of the American team of 23 years ago, which was led by Helen Wills, for this 1946 combination won every match in straight sets, and allowed the Britons to carry only one of the 14 sets to deuce.

With powerful serves and smashing volleys the three Californians—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills—and the one Floridian—Doris Hart of Miami—complete overwhelmed the British girls, who started the two-day tourney admittedly rusty after years without an opportunity for big-time competition.

The honor of winning the deciding match on Wimbledon's center court this afternoon ,after the U. S. had taken a 3-0 lead yesterday, went to Miss Brough. She won at 8-6, 6-3 over Joan Curry, who thus earned the slim consolation of being the only British player to carry a set to deuce.

The other victories, as the Americans retained the cup that had been in U. S. possession since 1931, went to Miss Osborne, by 6-1, 6-4 over Mrs. Jean Nicoll Bostock; Miss Betz, by 6-4, 6-4 over Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies ,only player on either team who had played for the Wightman Cup before, and Miss Brough and Miss Osborne, U. S. doubles championships the past four years, who teamed to whip Mrs. Bostock and Mrs. Mary Whitmarsh Halford, 6-2, 6-1.

LOUISIANA TECH IS ADDED

HATTIESBURG, Miss., June 15.—(AP)—Reed Green, Mississippi Southern coach, today announced scheduling of a football game with Louisiana Tech here Sept. 21 and cancellation of a tentatively scheduled game Oct. 11 with Tennessee State. Date of a game with the University of Havana at Havana has been set for Dec. 7, he said.

LOUIS PICTURE OF COOL CONFIDENCE

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—Joe Louis boxed seven fairly easy rounds against five of his human guinea pigs today as he began the final three days of training for his title defense against Billy Conn on Wednesday night.

The consensus of several dozen newspapermen from all over the country was that the Bomber looked very good, fast as lightning with his fists when he wanted to be and a picture of confidence in his every move.

Joe didn't try to hurt anybody. When, by chance, he did belt one of his partners pretty good, he invariably called off his dogs until the stricken hireling had fully recovered.

There was no possible doubt that the champion was packing himself very carefully, either because he wanted to run no chance of maiming his fists even with the big pillows or because he felt he was right on the verge of reaching fighting pitch. He said yesterday he wanted to take off only a couple more pounds, down to about 210, in his final three workouts.

Watching the champion snap in left jabs and hooks and whip across an occasional right today, it didn't seem possible that Conn or any other man, however clever, could keep Joe from catching him flush sometime in the course of 15 rounds.

Before today's workout Louis spent close to an hour on the long distance phone giving an interview to some member of the staff of the Moscow newspaper Pravda. Joe said he thought probably it was that paper's sports editor. He said he didn't divulge anything of importance to Moscow.

MURDOCK, VALLINA IN FEATURED BOUT

Paul Murdock, colorful strong boy of Waxahachie, Tex., and Jerry Vallina, 230-pound toughie of East St. Louis, Ill., will tangle in the main event on Tuesday night's wrestling card here, Promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

Murdock has appeared at Kallio's Arena here only a couple of times in the past, but the match will be the first before Kallio's customers for Vallina, who once served as the chief training partner of the great Jim Londos, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion.

A pupil of John Pesek, a famed wrestler in his own right, Vallina is heralded as a leading scientific wrestler quite capable of roughhouse tactics, if such methods are brought to play by his opponents.

"Babe" Zaharias, who won straight falls over Roy Graham here last week, will be back Tuesday for another semi-final struggle, this time meeting Kay Bell.

Bell, also a newcomer to the Southern wrestling circuit and billed for his first show here, the past week gave a good account of himself against Bill Longson, present heavyweight champion, in a match at St. Louis. He's reputedly a top-flight grappler, which claim is substantiated by the fact that he was good enough to get a match with Longson.

The Murdock-Vallina main event will be over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win. The semi-final, also a two-falls-to-win affair, will have a time limit of an hour and fifteen minutes.

3-WAY TIE FORCES U. S. GOLF PLAYOFF

Caddy Boots Ball To Put Nelson In Deadlock With Ghezzi, Mangrum

By Bob Cavagnaro

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(AP)—A penalty shot charged against him when his caddy accidentally kicked the ball on the 13th fairway during the third round cost Byron Nelson the United States Open Golf championship today and sent him into a three-way playoff with Vic Ghezzi and Lloyd Mangrum for the first post-war title.

The three tournament veterans wound up the 72 hole medal play test with totals of 284—four under par for the Canterbury Golf Club's exacting 6,926-yard layout. They will play off at 18 holes tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. (C.S.T.). Nelson won the championship on the playoff at Philadelphia in 1939 when three deadlocked at 284.

After Nelson, Ghezzi and Mangrum had posted their final scores, Ben Hogan and Herman Barron needed only to par the last three holes to take over the lead by a stroke, instead Hogan lost a stroke to par at the 16th and 18th, and Barron was two over par for the last two holes. Hogan's finish gave him a par 72 and Barron's subpar 69 for a fourth place tie at 285.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, who was knocked out of the playoff for the 1940 championship, also at Canterbury, when he was disqualified for starting ahead of schedule, and Jimmy Demaret wound up in a tie for sixth place with 286. Oliver had final rounds of 74 and 70, and Demaret 73 and 68. Demaret shot the last nine holes of his final round in 33, three under par, as he had an eagle and two birdies in succession on the 13th, 14th and 15th holes.

Dick Metz of Kansas City, Kans., and Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Detroit finished in a tie for eighth place with aggregates of 287. Harbert's last two rounds of 67 and 70 earned him low scoring honors for the day. Metz shot a par 72 this morning and had a second round of 69.

Lawson Little, who won the 1940 championship here, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Chicago, finished with 289 in a three-way tie for 10th place. Little started the day with a 36-hole total of 141—the same as he had in 1940—but he took 76 in the morning and rallied to a 71 on the final round. Harrison had impressive last day rounds of 72 and 70.

They were followed by Henry Picard, Canterbury professional, and Ed Furgol, of Pontiac, Mich., who had closing rounds of 71-74 and 74-69, respectively, for totals of 289. Two strokes behind them at 291 were Toney Penny of Cincinnati, who was co-leader with Sam Snead of the first round; Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Steve Kovach of Pittsburgh.

The scoring in the championship was the lowest ever recorded in a major tournament at Canterbury. The 1940 National Open and the 1932 Western Open were won with scores of 287 and the 1937 Western Open was won with par 288. Nine players in this championship broke par and two equalled it, compared with the 1940 championship when only two players got under regulation figures and one equalled them.

The incident that cost Nelson the championship resulted from a charging gallery—part of today's estimated 12,000 spectators—that carried Nelson's caddy, Eddie Martin, with it as the fans rushed to get in position to see Byron play his third shot. Martin accidentally kicked the ball and Nelson immediately referred the matter to an U. S. G. A. rules official.

The official said the accident called for a penalty of one stroke. Nelson played the hole in par 5, but the score went into the records as one-over-par six.

"It certainly wasn't the boy's fault," said Nelson after the morning round which he shot in 69. "It was an unfortunate incident and if it hadn't happened I think the tournament would be over right now."

The gallery of 12,000, incidentally, swelled the three-day attendance for the championship to 27,200 spectators who paid $60,000. It was the largest gate in the 46-year history of the championship. The previous high was at Interlachen, in 1930, when 16,800 spectators paid $46,000 to see Bob Jones win the Open title for the third of the four championships he captured that year.

BASTROP PLAYS 2 WITH WINNSBORO

BASTROP, June 15.—(Special)—Local fans will have the opportunity of seeing two strikeout artists performing for the Bastrop Buckshots here Sunday afternoon when the Shots play a double header against Winnsboro. Ike (Red) Murray, who struck out 17 men in a game here recently against Olla, and Rudolph Arant, who duplicated the feat against Columbia last Sunday, will be the starting hurlers for Bastrop in the twin-bill.

The double feature was scheduled in order that the two teams make up a recently postponed contest. Snyder park will be the scene of the fracas, with the initial encounter scheduled to get underway at 2:30 p. m.

The Shots will probably line-up with Davis behind the bat; Manager Olan Arant on first, John Boykin at second, Frosty McReynolds covering short, and Cooter Harrington on third. Patrolling the outer gardens will be Earl (Bones) Parker, Leon Langston and Joe Mears.

ALL-AMERICA COULTER GOING TO GEORGIA TECH

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 15.—(AP)—De Witt Coulter, All-America tackle while at the U. S. Academy, has announced he will go to school at Georgia Tech.

The former Masonic Home High School athlete said he would not be interested in any pro offers or any offers from a southwest conference school.

"I asked them if I could play end and they said I could so that's where I'm going," Coulter said.

CONN CONTINUES GOOD CAMP WORK

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—Billy Conn tagged one of his sparring partners for keeps today and got his Irish up against another as the Pittsburgh challenger went through five rounds of boxing that left him just two practice sessions away from the real thing against Joe Louis Wednesday night.

The man who got tagged was Irish Jimmy Smith. He ran into a hard right that caught him flush on the jaw midway of the first round. He appeared so shaken up that Manager Johnny Ray called "time." Conn went another round with Smith, and then went a single heat with Frank Poreda. They had been scheduled to go two, but Ray called a halt at the end of the first.

ASSAULT SCORES IN DWYER STAKES

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Barney Baruch came out to Aqueduct today and got acquainted with racing's version of the atomic bomb, Assault, who galloped home by five lengths to win the Dwyer Stakes and become the turf's greatest money winner in a single year.

Assault won $10,700 for the mile and a quarter meander. This not only skyrocketed him into fifth place on racing's money winning list, with a two-season bankroll of $361,470, but also made him the greatest breadwinner for one season that the turf has ever seen.

The sizzling son of Bold Venture now has a bank account of $344,220 for his 1946 season. This wiped from the books the $308,275 one-year high Gallant Fox piled up in 1930 when he became the only horse—up to now—with more than $300,000 in earnings for a single year.

There wasn't a third around today to get him excited. The crowd of 39,036 backed him down to $2.80 for $2 in the mutuels—and he should have been 1 to 10, the way he won it.

MURDOCK, VALLINA IN FEATURED BOUT

Paul Murdock, colorful strong boy of Waxahachie, Tex., and Jerry Vallina, 230-pound toughie of East St. Louis, Ill., will tangle in the main event on Tuesday night's wrestling card here, Promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

Murdock has appeared at Kallio's Arena here only a couple of times in the past, but the match will be the first before Kallio's customers for Vallina, who once served as the chief training partner of the great Jim Londos, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion.

A pupil of John Pesek, a famed wrestler in his own right, Vallina is heralded as a leading scientific wrestler quite capable of roughhouse tactics, if such methods are brought to play by his opponents.

"Babe" Zaharias, who won straight falls over Roy Graham here last week, will be back Tuesday for another semi-final struggle, this time meeting Kay Bell.

Bell, also a newcomer to the Southern wrestling circuit and billed for his first show here, the past week gave a good account of himself against Bill Longson, present heavyweight champion, in a match at St. Louis. He's reputedly a top-flight grappler, which claim is substantiated by the fact that he was good enough to get a match with Longson.

The Murdock-Vallina main event will be over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win. The semi-final, also a two-falls-to-win affair, will have a time limit of an hour and fifteen minutes.

3-WAY TIE FORCES U. S. GOLF PLAYOFF

By Bob Cavagnaro

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(AP)—A penalty shot charged against him when his caddy accidentally kicked the ball on the 13th fairway during the third round cost Byron Nelson the United States Open Golf championship today and sent him into a three-way playoff with Vic Ghezzi and Lloyd Mangrum for the first post-war title.

The three tournament veterans wound up the 72 hole medal play test with totals of 284—four under par for the Canterbury Golf Club's exacting 6,926-yard layout. They will play off at 18 holes tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. (C.S.T.). Nelson won the championship on the playoff at Philadelphia in 1939 when three deadlocked at 284.

After Nelson, Ghezzi and Mangrum had posted their final scores, Ben Hogan and Herman Barron needed only to par the last three holes to take over the lead by a stroke, instead Hogan lost a stroke to par at the 16th and 18th, and Barron was two over par for the last two holes. Hogan's finish gave him a par 72 and Barron's subpar 69 for a fourth place tie at 285.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, who was knocked out of the playoff for the 1940 championship, also at Canterbury, when he was disqualified for starting ahead of schedule, and Jimmy Demaret wound up in a tie for sixth place with 286. Oliver had final rounds of 74 and 70, and Demaret 73 and 68. Demaret shot the last nine holes of his final round in 33, three under par, as he had an eagle and two birdies in succession on the 13th, 14th and 15th holes.

Dick Metz of Kansas City, Kans., and Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Detroit finished in a tie for eighth place with aggregates of 287. Harbert's last two rounds of 67 and 70 earned him low scoring honors for the day. Metz shot a par 72 this morning and had a second round of 69.

Lawson Little, who won the 1940 championship here, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Chicago, finished with 289 in a three-way tie for 10th place. Little started the day with a 36-hole total of 141—the same as he had in 1940—but he took 76 in the morning and rallied to a 71 on the final round. Harrison had impressive last day rounds of 72 and 70.

They were followed by Henry Picard, Canterbury professional, and Ed Furgol, of Pontiac, Mich., who had closing rounds of 71-74 and 74-69, respectively, for totals of 289. Two strokes behind them at 291 were Toney Penny of Cincinnati, who was co-leader with Sam Snead of the first round; Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Steve Kovach of Pittsburgh.

The scoring in the championship was the lowest ever recorded in a major tournament at Canterbury. The 1940 National Open and the 1932 Western Open were won with scores of 287 and the 1937 Western Open was won with par 288. Nine players in this championship broke par and two equalled it, compared with the 1940 championship when only two players got under regulation figures and one equalled them.

The incident that cost Nelson the championship resulted from a charging gallery—part of today's estimated 12,000 spectators—that carried Nelson's caddy, Eddie Martin, with it as the fans rushed to get in position to see Bryon play his third shot. Martin accidentally kicked the ball and Nelson immediately referred the matter to an U. S. G. A. rules official.

The official said the accident called for a penalty of one stroke. Nelson played the hole in par 5, but the score went into the records as one-over-par six.

"It certainly wasn't the boy's fault," said Nelson after the morning round which he shot in 69. "It was an unfortunate incident and if it hadn't happened I think the tournament would be over right now."

The gallery of 12,000, incidentally, swelled the three-day attendance for the championship to 27,200 spectators who paid $60,000. It was the largest gate in the 46-year history of the championship. The previous high was at Interlachen, in 1930, when 16,800 spectators paid $46,000 to see Bob Jones win the Open title for the third of the four championships he captured that year.

BASTROP PLAYS 2 WITH WINNSBORO

BASTROP, June 15.—(Special)—Local fans will have the opportunity of seeing two strikeout artists performing for the Bastrop Buckshots here Sunday afternoon when the Shots play a double header against Winnsboro. Ike (Red) Murray, who struckout 17 men in a game here recently against Olla, and Rudolph Arant, who duplicated the feat against Columbia last Sunday, will be the starting hurlers for Bastrop in the twin-bill.

The double feature was scheduled in order that the two teams make up a recently postponed contest. Snyder park will be the scene of the fracas, with the initial encounter scheduled to get underway at 2:30 p. m.

The Shots will probably line-up with Davis behind the bat; Manager Olan Arant on first, John Boykin at second, Frosty McReynolds covering short, and Cooter Harrington on third. Patrolling the outer gardens will be Earl (Bones) Parker, Leon Langston and Joe Mears.

ALL-AMERICA COULTER GOING TO GEORGIA TECH

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 15.—(AP)—De Witt Coulter, All-America tackle while at the U. S. Academy, has announced he will go to school at Georgia Tech.

The former Masonic Home High School athlete said he would not be interested in any pro offers or any offers from a southwest conference school.

CONN CONTINUES GOOD CAMP WORK

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—Billy Conn tagged one of his sparring partners for keeps today and got his Irish up against another as the Pittsburgh challenger went through five rounds of boxing that left him just two practice sessions away from the real thing against Joe Louis Wednesday night.

The man who got tagged was Irish Jimmy Smith. He ran into a hard right that caught him flush on the jaw midway of the first round. He appeared so shaken up that Manager Johnny Ray called "time." Conn went another round with Smith, and then went a single heat with Frank Poreda. They had been scheduled to go two, but Ray called a halt at the end of the first.

ASSAULT SCORES IN DWYER STAKES

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Barney Baruch came out to Aqueduct today and got acquainted with racing's version of the atomic bomb, Assault, who galloped home by five lengths to win the Dwyer Stakes and become the turf's greatest money winner in a single year.

Assoult won $40,700 for the mile and a quarter meander. This not only skyrocketed him into fifth place on racing's money winning list, with a two-season bankroll of $361,470, but also made him the greatest breadwinner for one season that the turf has ever seen.

The sizzling son of Bold Venture now has a bank account of $344,220 for his 1946 season. This wiped from the books the $308,275 one-year high Gallant Fox piled up in 1930 when he became the only horse—up to now—with more than $300,000 in earnings for a single year.

There wasn't a third around today to get him excited. The crowd of 39,036 backed him down to $2.80 for $2 in the mutuels—and he should have been 1 to 10, the way he won it.

SEC. ANDERSON'S INSIDES PHOTOED

Former Secretary Of Agriculture Once Victim Of Tuberculosis

Critics agreed they seldom had seen a finer chest.

Eventually, public health service officials hope, every person in the U. S. will step up, just like Anderson, and have his chest X-rayed.

Anderson was a particularly apt choice for a part in the program. You'd never guess it to look at this strapping six-footer, but he said he once had tuberculosis.

He disclosed at the presentation that he spent eight months in a sanatorium fighting the disease.

"It was years," he said, "before I could do a full day's work."

Anderson said that an X-ray might have tipped his doctor off much earlier that he had tuberculosis—and the disease could have been checked quickly.

Dr. Herman E. Hillaboe, chief of the tuberculosis control division of the health service, said 100,000 new cases of T. B. are reported annually and, in spite of concentrated campaigns, 55,000 still die each year.

He thinks units of the new mobile type will do a lot toward eradicating the disease.

"We can reach communities which previously have been isolated," he said.

"This unit is extremely simple. A person steps up (he or she doesn't have to bother with undressing), has his chest X-rayed, and moves on. Thirty minutes later the negative is developed."

AMERICAN LEGION TO NAME OFFICERS

Election of officers for another year will be the principal business before the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, at its meeting at the Legion Home here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, Commander J. Arthur Smith, Jr., said last night.

Two nominating committees will submit nominations for every office at the post, and the membership will vote on each office separately.

The election of delegates to the state department convention at Alexandria next month will also come before the post's membership. On a basis of the local organization's present membership L. B. Faulk is entitled to 39 delegates at the convention, Commander Smith said.

All new applicants for post membership who have presented proper credentials will be entitled to vote even if they have not been inducted since inductions are being delayed until the next meeting of the post.

An executive committee meeting at 7 o'clock will preceed the general meeting.

$3,000,000 FOR JEWELS REJECTED

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 15.—(AP)—The Countess von Hessen, 74-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria, said today she "certainly would not" accept an American's offer to purchase the crown jewels of the house of Hesse for $3,000,000.

Notified this morning that Jack M. Werst, a jeweler of Dayton, Ohio, had cabled Princess Margarita of the Hesse family that a syndicate he headed was prepared to buy the jewels, the Countess said there was "no question" of the gems being offered for sale.

"I couldn't sell them," the countess said, "because in the first place they do not all belong to me or any member of the family individually."

FRANKLIN MONEY TO PURCHASE FOOD

WINNSBORO, La., June 15.—(Special)—The Franklin parish food collection program, as advocated for famine relief by President Truman, is getting under way with George D. McKnight, committee chairman. The purpose is to raise $1,000, and Franklin parish has never failed to make every quota assigned in past years.

The ward chairmen are as follows: Ward 1—A. J. Ensminger; Ward 2—A. G. Corbett; Ward 3—Will Snyder; Ward 4—Lantz Womack; Ward 5—C. W. Kennedy; Ward 6—Mitchell Black; Ward 7—A. D. Meyer; Ward 8—Ben Pardue; Ward 9—Charlie Grayson.

Donations should be given toward chairman, and the public is asked not to wait for a committee to call, but to contribute spontaneously.

Other committee members will be announced later.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14.—(AP)—Limited transaction of oats were made at ceilings today in a grain market which was close to a complete standstill. Traders were awaiting outcome of the OPA extension bill fight and it appeared that turnover would set another new all-time low.

Corn, oats and barley closed at their respective ceilings of $1 46 1 2, 88 cents and $1 55 1 2. Only oats were traded.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 75 cents a bale higher at 29.18 cents a pound. Average for the past 30 market days 28.03; middling 7/8th-inch average 27.55.

New York

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Mill buying and trade covering imparted a firm undertone in cotton futures today. The volume of business was light. Small orders in either direction caused prices to jump 5 to 10 points between transactions. Reports of a strong demand for spot cotton in the south and increasing belief that price control would be considerably relaxed accounted for the buying movement.

Futures closed 40 to 80 cents a bale higher.

SEC. ANDERSON'S INSIDES PHOTOED

Former Secretary Of Agriculture Once Victim Of Tuberculosis

Critics agreed they seldom had seen a finer chest.

Eventually, public health service officials hope, every person in the U. S. will step up, just like Anderson, and have his chest X-rayed.

Anderson was a particularly apt choice for a part in the program. You'd never guess it to look at this strapping six-footer, but he said he once had tuberculosis.

He disclosed at the presentation that he spent eight months in a sanatorium fighting the disease.

"It was years," he said, "before I could do a full day's work."

Anderson said that an X-ray might have tipped his doctor off much earlier that he had tuberculosis—and the disease could have been checked quickly.

Dr. Herman E. Hillaboe, chief of the tuberculosis control division of the health service, said 100,000 new cases of T. B. are reported annually and, in spite of concentrated campaigns, 55,000 still die each year.

He thinks units of the new mobile type will do a lot toward eradicating the disease.

"We can reach communities which previously have been isolated," he said.

"This unit is extremely simple. A person steps up (he or she doesn't have to bother with undressing), has his chest X-rayed, and moves on. Thirty minutes later the negative is developed."

AMERICAN LEGION TO NAME OFFICERS

Election of officers for another year will be the principal business before the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, at its meeting at the Legion Home here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, Commander J. Arthur Smith, Jr., said last night.

Two nominating committees will submit nominations for every office at the post, and the membership will vote on each office separately.

The election of delegates to the state department convention at Alexandria next month will also come before the post's membership. On a basis of the local organization's present membership L. B. Faulk is entitled to 39 delegates at the convention, Commander Smith said.

All new applicants for post membership who have presented proper credentials will be entitled to vote even if they have not been inducted since inductions are being delayed until the next meeting of the post.

An executive committee meeting at 7 o'clock will preceed the general meeting.

$3,000,000 FOR JEWELS REJECTED

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 15.—(AP)—The Countess von Hessen, 74-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria, said today she "certainly would not" accept an American's offer to purchase the crown jewels of the house of Hesse for $3,000,000.

Notified this morning that Jack M. Werst, a jeweler of Dayton, Ohio, had cabled Princess Margarita of the Hesse family that a syndicate he headed was prepared to buy the jewels, the Countess said there was "no question" of the gems being offered for sale.

FRANKLIN MONEY TO PURCHASE FOOD

WINNSBORO, La., June 15.—(Special)—The Franklin parish food collection program, as advocated for famine relief by President Truman, is getting under way with George D. McKnight, committee chairman. The purpose is to raise $1,000, and Franklin parish has never failed to make every quota assigned in past years.

The ward chairmen are as follows: Ward 1—A. J. Ensminger; Ward 2—A. G. Corbett; Ward 3—Will Snyder; Ward 4—Lantz Womack; Ward 5—C. W. Kennedy; Ward 6—Mitchell Black; Ward 7—A. D. Meyer; Ward 8—Ben Pardue; Ward 9—Charlie Grayson.

Donations should be given toward chairman, and the public is asked not to wait for a committee to call, but to contribute spontaneously.

Other committee members will be announced later.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14.—(AP)—Limited transaction of oats were made at ceilings today in a grain market which was close to a complete standstill. Traders were awaiting outcomé of the CPA extension bill fight and it appeared that turnover would set another new all-time low.

Corn, oats and barley closed at their respective ceilings of $1.46 1/2, 88 cents and $1.35 1/2. Only oats were traded.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

New York

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Mill buying and trade covering imparted a firm undertone in cotton futures today. The volume of business was light. Small orders in either direction caused prices to jump 5 to 10 points between transactions. Reports of a strong demand for spot cotton in the south and increasing belief that price control would be considerably relaxed accounted for the buying movement.

Futures closed 40 to 80 cents a bale higher.

Alexandria Morticians Complete Deal With Peters Funeral Service

Hixson Brothers, prominent funeral directors and morticians of Alexandria, on Friday acquired the physical equipment and good will of Peters Funeral Service, 504 South Grand Street, which it is understood, will be operated as the Hixson Funeral Home, of Monroe, for the time being utilizing the facilities of the present setup. Later, however, it is planned to erect a handsome and ornate funeral home immediately north of "The Shades" on Jackson Street. The sum paid is not made public.

Louis L. Peters, who has for the past few years owned and operated the Peters Funeral Service, Inc., stressed the fact that he has not sold the name of Peters Funeral Service, Inc., which he is to retain.

The Peters Funeral Service is direct successor of the Peters Furniture Company which has for years borne the proud record of being the oldest continuously operated business enterprise in the Twin Cities.

From a modest start back in 1869, when John Ernest Peters, a young man from Germany came to America and to Monroe to make his fortune in the new world, the Peters company grew with the growth of the city. In those days, the business thoroughfare was North and South Grand Street and in course of time, Mr. Peters owned and operated the largest furniture store in Monroe. The building is now owned and used by the Ouachita Parish High School at 501 South Grand Street.

But the furniture line was rivalled by the undertaking end of the business. For years the only mortuary in Monroe, and for that matter in the entire Fifth Congressional District was that of the Peters Furniture Company.

After making for himself a substantial record of business success, Mr. Peters died and was succeeded by his son, Fred Peters. The second generation member of the Peters family was also a substantial and successful business man and the furniture and undertaking lines were still further expanded by him. Fred Peters was genial man and highly popular. He served for a number of years on the Ouachita parish police jury. At his death, his son, Louis L. Peters, the third generation of the family in Monroe, took over the management of the business. In course of time, with competition in the furniture line being most acute, and the Peters place of business being located out of the principal downtown retail area, it was decided to close out the business. The large building used by the furniture company was purchased by the Ouachita Parish School Board and is now used by the parish high school. The undertaking business, however, was continued, and was operated as the Peters Funeral Service, Inc.

With the passage of time, the undertaking business, like that of the furniture line, has seen much competition. Today there are three other undertaking establishments in Monroe catering to white trade and nearly as many for Negroes. Each town of any size in the various parishes of the Fifth District also now has an undetaker, the business generally having undergone great changes and sharp competition.

Mr. Peters stated Saturday that he will remain for a time with the Hixson firm but that later permanent plans are undecided at present.

MRS. COLQUETTE TO CLINIC BOARD

Miss Aaron was prominently identified with the clinic from its inception in February, 1937. Her interest and loyalty to the work was lauded at the recent board meeting.

The clinic is an agency of the Twin City Community Chest. It is noted that since the end of the war, and during the month of May, 20 out of 27 mothers who applied were found eligible for maternity care. Likewise noted, through investigations made by the secretary, were needs in social welfare of several mothers whose hospitalization is scheduled for an early date.

It is stated that the scarcity of needed articles and the high cost of such commodities, shows a trend for many calls on the clinic's funds within the next few months.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—This country isn't offering to give away its special atomic secrets overnight.

It won't give them away at all unless the other nations agree to certain conditions satisfactory to the United States.

This commission was set up to consider atomic energy problems, particularly the problem of the atom bomb.

Baruch made proposals which need plenty of thought by this and other countries. They're far-reaching.

In brief, he suggested:

They should agree upon punishments which could be inflicted fast upon any nation violating the agreements by trying to make a bomb.

The nations should set up an international atomic development authority, a group or board of representatives of various nations.

This group would have authority over the materials that could make a bomb and all other atomic energy activities.

When this group is set up, after all the agreements had been made, the atomic authority would be given our atomic secrets.

But all that takes time and the nations would have to seal their agreements to all the conditions by treaties.

Because a treaty would be involved, the United States Senate would first have to approve our part in all this.

And its approval could be obtained only by a two-thirds vote, which is not easy.

Baruch and this government apparently feel that we can take time to get all the conditions agreed to, that no one else is going to bob up with an atom bomb of his own in the near future.

Baruch told the commission: "As matters now stand, several years may be necessary for another country to produce a bomb."

Nowhere in his statement does Baruch say how long he thinks it may be before the plan he outlines can be agreed to and put into operation.

But Baruch proposed something which involved not only the national sovereignty of the United States, but all nations taking part in the agreements.

National sovereignty means a nation's freedom to make decisions of its own, as it sees fit, to protect itself or its interests.

For instance:

Suppose the United States saw fit to invade some neighboring nation. The United Nations would go into session to see what could be done to stop this.

They all might vote to take united action against this country but, by voting "no," the United States could stop the others from moving against America. That "no" is the veto power.

This veto power for the big nations was written into the charter of the United Nations, and agreed to by the members, before the atomic commission was created.

Now Baruch suggests that, if atomic energy control is going to work, then the nations must give up their veto in the United Nations in so far as it affects control of atomic energy.

He's saying there should be no veto once the nations agree to control atomic energy. He said:

"There must be no veto to protect those who voilate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Here, again, the United States Senate would have to approve before we could agree to anything like that.

If we did agree, it would be the first time in our history that we were willing to lay aside our national sovereignty under any circumstances or for any purpose.

It could mean this:

If—after we and the other nations agreed to international atomic control—we, for some reason, wanted to make atom bombs, the rest would be free to jump on us.

For the first time in history, except during wars, a government oil and gas agency has been set up—in the Department of Interior.

Louis L. Peters, who has for the past few years owned and operated the Peters Funeral Service, Inc., stressed the fact that he has not sold the name of Peters Funeral Service, Inc., which he is to retain.

The Peters Funeral Service is direct successor of the Peters Furniture Company which has for years borne the proud record of being the oldest continuously operated business enterprise in the Twin Cities.

From a modest start back in 1869, when John Ernest Peters, a young man from Germany came to America and to Monroe to make his fortune in the new world, the Peters company grew with the growth of the city. In those days, the business thoroughfare was North and South Grand Street and in course of time, Mr. Peters owned and operated the largest furniture store in Monroe. The building is now owned and used by the Ouachita Parish High School at 501 South Grand Street.

But the furniture line was rivalled by the undertaking end of the business. For years the only mortuary in Monroe, and for that matter in the entire Fifth Congressional District was that of the Peters Furniture Company.

After making for himself a substantial record of business success, Mr. Peters died and was succeeded by his son, Fred Peters. The second generation member of the Peters family was also a substantial and successful business man and the furniture and undertaking lines were still further expanded by him. Fred Peters was genial man and highly popular. He served for a number of years on the Ouachita parish police jury. At his death, his son, Louis L. Peters, the third generation of the family in Monroe, took over the management of the business. In course of time, with competition in the furniture line being most acute, and the Peters place of business being located out of the principal downtown retail area, it was decided to close out the business. The large building used by the furniture company was purchased by the Ouachita Parish School Board and is now used by the parish high school. The undertaking business, however, was continued, and was operated as the Peters Funeral Service, Inc.

With the passage of time, the undertaking business, like that of the furniture line, has seen much competition. Today there are three other undertaking establishments in Monroe catering to white trade and nearly as many for Negroes. Each town of any size in the various parishes of the Fifth District also now has an undetaker, the business generally having undergone great changes and sharp competition.

Mr. Peters stated Saturday that he will remain for a time with the Hixson firm but that later permanent plans are undecided at present.

MRS. COLQUETTE TO CLINIC BOARD

Miss Aaron was prominently identified with the clinic from its inception in February, 1937. Her interest and loyalty to the work was lauded at the recent board meeting.

Members assured that her untimely death is a distinct loss to the Catholic Daughters of America and to the clinic that the organization sponsors.

The clinic is an agency of the Twin City Community Chest. It is noted that since the end of the war, and during the month of May, 20 out of 27 mothers who applied were found eligible for maternity care. Likewise noted, through investigations made by the secretary, were needs in social welfare of several mothers whose hospitalization is scheduled for an early date.

It is stated that the scarcity of needed articles and the high cost of such commodities, shows a trend for many calls on the clinic's funds within the next few months.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—This country isn't offering to give away its special atomic secrets overnight.

It won't give them away at all unless the other nations agree to certain conditions satisfactory to the United States.

Meeting those conditions may take years.

This commission was set up to consider atomic energy problems, particularly the problem of the atom bomb.

Baruch made proposals which need plenty of thought by this and other countries. They're far-reaching.

In brief, he suggested:

The nations should agree to outlaw the atom bomb as a weapon of war.

They should agree upon punishments which could be inflicted fast upon any nation violating the agreements by trying to make a bomb.

The nations should set up an international atomic development authority, a group or board of representatives of various nations.

This group would have authority over the materials that could make a bomb and all other atomic energy activities.

When this group is set up, after all the agreements had been made, the atomic authority would be given our atomic secrets.

But all that takes time and the nations would have to seal their agreements to all the conditions by treaties.

Because a treaty would be involved, the United States Senate would first have to approve our part in all this.

And its approval could be obtained only by a two-thirds vote, which is not easy.

Baruch and this government apparently feel that we can take time to get all the conditions agreed to, that no one else is going to bob up with an atom bomb of his own in the near future.

Baruch told the commission: "As matters now stand, several years may be necessary for another country to produce a bomb."

Nowhere in his statement does Baruch say how long he thinks it may be before the plan he outlines can be agreed to and put into operation.

But Baruch proposed something which involved not only the national sovereignty of the United States, but all nations taking part in the agreements.

National sovereignty means a nation's freedom to make decisions of its own, as it sees fit, to protect itself or its interests.

Because this is so important, the big nations in the United Nations insist upon having a veto upon the actions of the others:

For instance:

Suppose the United States saw fit to invade some neighboring nation. The United Nations would go into session to see what could be done to stop this.

They all might vote to take united action against this country but, by voting "no," the United States could stop the others from moving against America. That "no" is the veto power.

This veto power for the big nations was written into the charter of the United Nations, and agreed to by the members, before the atomic commission was created.

Now Baruch suggests that, if atomic energy control is going to work, then the nations must give up their veto in the United Nations in so far as it affects control of atomic energy.

He's saying there should be no veto once the nations agree to control atomic energy. He said:

"There must be no veto to protect those who voilate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Here, again, the United States Senate would have to approve before we could agree to anything like that.

If we did agree, it would be the first time in our history that we were willing to lay aside our national sovereignty under any circumstances or for any purpose.

It could mean this:

If—after we and the other nations agreed to international atomic control—we, for some reason, wanted to make atom bombs, the rest would be free to jump on us.

For the first time in history, except during wars, a government oil and gas agency has been set up—in the Department of Interior.

Today is Dad's Day. For a brief 24-hour period he will reign as king of the household. He will assume the matter-of-fact attitude toward the handsome gifts showered upon him but even so he's sentimental at heart. He takes as much pride in his stalwart sons and beautiful daughters as mother does.

Dr. Scott Hamilton, upper right, will spend Father's Day with his daughter, Ashley, whose companionship he was deprived of during the war. He was a Colonel in the Army of the United States and served overseas. He was stationed in Japan and was one of the consulting doctors when the War Premier Tojo attempted suicide. Daily visits were made to his bedside. Mr. E. T. Lamkin, upper left, has been enjoying the companionship of his son, Hillyer Speed Lamkin who arrived home several weeks ago from Harvard university. He left last week for New York City to accept a position with the Conde-Nast publications until he returns to Harvard in September.

Father's Day holds special significance for one Monroe father, Mr. Sam Rubin whose two sons are with him today. Wedding At St. Matthew's Catholic Church Characterized By Simplicity

Miss Daughtry Is A June Bride

Large Concourse Of Friends And Relatives Attend Prominent Nuptials

A wedding characterized by dignity and elegant simplicity took place at St. Matthew's Catholic Church when Miss Sybil Marie Daughtry, only daughter of Mrs. Walter Conley Daughtry and the late Mr. Daughtry became the bride of Mr. Edwin Gilmore Carver, son of Mrs. M. F. Robertson and the late Mr. T. W. Carver of Indianapolis, Ind., on the evening of June 7 at 5:30 o'clock.

The Reverend Father Henry W. Hubley performed the sacred rites. While the groomsmen, Mr. Landon Miles, Mr. Milliard Lipscomb and Mr. Charles P. Guerriero III in blue summer suits seated the large concourse of friends who filled to capacity the spacious invirons of the church, Mr. Leon Hammond, organist rendered a program of nuptial selections and later accompanied Mrs. A. M. Serex, whose beautiful soprano voice was heard (Gunoud's) "Ave Maria." The altar boys, Hugh Biggar, Jr., and Stanley Hodges, Jr., in cassock and suplice, lighted the myriad cathedral candles that pricked the evening's shadows. They were silhouetted against the altar overlaid with gold lace altar cloths and banked high with white gladioli against a background of lacey greens. In the sanctuary, where the bride and groom knelt on white satin covered prie-dieus for the impressive ceremony, alternating white and gold sheathed baskets of gladioli and California daisies were placed, each outlined by tall lighted candelabra and reached to the Communion rail in the foreground where low especially designed candelabra, burned in trinity formation. The pews, down the center aisle were marked at intervals with clusters of Shasta daisies and white satin ribbons. The side windows, thrown wide, were filled with gardenias.

Walking down the aisle, Mrs. Daughtry, mother of the bride, wore a becoming model of ashes of roses crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Robertson, mother of the groom, wore a handsome model of midnight blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's attendants, Miss Jane Renaud, her cousin, and Miss Roberta Steele, and Miss Nell Carter all wore identical models of buttercup net over satin. These lovely costumes were fashioned with square necklines, double ruffled, short sleeves, tight bodice and bouffant skirt. Small hats of buttercup tulle were worn and Colonial bouquets of Mrs. Franklin D. roses tied with maline and aqua satin ribbons, were carried. Mrs. Alice Brauer, maid of honor, wore aqua marine net and satin. She wore a small aqua tulle hat. Her Colonial bouquet gave a vivid note of contrast to her costume. Mr. E. J. Zenone acted as best man.

The bride, tall, slender, brown-eyed, with beautiful auburn hair walked down the white carpeted aisle on the arm of her brother, Mr. Zack Armand Daughtry, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of Dutchess satin was Princess style, with sweetheart neckline and long petal pointed sleeves. The skirt swept in court train over which fell a billowey veil of illusion caught to her hair on either side with a single Gardenia Vetchii. Her only ornament was a strand of matched pearls. For sentimental reason she carried the exquisite handkerchief that came from her great grandmother Nigolett in Paris, France, and carried by her grandmother Renaud in New Orleans on her wedding day. She observed "something borrowed and something blue" and wore the traditional good luck six pence in her shoe. Her Colonial bouquet was fashioned of Gardenia Vetchii and tulle, centered with orchids. The tiny satin ribbon streamers were knotted with Gardenia Radicnn.

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother on Speed drive. The handsome gifts in a room set aside for this purpose were viewed. Sterling, china, and crystal, paintings, exquisite linens and many other lovely gifts were displayed.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed in white and silver. A handsome imported cloth overlaid the mahogany board. Antique silver candlabra with white tapers placed at the four corners were linked by wedding rings of silver tulle and satin buds to dramatize the four tier wedding cake. Chrystalized gardenias formed the base of the confection, surmounted with valley lilies.

The bride traveled in a stunning toast brown suit of shantaung, panama hat, white accessories and a corsage of orchids, worn high on her coat's lapel. The bride, decendant of an old southern family is a lovely member of the younger set. She is a graduate of Neville High, where she received the American Legion award, the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizen award and Sigm Sigma, national high school honor society.

An alumnus of Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. she was member of the Purple Jackets, circulation manager of Pow Wow, on the staff of Chatachoula. Following her graduation at the college she became assistant to the registrar. She is a member of Lambda Chi and Delta Beta Sigma sororities and the Young Business Girls club of the YWCA.

Mr. Carver, who served in the European theater, was a prisoner of war in Germany for 18 months. Prior to entering the armed services he attended the University of Illinois and is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now associated in official capacity with the Ross-Hoover Buying company of Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. John Bennett Fudickar's bachelor days climaxed when he married Miss Jean Terzia on June 12 but the last courtesy of a social nature enjoyed while he was still a bachelor took place at the Lotus Club when Mr. R. C. White, Jr., gathered his intimate friends together for a stag supper.

The privacy of the library permitted the host to arrange the supper tables in night club fashion. They were covered with bright red and white checked linens and all the viands were served from polished wooden bowls and trays. Cold sliced turkey and ham, salads, relishes and hot rolls were served buffet style.

Throughout the evening music was supplied by a strolling guitarist.

The guests were: John Bennett Fudickar, Fred Fudickar, Jr., Paul Fudickar, Jack Terzia, Felix Terzia, Felix Terzia, Jr., Tom Hayes, Jr., Jimmy Swink, R. C. White, Murray Hudson, Bridger Thornhill, H. For sentimental reason she carried the exquisite handkerchief that came from her great grandmother Nigolett in Paris, France, and carried by her grandmother Renaud in New Orleans on her wedding day. She observed "something borrowed and something blue" and wore the traditional good luck six pence in her shoe. Her Colonial bouquet was fashioned of Gardenia Vetchii and tulle, centered with orchids. The tiny satin ribbon streamers were knotted with Gardenia Radican.

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother on Speed drive. The handsome gifts in a room set aside for this purpose were viewed. Sterling, china, and crystal, paintings, exquisite linens and many other lovely gifts were displayed.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed in white and silver. A handsome imported cloth overlaid the mahogany board. Antique silver candlabra with white tapers placed at the four corners were linked by wedding rings of silver tulle and satin buds to dramatize the four tier wedding cake. Chrystalized gardenias formed the base of the confection, surmounted with valley lilies.

Mrs. H. E. Palmer, cousin of the bride, served iced fruit frappe from a huge crystal bowl imbedded in a mound of magnolia blossoms. Individual wedding cakes embossed with valley lilies were passed among the guests by Mrs. Raymond Rock, Miss Joan Boardman and Miss Mara Louise Guerriero, all in lovely floor length dresses, with flowers in their hair.

The bride traveled in a stunning toast brown suit of shantaung, panama hat, white accessories and a corsage of orchids, worn high on her coat's lapel. The bride, decendant of an old southern family is a lovely member of the younger set. She is a graduate of Neville High, where she received the American Legion award, the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizen award and Sigm Sigma, national high school honor society.

An alumnus of Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. she was member of the Purple Jackets, circulation manager of Pow Wow, on the staff of Chatachoula. Following her graduation at the college she became assistant to the registrar. She is a member of Lambda Chi and Delta Beta Sigma sororities and the Young Business Girls club of the YWCA.

Mr. Carver, who served in the European theater, was a prisoner of war in Germany for 18 months. Prior to entering the armed services he attended the University of Illinois and is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now associated in official capacity with the Ross-Hoover Buying company of Kansas City, Mo.

INTEREST OF MONROE FRIENDS CENTERED IN THE MARRIAGE OF MISS CAREY AND MR. DAVIS

Cf widespread interest was the wedding of Miss Mildred Joyce Carey of Downsville, La., daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Victor F. Carey, to Frederick Henry Davis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Davis of Bloomfield, N. J., which was solemnized at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the Downsville Methodist Church. Rev. John W. Davis of Minden, uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with a beautiful arrangement of white gladioli, white daisies, southern smilax, ferns and huckleberry branches. A lovely program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. John W. Davis.

Mrs. Frank C. Thomas, sister of the bride, who served as matron of honor, wore a model of pink crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white daisies.

The groom had as his attendant Mr. George Mitchell. Mr. Fred McFarland, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Jack Carey, brother of the bride, served as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride. The guests were greeted by Miss Sada Carey, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and the wedding party. The living room was lovely with artistic arrangements of blue and pink hydrangeas, Queen Anne's lace and English ivy. In the dining room, feverfew and Queen Anne's lace were arranged on the buffet between white tapers. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, held a three-tiered rose embossed wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom—placed on a large reflector. From white candles in crystal candle sticks, long streamers of white satin ribbon interspersed with gardenias extended to the corners of the table.

Miss Jewell Littleton, cousin of the bride, and Miss Nana James served cake to the guests and Mrs. Collins Lipscomb and Mrs. Willard Dowell, life-long friends of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. These were assisted by Mrs. Aubrey O'Neal, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Durward McFarland had charge of the bride's book.

For traveling, Mrs. Davis chose a green linen suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. The bride and groom will visit points of interest on their way to Bloomfield, N. J., where they will make their home.

The bride is a graduate of Downsville High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. After taching one year at Grand Cane, La., she joined the women's army. Soon after completing the basic training at Des Moines, Ia., she was sent to Oxford, England as foods supervisor in a home for WACs and was later transferred to Nice, France, then to Versailles, near Paris, France. After receiving her discharge, last October, she taught at Ponchatoula, La.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Bloomfield High School and attended Newark, University. He was recently discharged from the army where he served in the European theater. The bride and groom met while both were stationed in England. Mr. Davis is an employe of a New York City bank.

Some of the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Davis, Jr., Bloomfield, N. J.; Mr. George Mitchell, New York City; Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Dent Tisdale, Monroe, La.; Miss Bebe Kilpatrick, Salmon, Idaho; Miss Wilma Tucker, Marion, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey O'Neal, Fairbanks, La.; Mrs. G. C. Pardue, Mrs. Janie Sartor, Mrs. W. T. Sartor and Mrs. John McCoy, Alto, La.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Littleton, Little Rock, Ark.; Miss Jewell Littleton and Mrs. Collins Lipscomb, Ponchatoula, La.; Mrs. Willard and Maralyn Dowell, New Orleans, La.; Miss Nana James, Hammond, La.; Rev. Rassie Littleton and family, De Ridder, La.

A lovely courtesey extended Miss Carey before her marriage was a tea and linen shower given by Mrs. R. M. McGeehee and Mrs. F. S. Hamilton. Beautiful arrangements of hydrangeas and Queen Anne's lace were used throughout the reception rooms. Cake was served to the guests by Mrs. James E. Hamilton and Mrs. Frank C. Thomas presided at the punch bowl. Many guests called between the appointed hours and the guest of honor was presented many gifts of linen.

Mrs. Trion McFarland, assisted by Mrs. Fred McFarland and Mrs. R. H. Hardage, honored the bridal party and other guests with a buffet luncheon preceding the rehearsal. Beautiful arrangements of magnolias were used in the living room where the guests were seated.

Federated Clubs Send Clothing To Children Of Greece

General Federation Club Women have been challenged by their president, Mrs. LaFell Dickerson, to send clothing for 30,000 children in Greece, and plans are being made all over the nation to meet this objective.

As a practical method of doing a definite thing in a short period of time which would reach directly the greatest number of women and children in the shortest time the General Federation decided to work with the "Near East Foundation" on its nationwide appeal to individuals to give a piece of new cloth that can be made into a garment for a child.

The material will be made into garments under the direction of the Near East Foundation by women of Greece who desperately need the work. The finished garments will then be used to clothe the 30,000 boys and girls from six to fourteen years of age who have been selected from among the worse sufferers of the war.

There has been a bond of interest between the General Federation and Near East Foundation and its predecessor Near East Relief for many years going back to the days following World War I, when Near East Relief was responsible for caring for 132,000 orphan children.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, state president of the Louisiana Federation Women's Clubs, will attend the national convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago, June 17 to 22, at this time each state president will announce the number of yards of material collected by her state. Arrangements have been made to ship this cloth from the Stevens Hotel to Greece without delay.

The district presidents will advise all clubs concerning collection of materials. If it is not convenient to send material through your district, mail it directly to General Federation of omen's Clubs, care Column of Cloth for Children of Greece, Hotel Stevens, Chicago, Ill.

MRS. CARL OLSON JR.

Mrs. Olson, a bride of recent date, was formerly Miss Patsy Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Greer of West Monroe.

Mrs. W. A. Ober, of Jones, La., well known in both Morehouse and Ouachita parishes, is ill and confined to St. Francis Sanitarium. Her friends will be notified through the paper as to when they will be permitted to call.

The announcement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Elna Nightengale and Mr. Monroe S. Trimble has been the inspiration for a number of social affairs.

The bride-elect was a lovely figure in aqua blue with corsage of pink roses, as she stood with Mrs. Nora Trimble, mother of the bridegroom-elect, who was becomingly gowned in pink crepe with a corsage of daisies.

Frosted punch with embossed cakes and mints was served in the candle-lit dining room. The table was covered with a lace tablecloth. The central decor was an exquisite arrangement of crimson gladiolus.

An oblong plaque of daisies placed on an oval reflector formed the central decor. Pastel shaded tapers in crystal candelabra burned at either end of the table. Mrs. Nora Trimble presided over the punch bowl. Dainty sandwiches embossed in pink and green were served.

General Federation Club Women have been challenged by their president, Mrs. LaFell Dickerson, to send clothing for 30,000 children in Greece, and plans are being made all over the nation to meet this objective.

As a practical method of doing a definite thing in a short period of time which would reach directly the greatest number of women and children in the shortest time the General Federation decided to work with the "Near East Foundation" on its nation-wide appeal to individuals to give a piece of new cloth that can be made into a garment for a child.

The material will be made into garments under the direction of the Near East Foundation by women of Greece who desperately need the work. The finished garments will then be used to clothe the 30,000 boys and girls from six to fourteen years of age who have been selected from among the worse sufferers of the war.

There has been a bond of interest between the General Federation and Near East Foundation and its predecessor Near East Relief for many years going back to the days following World War I, when Near East Relief was responsible for caring for 132,000 orphan children.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, state president of the Louisiana Federation Women's Clubs, will attend the national convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago, June 17 to 22, at this time each state president will announce the number of yards of material collected by her state. Arrangements have been made to ship this cloth from the Stevens Hotel to Greece without delay.

The district presidents will advise all clubs concerning collection of materials. If it is not convenient to send material through your district, mail it directly to General Federation of omen's Clubs, care Column of Cloth for Children of Greece, Hotel Stevens, Chicago, Ill.

MRS. CARL OLSON JR.

Mrs. Olson, a bride of recent date, was formerly Miss Patsy Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Greer of West Monroe.

Mrs. W. A. Ober, of Jones, La., well known in both Morehouse and Ouachita parishes, is ill and confined to St. Francis Sanitarium. Her friends will be notified through the paper as to when they will be permitted to call.

The announcement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Elna Nightengale and Mr. Monroe S. Trimble has been the inspiration for a number of social affairs.

The bride-elect was a lovely figure in aqua blue with corsage of pink roses, as she stood with Mrs. Nora Trimble, mother of the bridegroom-elect, who was becomingly gowned in pink crepe with a corsage of daisies.

Frosted punch with embossed cakes and mints was served in the candle-lit dining room. The table was covered with a lace tablecloth. The central decor was an exquisite arrangement of crimson gladiolas.

An oblong plaque of daisies placed on an oval reflector formed the central decor. Pastel shaded tapers in crystal candelabra burned at either end of the table. Mrs. Nora Trimble presided over the punch bowl. Dainty sandwiches embossed in pink and green were served.

Besides the hostesses the following were present: Miss Edith Gunby, Mrs. Aarow Culver, Mrs. Ruth Howell, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. F. K. Ham, Mrs. Bessie Fleet, Miss Marguerite Fleet, Miss Jean Harper, Miss Marguerite Wink, Mrs. Florence Shea, Misses Helen and Flora Carr, Mrs. Ann Shea, Mrs. H. Moak.

DINNER PARTY OF BEAUTIFUL APPOINTMENT GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. MURRAY HUDSON

Friends are still discussing the many beautiful prenuptial courtesies showered upon Miss Jean Terzia during her engagement days. The marriage of Miss Terzia and Mr. John Bennett Fudickar was attended by Monroe's social world en masse. This brilliant event was a fitting climax to weeks of elaborate entertaining for this popular couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson's dinner party on the roof of the Virginia Hotel with Fred Hudson III, co-host, was one of the highlights of last week's fashionable events.

Miss Terzia's trousseau models were most distinctive but one of the loveliest was worn on this occasion. It was fashioned with a black lace bodice with bouffant skirt trimmed with immense taffeta bows. At the waistline she wore a corsage of white carnations tied with silver ribbons. Miss Terzia's beautiful mother, Mrs. Fensky Terzia, wore a black chiffon model and Mrs. Hudson wore a pale gray chiffon model with applique design encircling the off-the-shoulder neckline.

Imported champagne was served throughout the four course dinner climaxing with a toast given by Mr. Hudson to Miss Terzia and her fiance, Mr. Fudickar.

Enormous plaques of crimson and white carnations were placed at intervals down the full length of the candlelit dinner table. A bright June moon filtering in from the windows thrown wide to the evening breeze, added a bit of enchantment.

When the dessert course was served a wedding cake embossed with the emblem of the Second division in which Mr. Fudickar served during the war, was placed before him. Below the emblem appeared the words, "Second Division." Toasts were given by several guests while the cake was cut by Mr. Fudickar.

Guests, in addition to Miss Terzia and Mr. Fudickar, were: Mrs. William Nadler, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mr. and Mrs. Fensky Terzia, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Terzia, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Terzia, Miss Anne Carter Johnston and Mr. R. C. White Jr., Miss Gladys Whitfield and Mr. Fred Hudson III, Mr. Paul Fudickar, Mrs. Alfred Bauer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flower of New Orleans, La., Mrs. Paul J. Ward of New Orleans, La., Mr. Louis Milner Jr., Miss Marguerite McHenry and Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pace, Mr. Jack Terzia, Mr. Theo Terzia, Mr. Felix Andrew Terzia Jr., Mrs. Hugh Glasgow.

Miss Ray Knott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Knott, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. John Macuska of Long Island, N. Y., is announced today.

MISS PEGGY STRONG WILL BE ENTERTAINED DAILY UNTIL WEDDING TAKES PLACE

Miss Peggy Strong, bride-elect, has been the central figure at charming prenuptial courtesies ever since her engagement was announced.

Outstanding among the courtesies was the tea given by Miss Marion Simmons and Miss Doris Roe in the Simmons home.

Miss Strong, a lovely blonde, wore on this occasion a red and white imported dotted swiss, and her corsage presented by her hostesses was of California daisies.

The refreshment table, overlaid with a handsome Mosaic cloth, was centered with a crystal bowl of red dahlias and California daisies. White tapers burned in crystal candelabra at either end of the table.

Iced fruit frappe was served from a crystal punch bowl, which was presided over by Miss Helen Ledbetter. A variety of delicious open faced sandwiches and frosted white cakes beautifully embossed were passed on silver trays by the hostesses.

The highlight of the evening was when the "Black Mammy" arrived with a clothes basket of gaily wrapped gifts.

The guests present were: Miss Strong, Mrs. E. M. Strong, Mrs. J. H. Scogin Jr., Mrs. G. B. Folds, Miss Helen Ledbetter, Miss Iva Hammons, Miss Catherine Liles, Miss Betty Lou Alpha, Mrs. B. R. Roe, Mrs. M. L. Simmons, Mrs. Johnie Young, Mrs. C. B. Akin, Miss Joyce Litton, Mrs. J. J. Jones, Mrs. M. L. Coleman Jr., Miss Ruth Yeager, Miss "Dusty" Petterson, Miss Nancy Sutton, Mrs. J. C. Liles, Mrs. Meyer Greenwald.

Miss Zagone Is The Bride Of John Dudich

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity was that of Miss Gussie Zagone and Mr. John Dudich at St. Matthew's Catholic church on June 10 at 3 p. m., Rev. J. C. Marsh, officiating. As guests were being seated in the gladiola banked church, Mrs. D. G. Nichols presented an organ prelude. Mrs. Dudich, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Zagone, wore a smart Joseph Halpert tailleur of navy crepe, faille trimmed, with pink accessories. Her bouquet was a spray arrangement of rosehued carnations centered with white orchids. Miss Marie Zagone, the bride's attendant, carried a similar bouquet of pink carnations. Her dress was a lovely blue print with which she wore navy accessories. Mr. Joe Zagone served as best-man. At the signing of the marriage vows, the beautiful "Ave Maria" was sung by Mr. J. D. Cameron.

Immediately after the wedding, an informal reception was held at the bride's home. The reception suite, highlighted by the bride's table, was a thing of beauty, with multi-colored summer flowers placed throughout. A beautiful, three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. Handsome punch bowls were placed at either end. Luscious individual cakes, mints and canapes were served during the receiving hours.

When Mr. and Mrs. Dudich departed on their honeymoon, the bride was wearing a smart rose gabardine suit with orchid corsage. After an extended trip, the couple will be at home in Akron, Ohio.

Breakfast Party Honors Graduates

Senior Class Of Northeast Junior College Guests Of Dean Rodney Cline

Members of the senior class of Northeast Junior College were extended a gracious courtesy by Dr. Rodney Cline, dean of the institution, when he played the role of a genial host at breakfast on the morning of their graduation.

The college cafeteria was the scene of this special occasion which was characterized by gay fellowship. Intermingled with the happiness of the festive affair was the regret that the two years of campus life which had been filled with academic work and extra activities had come to an end.

Down the length of the tables, decorated with considerable artistry, were graceful sprays of woodwardia fern holding attractive arrangements of sweet peas in pastel shades. Placed at intervals were low crystal bowls which overflowed with pink radiance roses and sweet peas. Artistic place cards especially designed for the occasion developed the pastel theme in floral motifs.

Dr. A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation. Dean Cline, in speaking to his student guests, told them that Northeast Junior College more largely belonged to its alumni and students than to anyone else. Paraphrasing a quotation that reflected the British loyalty to England, he said, "Wherever you go, wherever you are, there will be a little place, N. J. C." With this spirit instilled in the hearts of her former students and graduates, Northeast Junior College will have a full right to pride, he concluded.

The dean pledged in behalf of others to expend every effort to maintain high standards at the college. "It must grow, not parade, with men." Along with the farewell which marks every commencement, Dean Cline expressed the desire that the incoming alumni join others in returning to their campus.

Guests in addition to the graduates included Dr. A. M. Serex, Dr. Stephen A. Caldwell, dean of the junior division and coordinator of junior colleges, Louisiana State University; Judge Edward L. Gladney, Bastrop, and the following members of the N. J. C. faculty and staff: Miss May Read, Miss Ada Bess Hart, Miss Frances Kelso, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl and Mr. A. S. Huffman.

NEW OFFICERS OF BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

Miss Talieaferro Is The Bride Of James M. Newsom

The marriage of Miss Fern Taliaferro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Taliaferro, of Litroe, La., and James Marvin Newsom, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Newsom, of Marion, La., took place at the Marion Baptist Church Sunday, June 9, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The impressive service was performed by the Rev. J. P. Burgess, pastor of the Marion Baptist Church.

Miss Hilda Ellen Landers and Miss Dorothy Jean Gibson, classmates of the bride, wearing white eyelet models and pique hats served as ushers and lighted the candles while Miss Peggy Post, another classmate, at the piano played "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

The altar formed by an arch entwined with clematis and Shasta daisies was banked on each side with Picardy gladioli. In the background baskets of white gladioli were placed. Miss Betty Newsom, sister of the groom, sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly."

To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bride, given in marriage by her father, walked down the aisle. She was lovely in a navy blue street-length dress with white accessories and a corsage of white split carnations. She carried a white leather-bound Bible.

Mrs. Calvin Eudy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a pale blue summer dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Taliaferro, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue ensemble and a corsage of gladioli. Mrs. Newsom wore a black crepe model with Margarette trimming. Her corsage was of pink gladioli.

The bride is a graduate of the Marion High School and has been active in church and school activities.

The groom graduated from the Marion High School and attended Louisiana Tech. He has recently been discharged from the navy where he served in the Mediterranean theater of war.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the groom's parents. The table covered with a Venetian lace cloth was centered with the wedding cake surmounted with bride and bridegroom figurines. Mrs. D. H. Phillips presided over the punch bowl. Mrs. Ernest Payne, dressed in a black sheer and wearing a corsage of Picardy gladioli served the wedding cake. Misses Dorothy Jean Gibson, Hilda Ellen Landers, Betty Jean Newsom and Mrs. Osborn Taunton, aunt of the groom, assisted with dining room courtesies.

Purely Personal

"Attractive visitors from Mangham, La.," Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Booth, will inspire several of the week's parties while spending their honeymoon at the Tatem Hotel. . . . First event for them is the luncheon Mrs. Lloyd Towle will give Thursday at La Gorce Country Club, and Friday night Dr. and Mrs. Herman Boughton will entertain in their honor at a buffet supper in their home, 6601 Brevity Lane, La Gorce Island.

The Booths were married May 24 in a ceremony at the Baton Rouge home of her brother, Dr. Claude Stokes McConnell. . . . She is the former Mary Virginia McConnell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. McConnell of Mangham. . . Mr. Booth was recently released from the air corps as a captain after completion of 55 missions in Europe and the Pacific.

Mrs. Ralph C. Graber, the former Joe Evelyn Bales of this city, recently returned to her present home in New Orleans after being a guest of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Washington, D. C., and New York City.

The occasion was the CBS program "Operation Crossroads" so colorfully reported upon in the June issue of Time Magazine. The highlight of the event for Mrs. Graber was the reunion with an old friend from Louisiana State University, Miss Jane Newton, who participated in the radio show as the representative of young American college women. Guest stars of the program, in addition to Miss Newton, were: Albert Einstein, Vice-Admiral Beandy, Harold E. Stassen, General George C. Kennedy (air forces), Dr. Harold Wrey, Congressman Jerry Voorhies, Senator McMahon, Joseph E. Davies, Mrs. Wendell Willkie and a host of others.

Some of the other exciting events of the trip were breakfast with Mrs. Willkie; talking with Captain Hugh Goodwin, formerly of Monroe, but now stationed in Washington; an after show chat with Mary Martin of the "Lute Song", tickets to the magnificent memory play, "Glass Menagerie"; an after dark jaunt about Greenwich Village; and many pleasant moments spent in meeting old friends from business and college days at L. EACH DAY LAST WEEK WAS MARKED BY PRENUPTIAL COURTESY FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. Lewis Slater's home with its beautiful antique mahogany furniture was a perfect background for the magnolias and pink carnations placed in classic shaped urns Friday morning when she entertained with a coffee hour for Miss Laura Morris Flournoy whose wedding will be a prominent event of the week.

Mrs. Slater was assisted in receiving by her two nieces, Mrs. Evans Ethridge and Mrs. John Ethridge. Others assisting were Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Mrs. David Garrett.

YES MAN

My name is Vernon Adkins. I'm the "Yes" man at Personal Finance Co. . . . that is—I'm the man who likes to say "Yes" to requests for Personal loans.

You see—I'm the manager of our office—the man who's responsible for building up our business. The more times I say "yes" to requests for loans—the more business we do. And since making Personal Loans of $25 to $900 or more is our ONLY business—that's mighty important to me.

Therefore, if you need extra cash at any time—whether a little for a short time or a lot for a long time—you can depend on my doing my best to say "yes" to you.

Next time you can use a loan give me a chance to say "Yes"—won't you? I'll consider it a favor. See me at Personal Finance Co., 2nd floor, 213 Bernhardt Bldg., or phone me at 1288.

MARRIAGE OF MISS PARHAM AND CHARLES M. TILLMAN OF INTEREST TO FRIENDS

Of interest to friends is the marriage of Miss Katherine Hewitt Parham, daughter of Mrs. Maude Parham and the late Henry S. Parham of Mangham, to Charles M. Tillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Tillman of Mangham.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, May 29, in the Mangham Baptist Church with Rev. C. W. Jones officiating. Mrs. C. W. Jones at the piano rendered traditional nuptial music throughout the ceremony. The vows were exchanged in front of an ivy covered alter with tall baskets of hydrangeas, lilies, Queen Anne's lace and fern forming a most picturesque background. The ceremony was performed with only members of the immediate families of the couple present.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, A. P. Parham, looked lovely in an oyster white suit, a small open crown white and tan straw bonnet, and accessories of white and tan. Her corsage was of orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left for a few days in New Orleans, after which they will make their home in Mangham. Mr. Tillman will continue his studies through the summer semester at Northeast Junior College, where he and Mrs. Tillman have been enrolled for the past two years.

The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Franklin of Rayville was open to guests for the recital of Miss Martha Julia Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Haley, and pupil of Mrs. E. B. Green.

Guests were received in the sun room by Mr. and Mrs. Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, and Mrs. Green. Artistic arrangements of sweet peas and magnolias were placed at vantage points, with palms in the background.

Beautiful red and pink radiance roses added their beauty to the parlor and dining room where guests were seated. Others enjoyed the music on the large starlit patio.

The musical selections of the evening were:

Flatterer (C. Chaminade).

Bluette (McDowell).

Tango (Albeniz).

Impromptu A Flat Major (F. Chopin).

Waltz in A Flat (F. Chopin).

May Night (S. Palmgren).

Rhapsody in G. Minor (J. Brahms).

The brilliance of style of the young pianist's playing was applauded by appreciative listeners. Particularly excellent was her rendition of Chopin's Waltz in A Flat, May Night by Palmgren, and the Concerto by Rubenstein. Her interpretation of the melodious May Night in contrast to the brilliant and intricate style of Chopin Waltz revealed unusual talent.

WILL WED IN JULY

INTEREST CENTERED IN THE MARRIAGE OF MISS BENJAMIN AND MR. HALSEY RIVENBARK

A wedding characterized by beauty of detail took place at the Tallulah Trinity Episcopal Church Saturday, at five o'clock when Miss Shirley Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy O. Benjamin, became the bride of Halsey Rivenbark, of Charlotte, N. C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Rivenbark. The Rev. J. Dean Maurer read the rites in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

White gladioli in brass urns and gleaming white candles in brass candelabra adorned the altar and within the chancel white baskets of daisies and of gardenias were intersperced with palms and white floor standards holding cathedral candles. Sprays of English ivy were used effectively above the chancel and over the windows. The acolytes, Robert Maurer and Bob Baily, lighted the candles and Mahns Gould, cousin of the bride, and Shields Bray, served as ushers.

Preceding the entrance of the wedding party Mrs. J. Dean Maurer played "The Swan" by Saint-Saens and "Serenade" by Schubert. The wedding march from Lohengrin by Wagner was played as the processional and Menddelssohn's wedding march for the recessional.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Elizabeth Benjamin, who wore a street length dress of yellow butcher linen embroidered in white with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of daisies. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a powder blue crepe model with white accessories. She carried an orchid on a white prayer book. Walter Benjamin, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Benjamin wore a dress of aqua with a corsage of pink rosebuds.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Pink and blue hydrangeas were placed at vantage points throughout the reception rooms. On one end of the lace covered refreshment table stood the handsomely embossed wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and at the other end the punch bowl, presided over by the bride's sister, Miss Cecelia Benjamin. A low bowl of gardenias formed the attractive centerpiece. Iced punch, wedding cake, nut cookies and mints were served. Assisting with the courtesies were Miss Pat Wallace, who had charge of the bride's guest book, and Miss Mavis Gustafson.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a tailleur of pale pink with which she wore navy accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple left for a short wedding trip and on their return will make their home in Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Rivenbark is a graduate of the Tallulah High School and a commercial school in Bastrop. She has a civil service position in Charlotte. Her husband graduated at Technical High School in Washington, D. C., and received his business training at Lynchburg. He served in the armed forces for five and a half years with overseas service in North Africa. He is employed at the Western Medical Center of the North Carolina Board of Health with headquarters in Charlotte.

A number of out-of-town guests from Denver, Colo., Tensas and East Carrol parishes were in attendance.

Explorers have found some 500 ruins of ancient Indian pueblos on the south and north rims of the Grand Canyon in Arizona. Today four Indian tribes still live in the region of the canyon.

A QUIET CEREMONY UNITES MISS ROSE MARY CHENNAULT AND MR. NORMAN MARTIEN

A quiet wedding ceremony of widespread interest due to the prominence of the bride's parents, took place at the Episcopal Church at Waterproof, La., when Miss Rose Mary Chennault, daughter of General and Mrs. Claire L. Chennault, became the bride of Mr. Norman Martien with Rev. J. Dean Maurer, rector, officiating in the presence of a few intimate friends and the immediate family.

Due to the recent bereavement in the bridegroom's family the guests attending the reception at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony, were limited to members of the family.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon in New Orleans and later will be at home in Waterproof.

An outstanding event was the luncheon meeting of the Tallulah Book Club at which time Miss Blanche Wilson of Sicily Island, newly elected president of the Fifth district Louisiana Federation of Woman's Clubs paid her official visit.

The spacious hall was beautifully decorated with summer flowers. The luncheon tables were centered with bowls of sweet peas.

Mrs. Frank Reid offered the blessing. Piano numbers contributed during the luncheon were rendered by Miss Geneva Rountree, Mrs. J. O. H. n and by request Miss Ann Mallet of Monroe. At the conclusion of luncheon the outgoing and incoming officers assembled in the library. Mrs. E. O. Edgerton, Mrs. D. D. Wood and Mrs. Vernon Thompson played "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Mrs. Albert V. Sevier led in the pledge of allegiance which was followed by the assembly singing of "Dixie" and the national anthem. The winner of the citizenship award, Mrs. Neal T. Holt was presented with a beautiful gift and Mrs. William P. Yerger announced the appointment of Dorothy Darnell as the Book Club representative at Girls' State.

The resignation of Mrs. George Eggleston as vice-president was accepted with regret. Mrs. Neal Holt was unanimously elected to the office. Mrs. E. O. Edgerton installed the following officers: Mrs. E. A. Sparling, president; Mrs. Holt, vice-president; Mrs. John Carpenter, secretary; Mrs. R. S. Gayle, treasurer; Mrs. J. T. Hogan, librarian; Mrs. W. J. Ward, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. D. H. Allen, parliamentarian; Mrs. W. S. Craig, custodian of the building and Mrs. E. B. Schickar, chairman of the Music Club.

Miss Blanche Wilson was presented with a beautiful corsage. She brought greetings and discussed the objectives of the federation in overseas relief and other projects.

Proposed New Building
First Christian Church
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
St. John at Oak Street

Illustrated above is the architects' drawing of the proposed new First Christian Church. The building will be situated on the present building site at the corner of Oak and St. John streets. The lot size is 100 feet by 120 feet.

The building is to be constructed in two units, the first of which will be the main church building or sanctuary. The second unit will be the remodeling of the present structure into the educational and recreational annex, thus incorporating the existing building into the finished project.

The two units will be connected at the rear with one wing of the new educational annex and at the front with a Gothic Cloister, thus providing on open court 40 feet by 46 feet in the center of the completed project which will be appropriately landscaped.

The first unit provides for a Nave 60 feet by 26 feet with a seating capacity of 225. The Chancel is 22 feet deep with the choir and organ stalls on opposite sides. The Communion Table and Baptistry are at the extreme end of the Chancel on the center axis of the Nave. Provisions have also been made for a Pastor's Study, Choir Room, Narthex and Vestibule.

The second unit, when complete, will house all of the Church School departments, recreational rooms, kitchen and various offices.

The building, as designed by the architectural firm of Smith, Padgett and Stubbs, is modified gothic style of brick veneer and stone construction, using steel casement sash with cathedral glass.

Within two years the church plans to begin construction.

Rev. R. T. Watson, Minister

(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
St. John at Oak Street

Illustrated above is the architects' drawing of the proposed new First Christian Church. The building will be situated on the present building site at the corner of Oak and St. John streets. The lot size is 100 feet by 120 feet.

The building is to be constructed in two units, the first of which will be the main church building or sanctuary. The second unit will be the remodeling of the present structure into the educational and recreational annex, thus incorporating the existing building into the finished project.

The two units will be connected at the rear with one wing of the new educational annex and at the front with a Gothic Cloister, thus providing on open court 40 feet by 46 feet in the center of the completed project which will be appropriately landscaped.

The first unit provides for a Nave 60 feet by 26 feet with a seating capacity of 225. The Chancel is 22 feet deep with the choir and organ stalls on opposite sides. The Communion Table and Baptistry are at the extreme end of the Chancel on the center axis of the Nave. Provisions have also been made for a Pastor's Study, Choir Room, Narthex and Vestibule.

The second unit, when complete, will house all of the Church School departments, recreational rooms, kitchen and various offices.

The building, as designed by the architectural firm of Smith, Padgett and Stubbs, is modified gothic style of brick veneer and stone construction, using steel casement sash with cathedral glass.

Within two years the church plans to begin construction.

TERRY

I GAVE YOU THE CORRECT DATE OF THE LAST SHIPMENT! ...IT WAS NOT MY FAULT THAT THE CREW OF THE AIR CATHAY PLANE OUTWITTED YOUR PEOPLE...

I'LL GRANT YOU A POINT THERE! WE SHALL TAKE GREATER PRECAUTIONS ON THIS NEXT 'ARRANGEMENT'!

MEANWHILE...

SO IT'S THE DRAGON LADY! I SORTA THOUGHT WE'D BE SEEING HER WHEN I HEARD WE WERE AGAIN BOOKED FOR THAT BELLY-TANK RUN ALMOST ALL THE WAY TO THE BORDER!

CLAMMER GIRL, HUH? THEY SAY YOU THINK WE SWIPED PART OF YOUR FREIGHT ON THAT LAST GO-'ROUND! ANY COMMENT?

TERRY, WOULD YOU SAY SHE SNEERS BETTER ON THE LEFT SIDE OR THE RIGHT?

AH! HERE COMES CURLY! I BELIEVE IT WAS HE WHO PUT THAT BUG IN MILADY'S EAR ABOUT US CUTTING OUT A HUNK OF HER HOT CARGO!

SAY— WHY DIDN'T I REALIZE IT BEFORE?... THE WAY YOU'RE DRESSED— THAT OBVIOUS TOMMY GUN IN THE CASE —YOU'RE RIDING WITH US!

RIGHT, TERRY! ...MAMMA'S GOING ALONG TO SEE THAT WE BRING THE BACON STRAIGHT HOME FROM THE STORE!

WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME THIS, JOE? DID YOU HAVE FOOD PUT ABOARD FOR OUR DISTINGUISHED GUESTS?

AND SO ARE YOU, TIMBER LINE!

DICK TRACY

YEAH.

CHESTER GOULD

HE WOULDN'T HAVE TO HURT ANYBODY. IN THIS TOWN PICKING POCKETS IS A CRIME.

WELL, YOU CAN TELL ROACH AND ALL HIS BUDDIES I'M STARTING WAR ON THEM TODAY. I'M GOING TO RUN 'EM ALL OUT OF BUSINESS.

HOW IS IT, CHIEF, THAT THESE RATS ARE ABLE TO OPERATE SO SMOOTHLY?

TRACY, I'VE HAD PATROLS OUT FOR 2 YEARS TRYING TO BREAK UP THOSE SIDEWALK RACKETEERS, BUT IT NEVER STICKS.

GET OUT OF HERE, BEAT IT!

AS FOR THIS KID, THEMESONG, ALL WE CAN DO IS TAKE HER HOME.

INCIDENTALLY, WHERE IS YOUR HOME, HONEY?

BUT I'VE PAID UP REGULARLY AND I EXPECT YOU TO GET ME OFF, SHOULDERS.

LISTEN, ROACH, DON'T BE A DUMMY.

I'VE BEEN KEEPING YOU BOYS IN THE CLEAR FOR NEARLY FIVE YEARS. I'VE PUT IN THE FIX WHERE IT WOULD DO THE MOST GOOD.

BUT WHAT CAN I DO WHEN THE CHIEF WITNESS IS A COP — AND OF ALL GUYS DICK TRACY?
